WRIGLEY FIELD, CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Howard Ehmke, of the Athletics, opposed Charley Root, of the Cubs, as the American and National League champions clashed in the first battle of the 1929 world series here this afternoon. Both are veteran righthanders.

The decision of Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, to start Ehmke in preference to George Earnshaw came somewhat as a surprise to the fans.

The inaugural battle brought out a capacity crowd of 51,000. The receipts are expected to reach around $215,000. The game in detail:

FIRST INNING

ATHLETICS—Bishop up. Strike 1, called, outside. Foul, strike 2, behind catcher. Ball 1, high. Ball 2, high and wide. Bishop grounded out to Grimm, unassisted. It was a slow roller.

Haas up. Ball 1, outside. Foul, behind catcher, strike 1. Ball 2, outside. Strike 2, swung. Strike 3, called. Haas fanned.

Cochrane up. Strike 1, called. Ball 1, inside. Ball 2, outside. Foul, behind catcher, strike 2. Ball 3, low. Ball 4, outside. Cochrane walked.

Simmons up. Strike 1, called. Ball 1, outside. Strike 2, called. Simmons fanned on curve ball.

CUBS—McMillan up. Ball 1, inside. Strike 1, called. Ball 2, high. Foul to left field bleachers, strike 2. McMillan fouled out to Cochrane.

English up. Strike 1, called. Ball 1, high. Ball 2, inside. English singled off Ehmke's glove.

Hornsby up. Hornsby flied to Miller. It was close to being a home run. He hit the first pitch.

Wilson up. Wilson flied to Miller on the first pitch.

One hit.

SECOND INNING

ATHLETICS—Foxx up. Foxx singled to left on the first pitch.

Miller up. Strike 1, called. Ball 1, outside. Foul behind catcher, strike 2. Foul behind catcher. Ball 2, outside. Miller missed a curve for the third strike.

Dykes up. Strike 1, called. Foul over third base, strike 2. Ball 1, inside. Dykes singled to left, Foxx stopping at second.

Boley up. Foul behind catcher, strike 1. Ball 1, outside. Boley grounded into a double play, English to Hornsby to Grimm.

Two hits.

CUBS—Cuyler up. Strike 1, swung. Strike 2, swung. Ball 1, outside. Foul behind catcher. Ball 2, inside. Ball 3, inside. Cuyler missed a change of pace pitch for the third strike.

Stephenson up. Ball 1, inside. Ball 2, outside. Strike 1, called. Foul behind catcher, strike 2. Ball 3, inside. Stephenson hit a long foul to right just outside the line. Stephenson was called out on strikes.

Grimm up. Grimm singled to center on the first pitch.

Taylor up. Strike 1, swung. Foul to left, strike 2. Taylor popped to Foxx.

One hit.

THIRD INNING

ATHLETICS—Ehmke up. He was given an ovation. Strike 1, swung. Strike 2, swung. Ball 1, outside. Ehmke hit a foul in third base stands. Ehmke fouled out to McMillan.

Bishop up. Strike 1, called. Ball 1, outside. Ball 2, high. Strike 2, called. Foul behind catcher. Bishop lined to English.

Haas up. Foul behind catcher, strike 1. Ball 1, inside. Ball 2, inside. Ball 3, outside. Strike 2, called. Foul behind catcher. Ball 4, low. Haas walked.

Cochrane up. Strike 1, swung. Foul to left, strike 2. Ball 1, outside. McMillan threw out Cochrane.

CUBS—Root up. Strike 1, swung. Ball 1, outside. Ball 2, outside. Foul to left, strike 2. Root missed a fast ball inside for the third strike.

McMillan up. Strike 1, called. Foul behind catcher, strike 2. Ball 1, inside. McMillan whipped a pretty single to center.

English up. English doubled to right on the first pitch. It was a beautiful drive down the line against the fence, McMillan stopping at third.

Hornsby up. Strike 1, swung. Ball 1, inside. Strike 2, swung. Ball 2, high. Hornsby fanned, missing a fast ball for the third strike.

Wilson up. Foul to right, strike 1. Strike 2, swung. Strike 3. Wilson fanned, missing fast ball for the third strike.

Two hits.

HOOVER, M'DONALD AGREE TO OUTLAW SUBMARINE WAR

TOKIO, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—The British invitation to Japan to participate in a five-power naval conference was published here tonight after its receipt by the foreign office.

The invitation, which is approximately a thousand words in length, reviews the Anglo-American conversations in which it was stated agreement had been reached on the following:

(1)—The Kellogg pact is the starting point of the agreement.

(2) — Anglo-American parity of all naval categories shall be reached by the end of 1936.

(3)—The desirability to reconsider the battleship replacement programs of the Washington treaty of 1922 with a view to diminishing the amount of replacement construction therein implied.

(4)—Total abolition of submarines subject to conference with other naval powers.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—His job well done, Labor Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, ambassador of peace, held his last official conference with President Hoover at the White House and moved back to the British embassy today. He had been the guest of the chief executive since they both returned from their logfire conversations at the Hoover camp on Monday.

The final official talk between the British prime minister and the President lasted an hour, and was more in the nature of an exchange of felicitations on the optimistic outlook for the coming disarmament assembly in London. The sounding of this call to peace was the direct cause of the conversations between these two statesmen.

From today onward, the prime

HOOVER, M'DONALD 'ABSOLUTELY FRANK'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(INS.)—The conversations between President Hoover and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald concerning the broad phases of Anglo-American amity and world peace have been carried on in a spirit "of absolute frankness," Hoover told newspaper correspondents today at the regular Tuesday press conference.

Besieged with questions concerning the trend of his discussions with Premier MacDonald, Hoover waved a deprecatory hand and simply said that together they were searching "for those things that will promote the increase of good will and moral solidarity between the two countries."

"There is nothing that I can report at the present moment on the conversations with the prime minister," said the President.

"These conversations are continuing in the most friendly of atmospheres. We fortunately have no controversies between our countries to be settled. We are, therefore, able to discuss our mutual problems in the long distant view and solely in the broad aspects of human welfare in the largest sense.

"Moreover, we are able to carry out conversations without circumlocution and in absolute frankness, with recognition of the point of view of both sides. Neither of us has anything to reserve. We have to search only for those things that will promote the increase of good will and moral solidarity between the two countries.

"The Prime Minister possesses a wealth of Scotch humor which lubricates any discussion.

"More important than all is the great evidence shown by the press and the American people of genuine friendliness to the Prime Minister of Great Britain and to his people. The demonstration that is in progress is in itself of more importance than any incidental conclusions that he and I might come to on matters concerning our two nations."

Vanishing Legends.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE burial of Stresemann, Germany's truly great statesman, emphasizes the enduring power and common sense of the new German Republic.

There was no military display of any kind. Von Hindenburg, aged president of the republic, walked behind the coffin, followed by the entire diplomatic corps on foot.

THE funeral procession passed under the Arch of the Emperors, built to the glory of the German imperial family and until the war reserved exclusively for Hohenzollerns.

Stresemann was the first commoner whose body ever passed under that arch excepting Friederich Ebert, the Socialist harnessmaker, first president of the German Republic.

Germany belongs now to thinking Germans and to the people of Germany and is managed for their glory and profit.

THE difference between Ramsay MacDonald and some other important men that talk about peace is well expressed by W. R. Hearst in an article welcoming the Labor Prime Minister. Mr. Hearst says of Mr. MacDonald:

"He does not come from the CLASSES that send people to war. He comes from the MASSES who are sent to war."

THOSE that buy whisky from bootleggers were horrified at the decision of a Federal judge holding the bootlegger's customer guilty of conspiring to transport liquor in defiance of law.

A higher court reversed that decision, and bootleg customers, including 75 per cent of our "better element," were comforted.

NOW Senator Sheppard, of Texas, as dry as the deepest spot in Death Valley, suggests amending the Volstead act to make purchasers of liquor as guilty and criminal as bootlegging sellers.

SUCH an amendment, of course, would strengthen prohibition enormously. Respectable prosperity would refuse to buy,

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—The only unlooked-for feature in the transfer of Bill McKechnie, of Wilkinsburg, from the managership of the St. Louis Cardinals to the driver's seat on the Boston National League machine here last night, is the fact that the Wilkinsburg citizen's Hub contract is for four years instead of three, as originally reported, and that it took the parties until 8 o'clock last night to reach an agreement after the whole affair had appeared to be cut and dried early in the day.

McKechnie arrived here yesterday morning and met President Emil Fuchs, of the Boston club, by appointment at the Parkway Hotel. It had been reported since Saturday that McKechnie was to go to

CROWD OF 51,000 AT SERIES OPENER

By JAMES J. LONG,
Staff Correspondent.

WRIGLEY FIELD, Chi., Oct. 8.—With one of the most wildly enthusiastic crowds in world series history in attendance, the curtain rose here this afternoon on the first act of baseball's big annual drama.

The Cubs and Athletics played to a capacity crowd of 51,000 in their struggle for the diamond championship of the solar system.

The weather man completed the seting by providing conditions as close to the ideal for baseball as could be expected at this stage of the fall. It was rather cool, and early comers wore overcoats, but the sun shone brightly.

SPACE AT PREMIUM

A city gone mad over baseball and the prospects of its team in the struggle for the world title reached the climax of its mania in a vast turnout that was limited only by the capacity of the ball park. With the temporary bleachers, seating 8,000, erected at the top of the right and left field walls and extending back over Sheffield and Waveland avenues, the Cubs' yard, it was estimated, would accommodate 51,000

CY YOUNG VISITOR AT PRESS QUARTERS

WRIGLEY FIELD, Chicago, Oct. 8.—A pretty fair pitcher showed up at press headquarters last night. His name is Cy Young and alongside his name are 500 major league victories. Cy looked the part of a prosperous farmer.

Donie Bush and Bill McKechnie met head-on this morning.

"I need a catcher, Donie," remarked Skipper Bill. "Do you think there is a good one in your league that I can get?"

"Well," retorted Bush, "you're coming to a swell place to get one by asking me. Don't you know that my first-string catcher is a shortstop. If there's any catchers loose I'm going to grab them myself."

'FLYING GRANDMA' DIES IN SLEEP AT 103

CHICOPEE, Mass., Oct. 8.—Mrs. Almatta Bennett, who achieved local fame by taking to aviation on her ninety-fifth birthday, died early today, exactly one month after her one hundred third birthday, which was observed with a short flight over a local airfield.

"Grandma" Bennett, as she was affectionately known, passed away in her sleep, her life gradually flickering out from the infirmities of old age.

She first came into prominence on her ninety-fifth birthday when she flew over Portland, Me., in an open plane piloted by Capt. Harry Jones, of Old Orchard. At that time "Grandma" Bennett "made a date" with Capt. Jones to fly with him again on her one hundredth birthday and she kept it. On her one hundred and first birthday she motored to Boston, whence she flew to Old Orchard and Portland. Since that time she had flown three times over the Connecticut Valley from local flying fields. On the last occasion, a month ago, she was piloted by Miss Maud Irving Tait, of this city.

Martin Declines to Run; Malone Supports Kline

Judge Richard W. Martin, runner-up in the recent primary contest for the Republican mayoralty nomination, this afternoon withdrew as Independent candidate.

At the same time, Councilman James F. Malone, the other defeated mayoralty candidate, declared his intention of supporting all the Republican nominees.

This leaves Mayor Charles H. Kline, Republican, and Thomas A. Dunn, Democratic and Good Government, as the principal contenders for mayor.

"Will you be an independent candidate or support an independent candidate at the general election?" Councilman Malone was asked.

"No," he replied, "I was in the Republican primary, made a good clean fight, had the support of thousands of Pittsburghers whose good will I appreciate more than I can express in words. Mayor Kline received a large plurality of the votes and under the spirit of fair play should be supported at the general election. Insofar as I am concerned, I shall support every nominee of the Republican party."

Controller Henry Oliver Evans, defeated for the Republican nomination, today withdrew his name as the nominee of the Prohibition party, saying that his 10 months in office have demonstrated "what a real controller can do for the public good."

Thanking the 48,000 who supported him, Evans said that 47,000 "showed no adequate conception of the needs of the office," adding that 18,000 voted for a mayor and not for a controller and 29,000 others supported Kline methods in the controller's office while opposing them in the Mayor's office.

"If my demonstration brings about any improvement, however slight, in the future conduct of the office, that improvement will compensate me for the treatment meted out to me as a punishment for the good work done while I was controller."

The Good Government ticket, headed by Dunn, was filed this afternoon by Attorney H. Stewart Dunn, a son, and Harry Lutz, secretary of the Democratic committee. It is identical with the Democratic slate with one exception—the addition of Jacob Yeager for Council.

FAYETTE TREASURY 'JUGGLING' CHARGED

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 8.—With County Treasurer J. Q. Adams charged with a misapplication of funds and arrests threatening other officials, Fayette County is on the verge of another sensation as great as the one which centered around the murder of John Donohoe last July 31.

In an information brought by Paul Duggan, of Connellsville, before Justice Thomas Graham, of Dunbar Township, it is charged that the county treasurer misapplied county funds, that moneys which should have gone into the sinking fund were used for general fund purposes. Estimates of his misapplication run as high as $400,000, although no definite amount is stated in the information.

From a reliable source today it is indicated that informations charging irregularities, including payroll padding, are pending, and that at least six other arrests are to be made within a few hours.

Within the last five or six weeks advertisements indicating an expose have appeared in local newspapers over the names of William Lee and G. Orville Rush. These men say they have affidavits to support their claims of gross irregularities in Fayette county and intend to insist upon the punishment of all parties implicated.

METRO PLAN BALLOT THIS FALL UNLIKELY

Resubmission of the Metropolitan Charter plan to the voters at the November election under judicial sanction apparently was made impossible today when the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania refused to entertain jurisdiction of the appeal from the Common Pleas Court.

In an opinion written by Chief Justice Robert von Moschzisker, the lower court was reversed on the ground that it should not have assumed jurisdiction of the case or made any order.

The decision of the Supreme Court was based solely on the point that no subject of a controversial nature was presented. The opinion declared that the County Commissioners "have neither determined to again submit the charter question nor have they refused so to do."

LOBBY INQUIRY STEALS SENATE INTEREST FROM TARIFF

RATE FIXING DISCLOSURE PROMISED

Caraway Determined to Show People How Propagandists Influence Senate Action

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The Senate's sweeping inquiry into activities of congressional lobbies today threatened to steal the spotlight on Capitol Hill from the tedious warfare over the new Republican tariff bill.

A program of procedure for the lobby investigation will be adopted this week, possibly today, by the newly-named committee of Senators Caraway (Dem.), of Arkansas, chairman; Borah (Rep.), of Idaho; Blaine (Rep.), of Wisconsin; Robinson (Rep.), of Indiana, and Walsh (Dem.), of Montana. The investigation will start with the tariff lobby, so that while the Senate debates the bill, the country will be treated to an "inside picture" as to how the rates were fixed.

"We intend to give the country a cross-section of lobby activities," said Caraway. "We will show the American people just how a lobby acts and just what it does. That will be my purpose in this inquiry. We will go after the lobbies, large or small, that have scandalously affixed themselves like parasites on the body of Congress. These pernicious organizations must be driven out of Washington."

ADMINISTRATION LOSES

While great interest centered on the lobby inquiry, the Senate continued debating administrative features of the new tariff bill with administration leaders hoping to reach the rate schedule later in the week. They were ready for their next great political test—namely, the Thomas motion to recommit the whole bill to the Senate Finance Committee with instructions to eliminate all increases in industrial rates.

Republican spokesmen said this motion would be defeated by a large margin.

The administration meanwhile suffered another defeat when the Senate restored an existing provision dealing with the power of appraisers at the various ports of entry. The Republican organization had sought to write a new provision into the bill, giving appraisers the power to invoke United States valuations in levying tariff duties.

HARRISON LEADS ATTACK

A Democratic-Insurgent coalition, by a vote of 44 to 37, struck out this provision and retained the existing law. Under the old provision, the appraisers can fix a United States valuation only on the basis of a "reasonable price at which imported goods are offered for sale in this country."

With this defeat, administration forces sought to hold in the bill another new provision, giving manufacturers and representatives of organized labor the right to appear in cases involving tariff questions, before the United States Customs Court. Senator Harrison (Dem.), of Mississippi, led an attack on this provision, charging the Republicans sought only to embarrass and harrass importers.

Woman's Civic Club To Hold Reception

The Woman's Civic Club of Wilkinsburg will hold a reception on Thursday in honor of the incoming president, Mrs. Harry Walker. The address of the afternoon will be given by Mrs. Mary Thompson Denman and the musical program will be under the direction of Mrs. Bertha Gross King. The social committee, with Mrs. Harry Shuler as chairman and Mrs. William Turner, vice chairman, with their aids, Mrs. John E. Dean and Mrs. Arlington Locke, will have charge of the arrangements for the afternoon.

Wilkinsburg Club Names 1930 Officers

At the organization meeting held in the home of Mrs. H. C. Loudenbock, of Singer place, the Woman's Club, of Wilkinsburg, elected Mrs. W. A. Forrester chairman for the coming year. Mrs. R. T. Kintzing was made assistant chairman and Mrs. E. H. Wells, secretary and treasurer. The program committee is Mrs. R. T. Kintzing, Mrs. J. G. Chalfant and Mrs. W. C. Graham. Tea was served by the hostess.

CALL WRITER IN PANTAGES CASE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—(INS.)—On completion of testimony by W. L. Gordon, the state today called Frederick Taylor Wise to the stand as the second eye-witness to the alleged attack by Alexander Pantages, theater magnate, on Eunice Pringle. Wise, a Hollywood writer, was in the Pantages building when the asserted attack occurred.

Gordon testified he rushed to the rescue of Miss Pringle after she ran screaming from the private office of Pantages.

Defense attorneys endeavored to trap him into contradictions today.

For three hours Eunice herself answered a continuous barrage of questions shot at her by Jerry Geisler, defense attorney. Finally she was forced to appear in the courtroom in the afternoon dressed in the crimson ensemble she wore when she went to the conference room the afternoon of August 9 to seek a booking with Pantages' vaudeville circuit.

Her attire consisted of a form-fitting red crepe dress, red velvet jacket, sheer stockings and red slippers. Thus far in the trial the 17-year-old dancer has worn a plain blue frock and low-heeled slippers. Geisler instructed her to put on the red dress so the jury might contrast the ensemble with the dark dress she has been wearing while testifying.

Attorney Geisler forced Eunice to admit that she had attended several parties with Nick Duneav, Russian playwright, from whom her mother purchased the playlet which she was offering to Pantages in her act.

"And on these gatherings, liquor was served, was it not?"

Objections to this question were sustained by the court and Judge Charles Fricke asserted that Geisler's question was improper.

41 FORD FLIERS AT NEW YORK

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Oct. 8.—(AP.)—The 42 planes participating in the national air tour began hopping down onto this field from Springfield, Mass., shortly after 11 o'clock this morning, being flagged in at one-minute intervals.

Within 40 minutes, 41 planes had alighted, the last of these being the Wright tri-motor. The only one still to come was the Spartan, which got behind yesterday and did not leave with the others from Springfield this morning. It was expected to catch up, however, before the scheduled takeoff for Philadelphia.

Miss May Haizlip, flying an American Eagle biplane, was first to leave the Springfield airport at 10:01 a. m. One minute later Miss Frances Hurrell, in her Moth biplane, left the ground and at similar intervals the remaining planes of the fleet which had arrived here late yesterday from Montreal and Portland, Me., took off. Perfect weather conditions attended the getaway.

HOOVER SPIKES RUMOR MELLON WILL RESIGN

Pittsburgher to Stay Full Term, White House States In Denying Ticker Report

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS
Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—President Hoover, through members of the White House secretariat, has officially and finally put an end to the recurring reports that Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, plans to resign his post as head of the nation's financial affairs.

Such rumors and reports have come forward intermittently in Washington ever since the Hoover cabinet was organized, only to be denied authoritatively in each instance. Never before, however, has the President taken cognizance of the reports, which makes the present declaration all the more unusual.

KEEPS JOB INDEFINITELY

Now it can be stated on authority of the White House that Secretary Mellon not only has no intention of resigning, but, on the other hand, has consented to remain at his post for at least three and a half years longer, or until the expiration of the Hoover term on March 4, 1933. He even may continue longer, depending on Mr. Hoover's re-election in 1932 and the health of the aged treasury official at that time.

The denial of further reports of Mr. Mellon's impending resignation was made at the White House in behalf of the President late yesterday after one of the ticker services had put on its wire a rumor that the secretary's retirement was imminent. Just a half hour before the White House denial, Mr. Mellon himself had something to say about the matter.

"It is evidently the work of busy, idle people," he commented on the reports.

RUMORS SETTLED

Most of the rumors of a Mellon resignation have come from New York, although some of them have been traced to Pittsburgh. In the past there has been a disposition on his part to treat them with little importance, although entering a simple denial in each case. Yesterday furnished the first instance where they have been dignified with a White House statement, the denial being coupled with the comment that "it ought to settle these resignation rumors."

COSTE AWAITS FUEL FOR HOP

PARIS, Oct. 8.—(INS.)—With a new non-stop distance record and a series of adventures in the wilds of Manchuria behind them, Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, famous French airmen, plan to leave Tsitsihar, Manchuria, today or tomorrow on the second leg of their long journey.

Dispatches from the French consul at Mukden revealed that Coste and Bellonte had established a new record of more than 5,900 miles, paling into insignificance the old record of 4,448 miles set by the Italian airmen Arturo Ferrarin and Carlo Del Prete in their flight from Rome to Brazil last year.

The long delay encountered by the airmen in getting news to the world that they had shattered all previous records has now been explained by the fact they were held prisoners by Chinese forces who feared they were Russian spies sent to reconnoiter over Manchurian territory. Almost a week passed before the Chinese learned their "captives" were the world-famous aviators.

The fliers are awaiting a new fuel supply before taking off for Tokio.

CY YOUNG IN PRESS BOX

"A Buck on Leave," in the A. E. F., is broadcasting the world series games from the press box. Pat is doing his stuff over station WGN.

The permanent and temporary bleachers were filled early in the day, barring one corner in deep left, from which point the view appeared to be not so good. The lineup for these unreserved sections and standing room tickets began to form as early as noon yesterday and it lengthened rapidly until several thousands were in the long queues before ticket windows evidently looking upon the hours of waiting during the night as a lark rather than an ordeal.

At the head of one of the lines were three women. One of them had brought a portable radio and entertained the waiting ticket-seekers by tuning in on one station after another.

Two boys captured the first two places in another line. They were Fred Seibel, from Jefferson Park, and Jimmy Walsh, of Avondale, 15 and 16 years old, respectively. They came provided with gunny sacks to serve as blankets and stretched out full length after midnight to sleep.

Off in a different direction, Robert Hatt, of Chicago, and J. H. Sidle, of Newark, O., met in line and by the light of candles played checkers to while away the time, while others looked on at the game and handed out the usual sideline coaching and advice.

Hot dog vendors did a brisk business, so flourishing in fact that a war "broke" out soon after midnight, with the result that Bert Lewis, traveling secretary of the Cubs, and Raymond Kleip, manager of the park concessions, were arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct when they attempted to drive away refreshment sellers who were not connected with the park organization.

The world series setting was made official and complete when One-Eye Connolly bobbed up in the second tier of the grandstand at 12:10 and announced that he had kept up his gate-crashing average by crawling between the iron railings near the entrance while a gate man's head was turned. "It was easy," he said.

Al Simmons hit one over the left field fence in the batting session, his drive going into the temporary bleachers that were built on a busy street. The city gave the local management permission to close the street during the period of the series.

Steve Swetonic, Ervin Brame and Johnny O'Connell are among those present.

"It's a great series, but I'm going home darn soon if I cannot make a trade or two," said Bill McKechnie.

Donie Bush also is looking on. Donie also is in the market for a swap or two.

FALL STORY MAY REACH RECORDS

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Condition of Albert B. Fall, on trial on charges of bribery, became worse today and he was excused from court before the opening statements were concluded. The jury was excused while Fall was helped out.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—A possibility that the deposition given by Albert B. Fall in the Sinclair conspiracy case, but never put into the court records, might be made public during the current Fall trial for bribery was seen today when W. B. Bull, United States commissioner of El Paso, Tex., appeared at the trial as a government witness.

Bull took the 10,000-word document at El Paso a year and a half ago when attorneys for Harry F. Sinclair insisted Fall's testimony was essential to Sinclair's defense.

Fall's health at that time would not permit him to come to Washington to testify.

FALL APPEARS STRONGER

At today's session Fall appeared stronger than yesterday and for a time stood at the door smiling before taking his seat.

Owen J. Roberts, special government counsel, commenced his opening statement as soon as the jury entered the box. He went into details of the Naval Oil Reserve No. 1 at Elk Hills, Cal., in connection with which the government charges Fall, then Secretary of the Interior, accepted a bribe of $100,000 from Edward L. Doheny, wealthy oil operator, for awarding him the lease.

Roberts said the government would show that the $100,000 passed with the intent to influence Fall's action on the lease.

When the prosecutor said the government would prove that at the time the Doheny negotiations were going on similar dealings were under way between Fall and Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate, an objection to bringing up the Sinclair case was made by Frank Hogan, of defense counsel. His objection was upheld.

FRIENDSHIP REVIEWED

Hogan in opening his statement said it would be shown there was no basis for the bribery charge against Fall.

After reviewing the friendship of Fall and Doheny which began when they were young men in the West, Hogan reviewed the incident which he said led up to the $100,000 loan. The two met here, he said, and Fall outlined his "dream" of acquiring the Harris ranch next to his in New Mexico.

Doheny, he told the jury, without a word from Fall offered to lend him the money he needed to carry out his plan. Fall declined the offer at the time, he asserted, saying he could get the money elsewhere.

Fall, continued Hogan, received $100,000 in checks from Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, but something that McLean said caused Fall to believe the loan would work a hardship on the publisher and he telephoned Doheny asking for the loan in cash, as he was leaving for New Mexico the next day and believed he could get better terms if he had cash.

The next day, he added, Doheny's son brought the cash to Fall in Washington, reaching here November 30, 1921, and receiving Fall's note for the money.

Doheny bowed his head at mention of his son, who was killed in Los Angeles by his secretary several months ago.

Protest to Senate Terms Graham 'Too Dry'

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Louis E. Graham, of Beaver, is "too dry" to be a satisfactory United States district attorney for Western Pennsylvania, according to a complaint received by Senator Norris, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee. This has held up but hardly more than blocked temporarily Graham's confirmation by the Senate.

In fact this is the only protest that has been received against the candidate, but according to precedent, Chairman Norris appointed a sub-committee, consisting of Senators Gillette, Massachusetts; Hastings, Delaware, Republicans, and Overman, North Carolina, Democrat, to read the letter of protest and after consideration to report to the full committee.

Norris, who is himself an ultra-dry, does not take the protest seriously, stating that it was the only protest made, while he had received numerous letters from various civic organizations in Western Pennsylvania approving of Graham. Norris, in forwarding the letter of protest to Senator Overman, said he did not remember the author by name.

Senator Gillett today declined to make public the letter. He said he was carrying it around "in my pocket." He indicated the committee might give out the sender's name.

Senator David A. Reed, of Pittsburgh, who effected Graham's appointment, did not attach sufficient importance to the letter to ask the name of the sender.

It is expected that the sub-committee will report favorably upon Graham and that the full committee will take similar action, with confirmation by the Senate assured.

Girl Daredevil Loses Her Nerve Before Stern Judge

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Joan La Coste, successful dare-devil of the auto race track, who last week was arrested in an attempted robbery with a toy pistol and a chloroform-soaked handkerchief, lost her nerve completely and fainted in court when she was ordered to the grand jury in $25,000 bond.

Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Carver of Memphis, Tenn., who three years ago possessed the steel nerve to enable her to drive an automobile 145 miles an hour at Daytona Beach, Fla., was unable to control her emotions when arraigned before Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli.

Miss La Coste was arrested Thursday when she attempted to rob Mrs. Rebecca Bobbe, who resisted and brought about her assailant's downfall.

"But—don't you see—" Joan pleaded in court. "I had bad breaks. I was broke—and I thought Mrs. Bobbe had so much more than she needed."

Sobbing, Joan told how she came to Chicago last November with $1,400 prize money, how continual illness dissipated the stake and left her a few nights ago with only $5.

"I never did anything like this before," she told the judge. "I never did. All I want is another chance. I'll go straight. I'll never do it again!"

"You deserve no more consideration than a man," said the court. "Your assault on Mrs. Bobbe was cruel and unprovoked."

Word came from Memphis that Joan's parents and relatives have rallied to her aid and that her sister was on her way to Chicago.

LONGWORTHS SHUN M'DONALD DINNER; SOCIAL WAR GROWS

MRS. GANN SITS NEAR HOOVER

'Princess Alice' Arrives in Capital 'Too Late' for Prime Minister's Fete

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—An armed truce prevailed in social Washington today following the most brilliant function since Queen Marie of Rumania's visit some years ago at the White House.

Although at the state dinner given by President and Mrs. Hoover in honor of Prime Minister MacDonald and his daughter, Ishbel, there was apparent harmony after Mrs. Edward E. Gann had accepted a seat on the left of the President in favor of Lady Isabella Howard, wife of the British ambassador, it was freely predicted that the Curtis-Gann-Alice Longworth war would be resumed during the winter.

MRS. LONGWORTH BACK

Mrs. Longworth, daughter of a President and wife of the speaker of the House, returned to the capital at 10:30 o'clock last night, purposely delaying her arrival beyond the hour set for the Hoover dinner.

"Will you attend the dinner to Prime Minister MacDonald at the British Embassy?" she was asked.

"I don't know. I have not yet opened my mail," was the reply.

CURTIS RETAINS RANK

Miss Ishbel MacDonald was seated beside James C. McReynolds, associate justice of the Supreme Court, and referred to as "Washington's most eligible bachelor."

The seating arrangement, held secret until today, revealed that although Vice-President Curtis waived all rights of second ranking lady for his half-sister and official hostess, Mrs. Gann, in favor of Lady Isabella, he himself did not relinquish his social rank to the British ambassador.

Following is how the ranking guests were seated:

At the President's right: Lady Isabella Howard, Secretary of State Stimson, Miss Ishbel MacDonald, Justice J. C. McReynolds.

At Mrs. Hoover's right: Vice-President Curtis, Mrs. Vincent Massey, wife of the Canadian minister.

By consent of Vice President Curtis, Lady Isabella Howard was taken in by the President, and Mrs. Gann by Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador. Curtis escorted Mrs. Hoover, and Secretary of State Stimson took in Miss Ashbel. The Chief Justice and Mrs. W. H. Taft had been invited, but declined, as they do not go out in the evening.

WAR IN FUTURE

That, together with the declination of Speaker and Mrs. Longworth, simplified somewhat President Hoover's problem. But the fact remains that "Princess Alice" has determined not to accept any invittions during the winter where "Dolly" Gann will be seated above her.

One phase of the controversy raging around Mrs. Gann, which the State Department's protocol division apparently overlooked with regard to her social status, was that Secretary of State Stimson, himself, has made secure where she shall sit at American functions. Until now "Dolly" was only assured first place at the homes of diplomats by grace of the decision announced by Sir Esme Howard.

STIMSON DIPLOMATIC

Stimson announced a hands-off policy. But the Vice President did some fast thinking. He formally notified Stimson that he waived his step-sister's "rights" to precedence solely for the Hoover dinner. Stimson announced it and used the Vice President's own words, and according to the social arbiters, thereby put the official stamp of approval of the Curtis-Gann contentions.

Nevertheless, last night's function was one to be remembered. The distinguished Britishers who accompanied the MacDonalds were there; the entire Hoover cabinet, the Canadian minister and Mrs. Massey, the Irish minister, leaders of both parties in Congress, and high ranking Army and Navy officers. Two former secretaries of state, Charles E. Hughes and Frank B. Kellogg, and former ambassador to Great Britain, Alanson B. Houghton, were also among the guests.

NAVAL TERMS REVEALED

minister is scheduled to meet the President only in a social way, and the future contribution to the cause of peace by the premier during the remainder of his stay in America will be more or less psychological. The MacDonald party will go to Philadelphia Thursday and then will make a brief visit in Canada before sailing home.

The President and the Prime Minister parted soon after breakfast. Mr. Hoover went to his office for an early conference with Secretary Stimson regarding the reply to the British invitation to attend the naval limitation conference at London in January.

PREMIER CONFERS

After reaching the embassy Mr. MacDonald conferred with British officials who accompanied him to the United States and attended to an accumulation of official business. Miss MacDonald drove to the library of Congress to hear a program of southern Negro and Kentucky folksongs. Later in the day she planned to view the art collection of Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon.

Mr. MacDonald, accompanied by Sir Esme Howard, visited the Washington Cathedral. In the crypt is the tomb of Woodrow Wilson. MacDonald stood with bowed head before the tomb.

As far as the eye and the ear of the outside observer could discern, the mission of the Labor Premier has been crowned with success.

ACCEPT INVITATION

The United States today accepted the invitation from the London foreign office for a five-nation naval disarmament conference in the British capital next January.

While the official American acceptance and those of France, Italy and Japan have not been officially announced, the matter was considered merely a question of diplomatic transmission.

An impetus toward a favorable atmosphere at the disarmament round table was contributed by the Prime Minister's dramatic address to the American Senate, in which he promised parity in naval armaments between Great Britain and the United States.

Referring to the mutual understanding on this subject which he and President Hoover had arrived at before their log-fire in the Hoover camp over the week-end, Prime Minister MacDonald said:

"Parity? Take it, without reserve, heaped up and flowing over. That was the only condition under which competitive armaments could be stopped, and we could create a public psychology which could pursue the fruitful and successful avenues of peaceful cooperation."

AGAINST ALLIANCES

The Premier also pledged himself against alliances between Great Britain and other countries and declared that war between his country and the United States was "unthinkable." He added later on that it was "absolutely impossible."

The address, a blend of idealism, frankness, forcefulness and the impassioned creed of a statesman pacifist, was greeted with enthusiasm by leaders of both political parties in the Senate.

This dramatized diplomacy of MacDonald drew a tumultous ovation from the floor. Afterwards, the address was seen as bringing the two great English-speaking nations even closer together and paving the way for world peace.

In addition, from all over the country telegrams were being received today by legislators from constituents and civic organizations praising the Senate speech of the British Premier.

DICTATES NOTES

Following the Prime Minister's visit to Congress, he had luncheon with the President and then retired into the east study of the White House to dictate memoranda concerning the coming disarmament conference to two secretaries.

Meanwhile, President Hoover was occupied with similar business in his own study. Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson joined the President later to discuss the text of the reply to the London conference invitation.

Toward evening, MacDonald and President Hoover met for their last official conference. The President congratulated the Premier on his address to the Senate.

The high light in today's program will be the diplomatic dinner to be given the Prime Minister. If time permits, the MacDonald party will also be taken to Mt. Vernon and Arlington.

WALKER DENIES $2,000 LOAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Mayor James J. Walker today gave a negative answer to an inquiry by Richard E. Enright, mayoralty candidate of the Square Deal Party, as to whether the Mayor had borrowed $2,000 from the proprietor of the Central Park Casino in the middle of the night.

Enright, who was police commissioner under Mayor Hylan, made his inquiry concerning the loan in a statement criticizing Mayor Walker for leasing the Casino for $8,000 a year to Sidney Solomon to be operated as a high-priced restaurant and dance resort.

"I would like to ask if he borrowed $2,000 from the proprietor of this place in the middle of the night a few weeks or a month ago and had it sent over to the Ritz-Carlton where he was holding a prayer meeting," Enright said. He explained that by "prayer meeting" he meant a crap game.

Young Men Taking Older Brides, Review Shows

LONDON, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—A large number of marriages between youths and women of mature years is one of the oddities in the registrar's review for 1928. A score of men aged 20 married women of 30, and a like number of men of 22 married women between 40 and 51 years of age.

The most popular marrying age appears to be 23. The number of divorces last year, 4,018, was the highest on record.

Butler's Crippled Children Aided

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 8.—Forty crippled children were examined in the Community Building yesterday afternoon by Dr. C. C. Yount and Dr. M. Deroy, of Pittsburgh. They were assisted by eight state and industrial nurses of Butler district. The clinic was sponsored by the Butler Rotary Club, which has helped about 200 children and expended more than $3,000 within five years.

ITALY FAVORS SUBMARINES

ROME, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—An accord between England and America on naval affairs will be greeted in Italy by "adhesion and with reserve," the influential newspaper Giornale d'Italia said today.

It adds that although Italy desires peace and limitations of armaments, she will have something to say about submarines.

The newspaper considers submarines a defensive arm necessary for nations like Italy, which have a long coast line to guard and insufficient finances to protect it with many costly surface vessels.

PARIS, Oct. 8. — (AP.) — The French foreign office announced today it had had no opportunity yet to examine the British invitation to a five-power naval conference and that France's answer to the invitation would depend upon its contents.

Homestead Splits On Rail Crossings

Representatives of Homestead Council last night failed to agree with plans for the elimination of grade crossings in the borough as approved by county officials and representatives of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie and Pennsylvania railroads. The plans as presented would call for the expenditure of $2,500,000.

MEET AGAINST AIMEE CALLED

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—(INS.)—Internal strife within Angelus Temple and the Four Square Gospel Lighthouses, Inc., is expected to reach a climax Thursday following an order sent to the 10 district superintendents of the organization to meet here on that day, it was disclosed today.

The conference was called by the Rev. John Goben, former Des Moines, Ia., evangelist and general superintendent of all the Aimee Semple McPherson organizations. It will consider, according to the Rev. Mr. Goben, the "un-Christian element which has crept into Aimee Semple McPherson's life and work."

Mrs. McPherson is reported to have wired the ministers not to attend the conference.

"But they have told me they will follow my instructions," the Rev. Mr. Goben said.

He declared that the by-laws under which the Angelus Temple and other religious organizations are now operating have never been approved by Frank Jordan, secretary of state. The by-laws make Mrs. McPherson the sole power in the church, he said.

Curtiss Officials To Visit Airport

Officials of the Curtiss Airport Corporation were to inspect Bettis Field today in connection with expansion plans of the company which will mean an expenditure of about $1,000,000. The company operates fields at St. Louis, Houston, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Alameda, San Mateo, Chicago, Milwaukee and Cleveland. The inspection party was to arrive in a special car over the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Dry Agents Seeking Prisoner Just Freed

STEUBENVILLE, O., Oct. 8.—Two hours after Charles Leppert, 42, had paid a fine of $500 for violating prohibition laws and had been released from jail, state dry agents who discovered him unloading an auto of liquor, which was confiscated, Leppert, however, escaped in another machine.

Club Building Destroyed by Fire

ROCHESTER, Pa., Oct. 8.—A frame building in North Rochester occupied by the Marconi Club, was destroyed by fire, believed to have been of incendiary origin, firemen say. This was the second fire in the clubhouse during the year. The home of Phillip Deluca, next door, was scorched.

RUM BUYING PENALTY BACKED

Drys and Some Wets Support Sheppard Plan; Curran Charges 'Nullification'

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—A new dry law—termed the final step in prohibition—attracted warm support and bitter opposition in Congress today.

Sponsored by Senator Morris Sheppard, Texas Democrat, often called "the father of prohibition," the measure would make the purchase of intoxicating liquors punishable by a prison term. Technically, the bill, introduced by Sheppard as an amendment to the national prohibition statutes, would make the purchase of liquor a felony.

DRYS BACK BILL

The drys want the bill enacted as the closing chapter of a crusade dedicated to the complete eradication of alcohol as a beverage.

Those wets who support the measure do so because they believe it will prove so stringent, will so tighten legislative strings on the liquor traffic as to sweep the nation with rebellion resulting in eventual repeal or modification of the present dry laws.

Sheppard said he counted on the votes of both wets and drys to enact the bill. He conceded that it was stringent, termed it the logical completing step in prohibition and expressed the opinion that it would be supported by the nation and bring actual enforcement.

NULLIFICATION—CURRAN

Shepard's proposal was described today by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment as one which would "nullify" the Eighteenth Amendment.

That view was set forth in a statement by Henry H. Curran, president of the associaton.

"The place to put a prohibition of purchase is in the Eighteenth Amendment, after which it will be time enough to talk about putting it into the Volstead act," Curran asserted.

"Congress left it out of the Eighteenth Amendment deliberately. Congress cannot put it into the Volstead act now without nullifying the amendment on which the Volstead act is based."

"I believe the nation can be made bone dry," Sheppard told International News Service today. "This law, if enforced, will do the work. It will clarify the prohibition issue in this country and leave no indefinite ground. And I believe the forces for prohibition will win. I expect the bill to be enacted."

Senator Walsh (Dem.), of Massachusetts, announced he would fight the proposed amendment.

"I am opposed to this amendment as I am opposed to the Volstead act," Walsh said. "There is only one good thing about it. That is its extreme character. If enacted, it may arouse the American people to a realization of the dangerous and unsound character of the entire Volstead law."

BORAH FOR PLAN

Other Senators expressed various opinions, but all pointed out that the measure "really would clarify the prohibition issue and make it an open and shut proposition."

Senator Thomas J. Walsh(Dem.), of Montana, asserted the measure would be beneficial.

"I'm for it," he said. "I would make the buyer equally guilty with the seller."

Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, said that on general principles he "didn't see why the purchaser shouldn't be punished as well as the seller."

"My opinion is," he added, "that he is equally guilty with the seller, despite a contrary opinion by the court. I think such a provision as suggested by Senator Sheppard might help bring better enforcement of prohibition."

Dormont Woman Speaks on Blind

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 8.—Mrs. Mabel O. Taylor, of Dormont, gave a talk to the Butler Woman's Club yesterday afternoon on "Sightless Seeing." Mrs. Taylor, who is sightless, explained work being done to aid the blind. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Oesterling, of Summitt Township, and a sister of City Treasurer Victor K. Oesterling.

Theft Suspect Won't Tell At Trial, Gets 6 Months

Surly answers on cross examination today brought down the court's wrath on Robert Kitzinger, one of two defendants on trial in Criminal court in the $10,000 Tech Food Products company payroll robbery.

"I sentence you to serve six monts in jail and to pay a $500 fine for contempt of court," pronounced Visiting Judge J. Frank Graff, of Armstrong County, addressing Kitzinger.

Kitzinger, on the witness stand, failed to satisfactorily answer questions by Assistant District Attorney Earl R. Jackson.

Robert Wallace, a defense witness, of Washington, Pa., was detained at the noon recess while county detectives rushed to Washington to check up on his testimony that John B. Sloan, a second defendant, was with him on the day of the robbery, July 29, in Washington.

"I know who took part in the robbery, but I am honor bound not to tell," Sloan testified.

"You mean you are honor bound among the thieves with whom you associate," Assistant District Attorney Jackson asked on cross-examination.

"I am honor bound among my associates," Sloan replied.

Sloan denied the charges against him and insisted he was "miles away when the robbery took place."

Joseph Maloney, of Crafton, and A. L. Hufnagle, of McKees Rocks, indicted with Sloan and Kitzinger in connection with the holdup, pleaded guilty yesterday.

Hufnagle turned state's evidence, but Maloney refused to do so and was remanded to jail to await sentence. Hufnagle will also be sentenced later.

Lindy Locates Maya Ruins Long Sought by Science

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Discovery of Maya ruins, believed never before seen by white man, was reported by the radio operator aboard Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's plane flying in the vicinity of Lake Yaxha, British Honduras, in a message to Pan-American Airways' base here today.

After reporting the takeoff from Belize on the third trip of the joint Carnegie Institute-Pan American Airways scientific exypedition, and a landing and takeoff at Lake Yaxha, Radio Operator William Ehmer broke his routine message with:

"Flash—We have discovered regular ruins now — circling them. Scientists all het up."

Ehmer promised details soon.

BELIZE, British Honduras, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, seeking ancient Maya ruins, yesterday brought his giant plane down with rare skill in the midst of the Yucatan jungle on a small lucid green-watered pool.

He and his bride inflated a rubber boat and, chopping their way through reeds and underbrush with machetes, made their way to shore, where they looked for ruins and relics of the lost Maya civilization.

Alligators, with which the lake was infested, kept a respectful distance. On the way back from a hill he had searched to the plane Col. Lindbergh spotted one alligator slipping away, apparently much frightened at the man-made bird which had dropped down on its lair.

While they were ashore, Mrs. Lindbergh served her husband, the two scientists who were with them, and the plane's radio operator, with a typical field lunch, consisting of raisins, bananas and crackers.

Cult Suspected in Girl's Death Sued for $44,000

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—The weird affairs involving "the divine order of the royal arm of the great seal," which came to light with the finding of the body of 16-year-old Willa Rhoads, buried at the home of her foster parents here, were further complicated today by civil suits against members of the cult filed by Clifford R. Dabney, oil operator.

The filing of five suits against Mrs. May Otis Blackburn and other members of the cult, seeking the return of $44,000 as well as an oil lease and 164 acres of Ventura County land, was disclosed yesterday while police investigated the death of the Rhoads girl and ran down reports that many members of the religious order had disappeared in the course of its operations.

Criminal charges of embezzlement, sworn to by Dabney and Mrs. Nellie R. Banks, of Indianapolis, previously caused the arrest of Mrs. Blackburn and her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Weiland Rizzio, "priestesses" of the organization.

Dabney, in his civil suits, said he and other cult members advanced money to Mrs. Blackburn pending completion of her book, "The Sixth Seal," which was to reveal, by use of "the lost measurements," mineral wealth beneath the earth's surface.

Police placed a guard at the home of Dabney as a result of death threats reported received by him.

The body of Willa Rhoads was held by the county chemist pending an examination to determine the cause of death. Her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Rhoads, said the girl died in 1925 of diphtheria. An autopsy failed to reveal the cause of death and a chemical analysis was ordered.

Mr. and Mrs. Rhoads are held as material witnesses.

fearing jail, and blackmail after buying.

But Senator Sheppard's amendment probably will not pass, many legislators are themselves bootleg customers and don't believe in taking prohibition too seriously.

NICHOLAS WEINAND, 84 years old, a member of Chicago's fire department when the city burned, says Mrs. O'Leary's cow had nothing to do with the fire, and nobody knows how it started.

Pleasing legends are attacked, but survive attack.

William Tell never shot an apple off his son's head, but the story has been useful, causing millions to take an interest in struggles for freedom.

The boy did not stand on the burning deck, George Washington did not cut down the cherry tree, or say that he could not tell a lie.

THOMAS E. MITTEN, recently drowned, had reorganized Philadelphia's street car system, establishing good relations with labor.

His will leaves millions for "the promotion and advancement of the cause of co-operation between capital and labor."

Rather a difficult program, even with several millions back of it.

Labor wants from capital a fair share of what they produce, and doesn't always get it.

Capital wants from labor earnest co-operation, a real day's work, and doesn't always get it.

Peace between capital and labor is an issue even more important than peace among nations, since it refers to a war that is always on.

PRESIDENT WILLIAM GREEN asks the American Federation of Labor "to unionize the South." He urges all organizations to make definite provisions for work in the South.

The notion that the South everywhere objects to labor unions and welcomes Northern capital is denied by Clark Kinnard, editor of Edenton, North Carolina. He says:

"Mill owned by Northern capital, employing 1,000 persons, is no advantage to a town. The workers paid $12 a week, work 12 hours a day. They have only $12 a week to spend, which means that they do not contribute to the prosperity of the town. The money that the mill makes for the owners is spent, not in Edenton, but at Palm Beach, Newport, Paris.

"The mill workers are not home owners, they do not pay taxes. Yet they have numerous children to be educated at public expense.

"Many mills have been offered exemption from taxes, which means that they contribute nothing to the expense of maintaining fire, police and sanitary facilities.

"These mills wear out their labor early, and so the town acquires an increasing burden in worn out poor.

"Ninety per cent of the charitable cases in Edenton are in the mill village."

MR. KINNARD says in the Edenton "News," "that ten good farmers, owning their own homes, and practicing diversified agriculture, are more of an asset to the community than 200 mill workers."

WALL street, which recovered from its attack of nerves on Saturday continued cheerful yesterday. Prices went up again, and money was "cheap" lending to speculators at 6 per cent.

Big concerns that have created investment trusts and that boast of gigantic profits know that falling stocks would mean their destruction. They don't want that.

WILL REOPEN PERRY LINK

The new link of the Perry highway between Pittsburgh and West View, which has been completed to a width of 20 feet, will be opened to traffic Thursday, according to announcement.

This will permit two-way traffic while an additional 10-foot width of concrete is laid to complete the highway. The thoroughfare will be finished by November 15, it is expected. The new highway connects with West View at the eastern portal by means of the old Perry highway.

Weather Conditions.

There is a low pressure area in the far Northeast, and low barometer covers the country west of the Rocky Mountains. The entire country from the Atlantic to the Rocky Mountains is under a high pressure area, centered over the northern plains. The skies are clear from the central plains to the Atlantic coast, and frost was quite general in the Ohio Valley states, the lake region, and in Iowa and Wisconsin. The rainfall was limited to the Rocky Mountains and westward, the far Northeast and at Miami, Fla. Freezing temperatures occurred over the Canadian Northwest and over the Border states.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling. Stage at Franklin is 1.8 feet; Lock No. 7, 12.4; Pittsburgh, 12.1; Dam No. 2, 9.4; Dam No. 3, 9.0; Dam No. 9, 8.2, and Dam No. 12, 11.3. All dams except No. 3 are up. No. 3 will be raised today.

SUFFERED UNTOLD MISERY

"Finally a Ground Gripper salesman showed me what was wrong and fitted me with the correct shoes to help my feet. Now the pain is gone and my arches are almost normal again."

Normal Arch

No longer need you suffer the handicaps which come from pain-wracked feet. Ground Gripper shoes end your foot troubles.

Only Ground Grippers combine the following vital principles of the correctly built shoe:

1. The Flexible Arch, which allows the foot muscles to exercise and thus strengthen themselves with every step.

2. The Straight Inner Line, which permits the toes to function with a free, gripping action.

3. The Patented Rotor Heel, which helps you toe straight ahead, the normal, natural way.

MEN'S WEEK AT HORNE'S

THE "AUGUST" OVERCOAT SALE BEGINS TOMORROW

$28.50

$48.50

This is an instance of the mountain coming to Mohammet. The August Overcoat Sale, which for ten years has been successful in persuading tens-of-thousands of men and youngfellows to choose their Winter Overcoats in Midsummer, now adjusts its time to the convenience of the customer, and offers its values at the very door of the Overcoat season.

This Sale, heretofore, has been held out of season because the merchandise is produced out of season . . . a circumstance which is an important factor in making possible these values.

The woolens are purchased, also at favorable times---in the piece, at the mills . . . another factor in the substantial savings represented in each coat. A goodly number are choice imported woolens, for which we make a special trip abroad. The coats are made to our order and are Horne standard in every respect--every one is a this-season's model. Nothing is left to be desired in patterns, colorings, or sizes. This annual Sale is generally recognized as the biggest event of its kind in the country, and the values fully substantiate this reputation.

Materials:

Fleeces, herringbones, whitneys, Scotch tweeds, plaids, checks, cheviots . . . strictly all-wool fabrics.

Colors:

Every desirable color, from very light grays and tans in lightweight English coats (warm, without weight) to conservative browns, dark grays and plain blues and blacks.

Models:

Single-breasted box, double-breasted box, ulsters, single-breasted raglans, double-breasted raglans, belted backs, Chesterfields with velvet or self collar.

POLICE BATTLE GANG IN AUTOS

Carrick police late last night lost a running gun battle with two automobile loads of alleged bootleggers, following a raid on a house at 404 Ariston avenue. At least a dozen shots were fired.

A squad under Lieut. Paul Berman raided the place and reported finding a still, 30 barrels of mash and 40 gallons of moonshine on the second floor. As they emerged from the building two automobiles filled with men drove up to the curb. Seeing the police the drivers put on speed and headed toward Overbrook. The police followed in an emergency car.

Several men in Ariston avenue were reported to have had narrow escapes when caught between the fire from three cars. The race continued four miles, the pursued automobiles outdistancing the police car and finally disappearing in Overbrook.

Lieut. Berman said that the first floor of the house was furnished as living quarters.

Condition of Steps Causes Protest

Elmer J. Fritz, of 106 Fountain street, has asked council to order repairs to steps leading from James street and Compromise street.

WARNS AGAINST FIRE HAZARDS

Co-operation of the public is asked by Thomas Pfarr, of Pittsburgh, Allegheny County fire marshal, in the observance of National Fire Prevention Week, which opened yesterday to continue until October 12. Pittsburgh schools, educational institutions and fire insurance companies are participating.

"Although the public should be careful with fire hazards every day in the year," Pfarr warns, "special attention should be attached to this week's observance. Cellars, rubbish dumps and closets in homes and offices should be thoroughly 'house-cleaned.' Children should be taught the great losses to lives and property that fire causes."

Education and caution in the Pittsburgh district as regards fire during the past 15 years have decreased the loss immeasurably, according to Pfarr.

STILLMAN SAFE IN ALASKA

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—James A. Stillman, New York banker, reported missing on a hunting trip, was to arrive here today by boat, Pilot Joe Crosson said upon his return from a flight up the Skwentna River, where he landed and visited Stillman. The banker had been delayed in his trip down the river. He was expected to arrive here Saturday after several weeks of hunting.

Mr. Stillman's domestic affairs were focused in the public eye since 1921 by his complicated litigation with his wife, Mrs. Anne U. Stillman. Divorce and counter divorce suits were withdrawn in 1926, and the Stillmans sailed for Europe on a "second honeymoon."

In 1927, the marriage of James "Bud" Stillman to Miss Lena Wilson, 18-year-old daughter of a Canadian farmer, caused widespread interest. The ceremony took place in a rustic setting on the lawn of the beautiful Stillman lodge in the hills near Grand Anse, Quebec.

Deputy Sheriff Shot In Fight With Negro

EAST CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Deputy Sheriff Samuel Goldberg last night was shot three times and wounded seriously during an altercation with James Britt, Negro.

At first it was thought Goldberg's shooting was a reprisal against his having appeared before the Federal grand jury investigating conditions in Lake County, but the Federal prosecutor denied there was any connection.

Beechview Woman Swallows Ammonia

Mrs. Minnie Baum, 34, of 1859 Fallowfield street, Beechview, was in a serious condition in Mercy Hospital today as a result, police report, of swallowing ammonia in her home shortly after midnight. She was taken to the hospital by her husband, Raymond Baum, who reported the case to police.

Edgewood Club to Honor President

The Edgewood Woman's Club will observe president's day Wednesday when the organization meets in the Edgewood Club. An address will be given by Mrs. Dean Harvey, president. A one-act play also will be given by Theodisa Parke and Nancy McIlwain. Following the program, tea will be served.

Afghan King Fights To Retain Throne

MOSCOW, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Reports from Tarmez on the Afghanistan northern border indicated that Habibullah, the water boy king, once again was hard-pressed to hold the throne he seized last January from Amanullah Kahn.

Yes
LISTERINE
is also a wonderful
ASTRINGENT

Women are delighted

Listerine is a natural astringent, its formula being basically similar to that of scented astringents costing from 2 to 5 times as much.

Women by the thousands have used it and say that it achieves excellent results in the treatment of enlarged pores, oily skin, and flabby face muscles.

Moreover, it's a safe antiseptic, capable of destroying the most powerful disease germs, so that when you use it you know you are protecting yourself against possible skin infections.

Men use it after shaving

Listerine doused on the face full strength after shaving, imparts a wonderful sense of invigoration. Wakes up the skin. Ends rawness and burning, and leaves the face with a wonderful sense of coolness. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

World Series, Noted Stars Feature Radio Bills

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

VIEING with the World Series for attention on today's radio schedule are three prominent personages of the stage and concert world.

Sophie Tucker, the best known, is scheduled to appear with the Earl Orchestradians, KDKA at 10:30, while Frank Crumit, an entertainer of a different type, but funny nevertheless, will be guest artist of the Blackstone program, WJAS at 8 o'clock.

Tosti's "Good Bye," "Marcheta," "Schubert's Serenade" and a selection apiece from "Rigoletto" and "Il Pagliacci" will be offered by Mario Chamlee, famous lyric tenor, on the Eveready Hour, WCAE at 9.

Then we have our own jolly Frederick G. Rodgers in a program of "Sea Songs" from KDKA at 6:30 o'clock.

Sacred Songs, KDKA at 7:15, always good, will have numbers requested by listeners in Canada and South America.

That master of the organ—Jesse Crawford—has selected the Pilgrims' Chorus from "Tannhauser" for his opening number over WJAS at 11.

Bob's room at school so that they may reach him speedily in case of emergency.

Three cheers for Bob, a wonderfully fine boy, who is the son of a most wonderful man, Victor Saudek, famous maestro of KDKA!

The girls are after us to know why we haven't treated C. A. (Tony) Wakeman with more gusto. Must be wonderful to have a female chorus like this but we wonder, really, how many femmes still admire Tony the student as much as they admired C. A. Wakeman the announcer. Wakeman, as we have mentioned beaucoup times, is studying law at least part of the time at State College. He also is the differential on the Freshmen team, we understand.

Had a letter from Tony the other day. . . .still as full of fun as ever . . . . .stamped the back of the envelope with Christmas seals. . . . and ended the epistle with his famous phrase, "Send more money."

Quiet reigns on the WJAS front where Commander Frances C. Owen, forced to cover by the Editor in Grief's barrage in the Sun-Tele Special at the Radio Show, is marshaling his forces for a coup d'etat. "Don't fire until you see the whites of our eyes, Frances."

"Paul M. Land, formerly director of programs at KDKA, WBZ and WCAE, has established an entertainment bureau at WWVA, Wheeling," reads a message to this department. "In five years Land has met approximately 40,000 persons, including some of the greatest personages in the world. He is credited with the signal honor of originating what is today known as the national chain system of broadcasting."

All these things are true despite the fact that Paul wears spats and carries a cane.

TODAY'S TID BIT:
Popularity for announcers has no limitation.
Seated at a luncheon counter, Herbert C. McGee, new voice at WCAE, was approached by a stranger who offered gratis two tickets to the Tech-Thiel game.

The flavor of careful aging-...time controlled

★FRESHNESS ... A&P cheeses have both!

Whether it be sharp "American" cheese, very mild "Long Horn" or the plain and fancy cheeses in between, there's a cheese flavor to suit each individual taste at your local A&P Store. There are popular packaged and trade-marked varieties as well as the delicious cheeses ripened in the A&P aging plants at Green Bay, Wisconsin and Cuba, New York. Each has its merit, each has its flavor, each enjoys a remarkable sale in A&P stores.

A&P cheese making, like the production of A&P's butter, breads and other staples, is under A&P supervision from the start. There is no more interesting plant for food preparation in this great store system than the cheese aging warehouses. Here the cheeses selected for their uniformly high quality are received, weighed, paraffined and stored, each kind in its own specific way, for the sole purpose of developing its flavor.

Cheese must be aged to a point of flavor perfection—then eaten promptly after this perfection point is reached. A&P cheeses have both the flavor of careful aging and of freshness. They are scientifically aged and then promptly merchandised.

★FRESHNESS
The Time-Control Plan is a positive check of the freshness of A&P cheeses and other merchandise where freshness is an important part of quality.

You are the final judge of cheese freshness as assured by the A&P Time-Control Plan.

But Your Price! What is the price of these fine clothes you tell about?...

So asks Pittsburgh! . And this is WHY we haven't told you

Perhaps we're wrong! It might be only a whim! And yet we can't help feeling that the announcement of our price might frighten a lot of people away—

Oh, no. It's not high! It's low! In fact, so low for the quality we offer that the very people who would appreciate it most might hesitate about coming in and looking us over!

So don't ask us our price as yet! Just listen to our message of smartness and quality! Let us tell you how a big business has produced clothes "Made to be Smart". Let us tell about the economies of large-scale production and selling and how they mean finer clothes for everyone!

Let us make you so hungry for clothing smartness that you will attend our opening and, if our low price bolts you over, you will at least see that it's no fairy-tale!

Won't you be patient about the price?

YOUNG HUNTER, SHOT, DIES

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Oct. 8.—Wayne Gardner, 17, Blacksville High School student, died as a result of a shotgun wound suffered Sunday as he was leaving for a hunting trip on the West Virginia side of the Mason-Dixon line. The youth had gone but a short distance from his home when he tripped over a log, the fall discharging his gun.

After being injured Gardner dragged himself near enough to his home that his cries for aid could be heard by members of his family.

Gardner was a member of the junior class at the Blacksville High School.

Connellsville Man Drops Dead in Camp

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Oct. 8.—Coroner J. P. Caldwell is seeking relatives of Lawrence Haggerty, 40, said to have been a resident of Connellsville, Pa., who died suddenly Sunday evening at the camp of the construction gang working on the new highway between Pulaski and the New Wilmington-Sharon road.

KONJOLA WINS AGAIN IN THIS PITTSBURGH CASE

Lady, Unable to Do Housework for Three Years, Finds Complete Relief in New Medicine.

There is a reason why Konjola, the new and different medicine, is the most talked-of medicine in Pittsburgh, and everywhere it has been introduced. That reason can be summed up in just three words—Konjola Makes Good.

MRS. GERTRUDE NEWELL

Konjola has achieved a matchless record because its 32 ingredients—22 of them the juices of roots and herbs long known for their medicinal worth—attack at the source the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and the very causes of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola is not a medicine designed merely for temporary relief; its goal is far beyond that, as is strikingly illustrated in the experience of Mrs. Gertrude Newell, 6814 Kelly Street, Pittsburgh. This is not an exceptional case at all; there are thousands just as convincing on the records of this master medicine.

There is no secret about Konjola; no mystery; no magic. It is an honest medicine that aids nature in cleansing and stimulating the organs of digestion and elimination, and in ridding the system of impurities and poisons that have accumulated. It aids nature in paving the way for the return of new and glorious health. Hear all about this super-remedy from the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh. Daily he is answering the questions of those who come to know all about the medicine of which they have heard such glowing reports.

Hear from him of the actual cases wherein Konjola has triumphed when all else tried had failed; any number of cases like that of Mrs. Newell, who said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

"I can never express the happiness that Konjola has brought me after three years of misery and anguish. In all that time I was so sick and weak I could not attend to my housework. My digestion was wrecked; I was practically a nervous wreck, and chronic constipation added to my physical breakdown. I did well to get an hour or two of sleep at night. Meals meant misery, for even though I cut my diet down to the very minimum, gas, bloating and pain were sure to come. In these three years I never let up trying to find the medicine I needed, but all failed me. I was just about to reach the conclusion that there was nothing to help me.

"Just when things looked the darkest a friend urged me to try Konjola. She was so insistent that I finally consented, and as a result of that decision I am well and happy. I took only four bottles of Konjola, but that was enough to do what all other medicines I tried put together failed to do. I can eat whatever I want; I sleep like a child, and as a result I am gaining in weight and strength. It is a privilege to make this public indorsement of Konjola, and I do so in the hope that my experience with this wonderful medicine will be a help to others."

Here is a medicine for old and young; for all the family; for all who yearn for relief and who may have been disappointed in their search for the right medicine.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where daily he is meeting the public and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine.

Oil Well Worker Hangs Self in Barn

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 8.—John Thomas Ryan, 65, widely known in gas and oil fields of the tri-state region as "Jack" Ryan, hanged himself from a punching-bag board in a barn. Illness made him despondent.

Ryan, a native of Baltimore, worked many years for the Hope Natural Gas Company and was on its pension roll. The widow and five children survive.

Your Corn Comes Off in 3 Minutes

Without the Slightest Pain

There's a new, marvelous easy way to end a corn or callous—you can do it in only 3 minutes.

Just get a 50-cent bottle of Shur-Off of Mayflower Drug Stores, or of any good druggist; wet your corn with. Immediately all pain and soreness stop. Then after two minutes you can remove the corn or callous—root and all.

Doesn't hurt a bit; positively won't make your foot sore. Instead Shur-Off takes out the soreness and pain and you can walk, work and play in comfort. Get rid of that corn or callous today. Get a bottle of Shur-Off now.

PLEASANT RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Shoulders droop under weight of years. Young, yet beauty has fled. Cheeks are sallow and drawn. Unsightly pimples. Keep your system clean and you keep the beauty of youth. Its energy. Its irresistible charm. Then life is not a failure.

Clogged bowels and inactive liver cause poisons to seep through the system. Health vanished and with it beauty and energy. Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets will help save you from this dark hour. For 20 years they have been prescribed in place of calomel to men and women seeking health and freedom from constipation. They act easily and smoothly. No dangerous griping. Take nightly before retiring. Results will amaze you.

Thousands of men and women would never be without Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, a vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c. All druggists.

BEAVER COUNTY CASES ARGUED

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, which is expected to conclude Thursday its fall session here, yesterday heard arguments on five appeals from Beaver County. The cases were:

Henry W. Goff, appellant, vs. Borough of College Hill, et al.; Henry W. Goff vs. Borough of College Hill and Frank W. Bowers, appeal of Bowers; appeal of John Kertis, intervening defendant in Beaver Trust Company, guardian of Anna Marie Kertis, vs. Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company; Elizabeth Beaumont, et al. vs. Beaver Valley Traction Company, appellant; The Freedom Oil Works Company and Howard E. Kredel, appellants, vs. County of Beaver.

Charter Sought For Ellis School

A petition signed by prominent Pittsburgh people was presented in Common Pleas Court before Judge James R. Macfarlane, seeking a charter for the Ellis School. Maintenance of a school for instruction of girls in languages, literature, science, mathematics and the liberal arts was stated to be the purpose of the school.

The trustees are William Larimer Jones, Jr., H. A. Nomer, Malcolm W. Leech, Harmar D. Denny, Jr., Ruth Miller Reed, Mary Mellon McClung and John E. Nelson. The court fixed November 2 for a hearing.

Tube Mill Plans Doubling Output

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 8.—The Babcock & Wilcox Tube Company, College Hill, is building additions to its plant which will double its capacity. Cost of improvements and equipment is approximated at $500,000. This concern manufactures tubes and employs 850 men and women. It also operates a plant at Barberton, O.

PIONEERS IN PUBLIC SERVICE

$30,250 ASKED IN ACCIDENT

BEAVER, Pa., Oct. 8.—Suits totaling $30,250 were filed against Charles Butz, Ambridge, by Mr. and Mrs. John Bunger, their daughter, Dolores, and Thomas J. Barrett, all of Leetsdale.

The plaintiffs allege that on April 28 they were riding in the automobile of Barrett, driven by his son, Delorme Barrett, Leetsdale, and were injured when the Barrett car collided with the car driven by Butz. The Bungers ask $10,000 each.

Corpse Robbed Of Diamond Ring

City detectives today were searching for ghouls who last night stole a diamond ring from the finger of a corpse in the undertaking establishment of Flannery Brothers, at 73 Chatham street.

The ring, set with two diamonds and a ruby, was stolen from the body of Thomas Joyce, of 253 North Dithridge street, who died yesterday morning, according to Detectives Edward McEntee and Clarence Raeder. Several persons were said to have viewed the body only a few minutes before the theft.

Child's Scalds Cause Her Death

Three-year-old Alberta Diehl, of 109 Anthony street, Mt. Oliver, died last night in St. Joseph's Hospital from burns suffered Sunday when she fell into a pan of hot water while playing in her home, according to the coroner's report.

Greene Countian, 94, Oldest Hunter

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Oct. 8.—A claim of being the oldest hunter in Western Pennsylvania is made by Jacob Bixler, 94, Greene County farmer, to whom a hunting license was issued at the treasurers office. Despite his advanced age, Bixler is active and spent most of the day cutting corn on the farm of a son-in-law, John Rose, near Waynesburg. Bixler said he has not missed hunting since he was old enough to shoot a gun.

Senate Asks More Facts on Jurist

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(INS.)—The Senate Judiciary Sub-Committee closed its hearing into the fitness of Albert L. Watson, Scranton, Pa., to be a federal judge in the Middle District of Pennsylvania, with a request to the Department of Justice to furnish it "with all information concerning Watson." M. J. Martin was the closing witness who opposed Watson's appointment, while H. C. Reynolds was the last to speak in Watson's favor. Both are lawyers of Scranton.

Ohio Boys to Take Army, Navy Exams

CAMBRIDGE, O., Oct. 8.—Examinations will be held October 26 in Cambridge, Caldwell, Marietta, McConnelsville, Woodsfield and Zanesville to select two Fifteenth District candidates for appointment to West Point and three midshipmen for Annapolis. Congressman C. E. Moore arranged for the examinations.

POLISH MEDAL GIVEN WIDOW

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 8.—Mrs. Violet Thompson, Patterson Heights, widow of Col. Joseph H. Thompson, World War soldier, was honored at the American Legion convention in Louisville, Ky., when she was presented with the Marshal Pilsudski medal.

The presentation was made by Col. S. Zahorski, chief of the Polish mission in the United States. Four other women were likewise honored.

Mrs. Thompson is chairman of the National Fidac Committee.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Pittsburgher Betrothed In South

TIME was when brides and roses made one think of June. Roses still do, but now brides may be associated with any month of the year. And before long, I venture to prophesy, October's brides and chrysanthemums will rival June's brides and roses.

And October is becoming noted not only for its weddings, but for its betrothals. And, speaking of betrothals, I'm reminded of an engagement of a Kentucky girl to a Pittsburgh son. Mrs. Bolling Gordon Nelson, of Hopkinsville, Ky., announces the betrothal of her daughter, Isabelle Gordon Nelson, to Samuel Blair Griffith II, second lieutenant of the U. S. Marines. And her fiance is the son of the Henry Foster Griffiths, of Darlington road. He was graduated from the Arnold School, and from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis in the spring.

AND now I want to return to the subject of October brides. This week there are going to be a number of entertainments in honor of Henrietta Wittmer, daughter of the junior George Wittmers, of Oak Hill Farms, Wildwood, who'll marry Thomas P. Trimble, Jr., son of Judge and Mrs. Thomas P. Trimble, of Fifth avenue, on Saturday.

Today Mrs. James Murray is giving a bridge luncheon for her in her home, and Thursday, Frances and Euphemia Trimble, sisters of Henrietta's finance, will give a bridge in the Trimble home, Fifth avenue. That same night, Thursday, Mrs. John D. Ritchey, of Oak Hill Farms, will honor the bride-to-be at her spinster supper.

On Friday night the Frank H. Hunters will give the rehearsal dinner, and on Saturday morning Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Rhodes will give the wedding breakfast in their home.

NOW we must speak of the debutantes, who are rivaling the brides for October's harvest gifts. I've just heard of a new event to be given this month for the buds. Mrs. Alfred Gibbs Harlow, of Newbury lane, and Miss Dorothy Slack, daughter of John C. Slack, of Beaver road, Edgeworth, will give a luncheon in the Allegheny Country Club on Tuesday, October 22. And the guest of honor is Rebecca Doyle, debutante daughter of the Charles Layng Doyles, of "Vine Acres," Edgeworth.

HOME from a motor trip through the British Isles, France and Italy are the Stuart Holdship Robinsons of "The Barracks," Sewickley.

And Mrs. Prescott L. Lyon, of Orchard terrace, and Mrs. Elizabeth Nevin Jennings, also of Sewickley, have gone to Wachapragues, Md. Later they'll meet Mr. Lyon in Washington, and will motor home on Monday.

And did you know that after being at Ventnor, N. J., for the summer, Mrs. Clarence P. Byrnes, of Sewickley, has gone to New York for a visit?

MISS DOROTHY W. LANGE, of Elmont street, Crafton Heights, was guest of honor at a bridge given Friday evening by Miss Jean E. Creagh at her home in Cumberland street on the Heights. Six tables were in play, with decorations and luncheon appointments carried out in yellow and white. Miss Lange's engagement to Norman A. Gray, of Bellevue, will terminate in a wedding at the bride's home Friday evening.

MISS ELEANOR DALLY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Addison B. Dally, of Crafton, and George Francis Boyd Smith, son of Mrs. George Robert Alexander Smith, of Cleveland, were married at 4:30 o'clock Saturday by the Rev. Ernest J. Harry, the rector, in the Church of the Nativity, Crafton. Yellow chrysanthemums in golden and bronze tones were used in the Dally home where there was a reception for the family after the ceremony. Yellow chrysanthemums and palms and ferns were used in the church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a princess gown of white satin, with a train of lace lined with shell pink satin. Rare old family lace, which belonged to her great-grandmother, and tulle fashioned her veil, and she carried white roses and lilies of the valley.

Champagne moire and tulle, with a matching hat, completed the costume of Miss Gertrude Elizabeth Dally, who was her sister's maid of honor, and she carried dahlias in autumn tints. The bridesmaids, Miss Drusilla Dally, another sister, and Miss Harriet Fitzpatrick, wore rust-colored moire and tulle and rust hats of tulle. They carried dahlias. Mrs. Dally wore purple lace over soft silk of the same shade, and the bridegroom's mother wore skipper blue, with hat to match.

James Williams, of Cleveland, was best man, and Edward Hemingway, of Crafton, and Hugh Coughlan, of Conneaut, O., were ushers.

THURSDAY, at noon, Miss Maude G. Speer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. A. Speer, of Etna, was married to Charles E. Conner, of Mrs. Ella Conner, of Aspinwall, by the Rev. A. E. French, of the Sharpsburg Presbyterian Church. The bride wore a gown of white satin, with her tulle veil trimmed in Duchess lace and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of pink roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Ruth Speer, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, wore burnt orange chiffon and carried yellow roses. Miss Jane Ambrose, a niece of the bride, as flower girl, wore white and carried a basket of pink rosebuds. Mr. and Mrs. Conner left for an eastern motor trip, and after their return will reside in Aspinwall.

IT has been announced that Miss Martha Irwin Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Oliver Moore, of Champaign, Ill., formerly of Pittsburgh, was married September 27 to Carl Conrad Braun, of Joliet, Ill. The bride was a student in the University of Illinois, and Mr. Braun is a graduate of the University of Illinois, and served on the faculty last year as instructor in architectural engineering. He is a member of Theta Upsilon Omega, Scabbard, Garboule, Theta Tau and Tribe of Illini. Mr. and Mrs. Braun will reside in the Walker Hotel, Joliet.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. AUGUSTUS P. LARIMER announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eleanor Van Meter Larimer, to Bronson Lee Langworthy, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Langworthy, of Minneapolis, Minn., at a bridge luncheon on Saturday at their home in Coraopolis Heights.

MISS KATHERINE E. STAVER gave a bridge luncheon Saturday in Webster Hall, in honor of Miss M. Loretto Quinn, of Bayard Manor, whose marriage to John L. Jordan will be an event of today. The decorations were orchid and green.

Mrs. McEldowney, president of the Woman's City Club, and the other officers were in this reception line at the annual tea given by the directors in the new club rooms.

Wilkinsburg Club Fetes President

"THE training for the change in the realm of women's activities has been brought about not so much by the fact that we now have more college women, as by the fact that we now have more clubwomen. It is a safe assumption to state that the active clubwomen, lacking a college education, is a greater power today than the college-bred woman who lacks active club affiliations." This was part of the inaugural address made by Mrs. Otto G. Leichliter, new president of the Woman's Club of Wilkinsburg, at the reception which the club gave in her honor in the Y. W. C. A. Community House yesterday afternoon.

Musical numbers were contributed by Mrs. Vivian Kiser Fay, contralto; Miss Violet Kiser, soprano, and Mrs. Marian Deuel McDade, pianist. The reception was a beautifully-appointed affair and largely attended. Dahlias were used in conjunction with palms and ferns for the decorations, the tea table being centered with dahlias in the club colors, violet and white, with violet tapers in silver sticks. Miss Elizabeth Davidson and Mrs. James A. Wilson, charter members of the organization, poured. Following the custom of previous years, a rose was presented to the president or representative of each visiting club.

THE College Club is to begin its year's programs on Friday afternoon with a legislative talk by Mrs. Homer N. Young, whose subject is "The Election of 1929." Mrs. Young will discuss not only the various offices to be filled, but will also give her own experiences in working during the primaries.

Mrs. Young has been for years an active worker for good government and since its organization has been secretary of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters. Hostesses for Friday include Miss Ida M. Allerton, Mrs. William Anderson, Mrs. Earl Blough, Miss Edna H. Agnew, Mrs. Philip Angle and Mrs. J. Willard Anderson.

The junior committee of the club has begun its activities with registration for group meetings which this year will include the general readers' group, parental education, novel readers and conversational French.

THE Tourists inaugurated their forty-third year with a reception in the Congress of Clubs yesterday, Mrs. George W. Remensnyder, the new executive head, being the honor guest. In charge of Mrs. M. E. Golding a program was given that included piano numbers by Miss Georgia Orwig; violin numbers by Miss Janet Turner, accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Storer; vocal solos by Mrs. Regina Spilker Linn, and readings by Mrs. Neva Morris. Guests were present from 17 other clubs.

AN informal musical program will mark the reception which the Housekeepers' will give Thursday for their president, Mrs. R. G. Himmelrich. Mrs. C. W. Kinder and Mrs. H. P. McKown will contribute piano numbers; Mrs. C. H. Horgan and Mrs. H. F. Hanks vocal solos; Mrs. E. E. Dick, Mrs. Horgan and Mrs. Hanks, trio numbers, and Mrs. J. Charles Wilson will read.

AT THE annual president's day meeting of the Pittsburgh Literary and Musical Club, held yesterday in the Business Woman's Club, the time which was allotted to Mrs. W. S. Trosh for introducing the president, Mrs. Mary J. Cowley, was given over to tributes in memory of Mrs. Trosh, who died recently. Also as a tribute to Mrs. Trosh only sacred music was presented on the program, contributed by Miss Marjorie Bell Pfifer, Miss Ethel Tilley and Miss Ruth Simons.

MISS CATHERINE M. PATTERSON, for eight years treasurer of the Women's Press Club, was honor guest at the tea with which the club opened its season in the Woman's City Club yesterday afternoon, and was presented with a corsage of orchids and lilies of the valley. Miss Patterson has been succeeded in office by Mrs. Anne Ryan Lesh.

* * *

AFTER the first business session of the season tomorrow morning, the Woman's Alliance of the First Unitarian Church will hear reports of the summer conference at the Isle of Shoals. These will be given by Mrs. J. G. Howard and Mrs. Edward B. Lee.

YOU ARE JUST AS SMART AS YOUR ACCESSORIES, STYLISTS DECLARE

Sketched in Paris

Designs Drawn By Jean Patou

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—At all events, be smart. Clothes are now such an important part of the decorative scheme, that it has become necessary for each of us to add our quota of beauty and smartness to whatever occasion we may be attending, whether we be one of a foursome at golf, or one of a party at the opera on a gala night. And so—at all events be smart. That this dictum is the slogan of the couturiers here, we have not the slightest doubt, for there is not one designer who has not entered the field of sports attire, and who does not give as much care and attention to a simple little morning frock, as to an elaborate afternoon or evening gown. Accessories, even to the smallest detail, are planned with the same thought and care, and the result is an outfit that seeks distinction, not through lavish magnificence, but through the far more subtle medium of quiet perfection, and impeccable taste. And however much or little, is to be spent on a costume the same standard of distinction is attainable by all.

JEAN PATOU is one of the couturiers who has directed his genius to the designing of sports clothes that are in keeping with their surroundings. There is an absence of fussy detail, and it is unfortunate that this cannot be said of some of the sports outfits that we have seen this summer. For this practical but charming ensemble, he has used a tweed-like jersey, that is one of the most important of the new fabrics.. The bodice and the skirt of the frock are in one piece, the material being woven in such a manner that the upper part, used for the bodice, is all beige with a faint plaid pattern. In the center part making the upper half of the skirt, the plaid is worked in a dark brown thread on the beige ground, while for the third part, the lower half of the skirt, the brown plaid is on a brown ground. The three-quarter-length coat is trimmed with a narrow band of beaver.

FROM the same house, comes an interesting evening frock in thin chiffon lame in pale rose and gold. The high waistline is 'way above normal, and the skirt reaches to the floor all around. In addition to these unusual features, the cut of the frock is altogether original and very complicated, a difficult model, indeed, for the unskilled dressmaker to copy. The tailored belt, that blends so well with the scheme of this gown, is fastened by a jeweled buckle.

AT 7:30, o'clock on Saturday evening, Miss Edith Mildred Hoover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel R. Hoover, of Sheridan avenue, East End, became the bride of Frederick James Reeve, of Coraopolis, in the Highland Presbyterian Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. George Fisher, before an embankment of palms, ferns and dahlias.

The bride wore a gown of ivory taffeta and tulle, and a veil of tulle arranged in cap effect and caught with orange blossoms. She carried white roses, lilies of the valley, and sweetheart roses. Miss Nellie Hoover, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, was gowned in blue moire, cut princess style. She carried dahlias. Miss Virginia Dotson, of Louisville, Ky., and Miss Dorothy Reitz and Miss Marceline Coleman, of Pittsburgh, as bridesmaids, were gowned in pink, ecru and green, and carried dahlias. The mother of the bride wore pale gold panne velvet, and a shoulder corsage of orchids. Donald Davidson, of Coraopolis, was best man. The ushers were Edwin Hoover, George Anderson and Arthur Probst, of Pittsburgh, and Charles Cooper, of Coraopolis.

A dinner in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association followed the ceremony, with covers laid for 40. After an eastern trip, Mr. and Mrs. Reeve will reside in Callowhill street, East End.

Boggs & Buhl has never offered a genuine red mahogany Colonial type suit that equalled the value of this one. One of the most remarkable purchases the furniture department has ever made. The furniture had been discontinued and we bought every suite the factory had on hand. In quality, style and finish, it is well worth every cent of $795. At $395 (less than half price), it is so outstanding, that there should not be a suite left at noon tomorrow!

Consider This Suggestion!

Through this offer you will be able to furnish one large room with bed, vanity, dresser and a chest of drawers at only $395.00. Or, if you wish to split the suite for two small rooms—at a ridiculously low cost—select, at a small additional sum, a set of twin beds and small night tables with benches to match. In all, you may choose from three style beds, two style vanities, two style dressers and a chest of drawers, night table and bench. The style is adapted from an early Colonial type, is of genuine red mahogany with quartered oak drawer interiors—and lends itself to the interesting decoration of a room in this period style.

Illusion Builders in Flesh and Shadow and Their Effect on Reviewers

'Luckee Girl' Is From Paree But She Came a Long Way And Lost Her Chic En Route

By GEORGE SEIBEL

ELEVEN TWENTY-FIVE! So said Big Ben and every other truthful timepiece when the curtain dropped on "Luckee Girl," at Syria Mosque last night, where this musical comedy played a one-night stand before coming to the Alvin tonight. It will probably move a little faster down there, and the faster it moves the better. For it is certainly the most vapid and vulgar dish of hash that has come to town for a long while.

George Seibel

"Put filth in it, boy," is one of the lines Billy House, the chief comedian, addresses to the orchestra. Rather superfluous!

The scene is laid in Paris. We know that, for are there not tables on the sidewalk in the prologue on Montmartre? When you see tables on the sidewalk it's always Montmartre or the Quartier Latin.

Nothing else about the concoction is Parisian. Gertrude Purcell is accused of having adapted the piece from a French original entitled "Un Bon Garcon." If there was any wit or humor in the original, she has left it there.

Maurice Yvain is suspected of having composed the music. Perhaps he had those famous teams—Gallagher and Shean and Gilbert and Sullivan—as collaborators. Most of it doesn't even reach that altitude.

How it Scintillates!

A few samples of the brilliant dialogue will show how it scintillates!

When the hero leaves the heroine, at his father's command, we hear that exquisite sentiment, "Not good-bye, but au revoir," first uttered by Noah as his gondola started for Ararat.

"What do you think you're doing?" is another startling line. "None of your business," is the clever repartee.

But these are the tamer and sedater moments of the book. When it gets real peppy we hear, 'Oh, hell," or "Oh, shut up," and similar bright epigrams.

Once one of the characters steals unaware upon the heroine and says: "Boo!" It must have taken the author of the book several minutes to think that up.

They do everything but throw custard pie. Billy House even eats a banana. One of the thrilling scenes is when the assistant heroine reveals that she is wearing an old-fashioned corset, peels it off, and throws it away.

Here's a Good One

Don't imagine, however, that there is nothing good in the three acts and prologue. Here's a good one which Comedian House works off on one of his victims who has rallied him upon his baldness. "If I had as small a head as yours, I'd have enough hair to cover it."

The 12 Kelley Dancers are another bright spot in the show. They are not startling, but they are graceful and easy to look at.

Gertrude and Dorothy McGushion, a sister team, also give indications of ability to do good things if they had a chance. And the "four Diplomats" are not a bad quartet, vocally or instrumentally.

But the thing as a whole is rather sad. It oozes perspiration, but not of the brow. House is often amusing with his elephantine gambols, but no one would indict him for excessive refinement.

Finally it cannot be denied that the audience sat till eleven twenty-five and laughed whenever it was expected to laugh. So it's probably dyspepsia or Blue Monday that depressed the critic.

'BURLESQUE REVIEW' IN ACADEMY SHOW

"Burlesque Review" is the title of the burlesque presentation in the Academy. It features Madlyn Beatty and Harry "Pep" Pearce as principals in the series of comedy skits and specialties that make up the bill in which a dancing chorus is prominent. La Belle Zelna is a special added attraction.

Musical

Doris Vinton is a principal in "Luckee Girl," musical play in the Alvin for the rest of the week after opening performance in Syria Mosque.

PITT SHOPPING TOUR GETS ANNE ONE HUSBAND

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"What Anne Brought Home," a comedy by Laurence E. Johnson, is what the George Sharp Players are presenting in the Pitt this week. The title comes from the fact that this Anne goes shopping for two yards of crepe de chine and comes back with a husband. Which, you readily admit, is a novel idea—even in the make-believe realm of stage dramatics.

Anne is a Bennett, the daughter of one Sam Bennett, who lives in a small Indiana town and presides over a lumber mill and a family that comprises three grown daughters, a wife and an eccentric Uncle Henry. Naturally, when the new husband is dragged in everyone has something to say about it—that is, everyone except Uncle Henry. He just sits on the stairs and peers between the bannister railings, while in one hand he balances a glass of toddy and in the other a sandwich.

Other things, besides the play's characters, enter prominently in the plot. Chief of these is 400 acres or so of swamp land, owned by Pa Bennett. Uncle Henry, who figures a pint and a half of cranberries are used with every turkey on Thanksgiving, wants to plant it with cranberry bushes. And Anne's husband, who can tell you how many millions of eggs a fish lays every year, dreams of turning it into a fish "farm." But neither gets his way. In the end a big money man pays $55,000 for it as a site for a power plant or something.

Money in the Bank

Pauline MacLean appears as Anne, who notes 18 old maids as 18 reasons why she gets herself a husband. It is a happy portrayal she gives, too. Kenneth Daigneau essays the boobish sort of groom, who, is the means of bringing happiness to the Bennett family and the above-mentioned $55,000 to its exchequer. The role is a rather far jump from his Mexican bad man part of a week ago. But, then, Mr. Daigneau is a good jumper. And he is very much at ease as Anne's ill-at-ease husband.

Alice Ann Baker, who always does what she has to do well, puts life into her Ma Bennett part. Allen Moore and Robert Fiske also are efficient in the portrayals allotted to them. Mr. Moore plays a boastful fellow, who believes the first asset in salesmanship is selling one's self, and Mr. Fiske is the gentleman who goes in for swamp lands to the tune of $55,000. Others in the cast include Frank R. Armstrong, Lucette Parker and Myra Lehr.

'Tis Cranberries Now

But stay a moment. The popular Gus Forbes is in the cast—very prominently too, and again as an "Uncle Henry." However, his new Uncle Henry is quite a different type from the one he played in "The Bad Man." For one thing he isn't baldheaded. For another it is cranberries and not the green grass of Maine that is on his mind. But, seriously, Mr. Forbes again gives a glorious portrayal.

In few words, "What Anne Brought Home" is a laugh-getting comedy—a mental treat if you like home cooking. What we meant is, it is a comedy of family life with its situations and laughs centering, for the most part, around the hearthstone—that is, figuratively speaking.

What we like about it most is Uncle Henry, with his smeary-looking face and red flannels. And what we dislike about it most is the very stagey pose of Pa Bennett's daughter, Nina, whenever she speaks her lines.

TALKIE, STAGE ACT SHERIDAN FEATURES

Victor Graff, youthful master of ceremonies on the Sheridan stage, continues as a popular asset in that theater. In addition to introducing the feature acts, he sings and displays talent as an impersonator. Assisting entertainers include the Three Vagrants, strolling musicians; Judson Cole, comedian, the Ricketts, in a dance act, and Clark and Moore, in a comedy offering.

The talking screen feature is "Oh Yeah," a comedy drama of railroad life. The cast includes Robert Armstrong, James Gleason and Zasu Pitts.

STYLE SHOW ON STAGE AND 'FOUR DEVILS' PENN PROGRAM

Called a "Velvet Revue," the stage show in the Penn this week is virtually a gorgeous fashion show with music, comedy and dancing interspersed. Here are gowns and girls, girls and gowns. Here is velvet in every color and nuance, draped over beautiful figures and played upon by enchanted lights. It is really a fashion show, with a couple of very clever ventriloquists, a romantic tenor, a statuesque violinist, and the well-trained dancing girls to add spice to the velvet.

Dick Leibert's Fun

Dick Leibert's turn at the organ this time is converted into an uproarious comedy by draping the Wurlitzer with alfalfa and inviting the audience to a hay ride. The musical obligato ranges from "Reuben" to "Tiptoe," and the audience apparently can't help singing along.

Teddy Joyce does a flicker dance that is novel and effective, and a "Nincompoop" skit that provokes a big laugh.

Sawdust Romance

The film is "Four Devils," and shows circus life as it has been ever since Emil Jannings appeared in "Variety." If there are any acrobats or bareback riders, we know they will die of a broken neck or a broken heart—unless they recover in the last fade-out for the benefit of the sentimental souls in the audience and the itching palms in the box-office.

Janet Gaynor is the heroine of "Four Devils," and a very appealing one. The picture is capital as long as it is a picture, but becomes rather foolish when it turns talkie at the end. The audience, guffawing at some of the saddest spots, were unconscious critics. "Four Devils" would pass as a fine picture if it knew enough to keep its mouth shut.

PREMIER MACDONALD IN HEARST SOUND NEWS

Ramsay MacDonald, Britain's Prime Minister and "Apostle of Peace," had been in America but a few hours until Hearst Metrotone News presented remarkable sound motion pictures of his arrival in leading theaters. Possibly never before has such speed been made in bringing to the eyes and ears of the American public a great news event.

The greeting accorded the British diplomat, here to confer with President Hoover on disarmament; the reception at City Hall of New York and the speeches by Mayor Walker and Premier MacDonald, departure of Premier MacDonald and his daughter, Ishbel, as they departed from New York for Washington are recorded.

'DIGGERS' IN GRAND ENDS RUN TOMORROW

Tomorrow night will mark the close of the extended engagement of "The Gold Diggers of Broadway" in the Grand. It is an all-talk and all-color film. Thursday "Four Feathers," with William Powell, Richard Arlen, Clive Brook and Fay Wray, will open an engagement.

'Argentina' to Open Newman Talk Series

"Argentina" is the subject chosen by E. M. Newman for his first traveltalk this season in Carnegie Music Hall this evening. In a new group of color views and motion pictures, the traveler is to introduce South America and bring his audience in contact with the Argentina, from the wealthiest ranchero to the members of the smart set in the Newport of the country, Mar de Planta, with its clubs, beach and promenade known as the Rambla.

DERELICT SHIPS, MEN AND SEAWEED IN STANLEY FILM

Far off to the Sargasso Sea—in an all-talkie titled "The Isle of Lost Ships"—drifts Virginia Valli on the Stanley screen. There she meets strange adventure and stranger romance. She is called upon to choose between marrying a man condemned to die as a murderer or a loathsome brute, who has set himself up as a sort of king in a community of derelict ships and human beings. Noah Beery, looking his worst and displaying shoeless feet, portrays the latter role. And the rather handsome Jason Robards appears as the alleged murderer. Thus Virginia's choice isn't so difficult to arrive at, after all.

Ferocious Extras

The picture is a mixture of many strange ingredients, including ferocious looking extra players, a collection of battered ships, a sea full of seaweed, a shipwreck and an "escape" in a submarine," and some acting, which, while it isn't so terrible, isn't so good either. Heroine Valli or Hero Robards, in a histrionic way, aren't so much to get excited about. Villain Beery, however, is O. K. as usual. And one of the best features of the cast is Robert E. O'Connor in a detective role. This fellow is becoming quite famous as a movie sleuth—you've seen him in "Alibi" and numerous other films—and he certainly knows his stuff.

Incidentally, this isn't the first time "The Isle of Lost Ships" has been on the screen. Some years back it made its appearance as a silent picture.

Johns in 'Japan'

On the stage Brooke Johns drags you back from the Sargasso Sea and lands you in an Oriental atmosphere with his show, "In Old Japan." A group of Japanese tumblers go through some clever antics, Erner and Fisher, comedy team, do some funny dancing. Then there is one of those personality girls who sings and smiles. Mr. Johns and his banjo and Arthur Nealy and his tenor voice are quite prominent. David Broudy's overture doesn't impress as being up to its usual standard. Bernie Armstrong's organlogue completes the bill.

ALDINE KEEPS FLAGG, QUIRT SECOND WEEK

"The Cock-Eyed World," all-talking photoplay sequel to "What Price Glory," is being seen for a second week in the Aldine. Again Victor MacLaglen and Edmund Lowe essay the Flagg and Quirt roles. Lily Damita has the leading feminine part. Much of the film's action occurs in the tropics.

'A Connecticut Yankee,' In Nixon, Is Merry Play Of Knights and Wizards

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

GADZOOKS and od's bodikins! the 1929 brand of hooch doth indeed have the potency of a kick of mule. Marry, it hath, for it did, in the Nixon yestere'en, transport a band of merry gentlemen and comely maids from the twentieth century back to the sixth. One bottle was all that it required to perform this miracle, which is the basis of "A Connecticut Yankee," presented in that playhouse as a musical comedy version of the Mark Twain philosiophical and economic satire, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court."

True the bottle's contents is not imbibed, so, perhaps it is the hardness of the glass rather than the potency of the hooch that works this miracle, since the bottle, in contact with the head of one, Martin, at the party celebrating his approaching wedding puts him into a sleep from which he awakes in the town of Camelot rather than in Hartford, Conn.

Story Twain in Main

The story follows the Twain tale in the main incidents, making Martin's Twentieth Century knowledge a means by which he is able to overmatch the amateur magic of Merlin, the court wizard, and to save him from being a stake victim by knowledge that the sun is due for an eclipse and to have it appear to do so at his command. With this as an achievement poor old Merlin is discredited and Martin takes the title of the Boss and becomes dictator of the Kingdom. Electric lights and telephones and modern industry put knights to work and Merlin in the position of weather forecaster.

There the similarity to the Twain tale ends, for the comedy possibilities are taken advantage of to the fullest, and the result is a merry evening in Merrie England in the days when knights were bold until a Yankee comes along to make spears passe and bathtubs the regular thing on Saturday nights.

It is a peppy production withal, characterization being amply cared for, the comedy well timed and the singing and dancing, especially the latter, having a dash and swing that audiences like. At least last night's audience liked all of these things of "A Connecticut Yankee" very much and showed it by generous applause.

Rotarian at Court

In the role of Martin, or the Boss, Richard Lane, has an infectious spirit just suited to the part of an up and doing Rotarian directing a pep meeting, and he makes his dictatorship a plausible thing. Mary Adams, as the Demoiselle Alisande La Carteloise, or Sandy, as the Boss nicknames her, has personal charm, and the most winning of smiles to make her popular in the leading feminine role. She dances well, too.

The part of Merlin is the excellent characterization of George E. Mack. Nana Bryant is a regal Queen Morgan Le Fay and Gordon Burby a lusty-voiced Sir Kay. Paul Everton is a sufficiently simple King Arthur and Francella Waterbury adequately visualizes his faithless queen, Guinevere. Various other well known characters of the Round Table also appear, although less prominently.

The most popular of the vocal offerings is "My Heart Stood Still," but all of the songs are sufficiently pleasing to hold interest. The dancing of the chorus and several of the principals, notably that of Starke Patterson, as Galahad, is very well done, some of the ensemble dancing being of an extremely snappy variety, novel in grouping and movement and speedy in execution.

"A Connecticut Yankee" is a good show.

'THE CARELESS AGE' PICTURE IN ENRIGHT

"The Careless Age," which is just another picture, is the current film attraction in the Enright. It has Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in the hero role—that of a young medical student, who believes himself madly in love with one of those not-so-good actresses. The climax comes with him almost choking the daylights out of her—leaving her for dead. But she doesn't die after all, which is very nice, as it keeps Hero Fairbanks from going to jail and saves audiences from suffering another movie murder trial. The picture is an all-talkie and the cast, most of it anyway, does very well with what it has to work with. Holmes Herbert appears to advantage in a father role and Carmel Myers does well enough as the actress. Kenneth Thomson and Loretta Young have minor parts.

Bells Ring on Stage

Dick Powell's new stage show is titled "Bells and Belles." Featured entertainers include a dance and chatter team, a couple of novelty musicians and a girl who sings and another girl who dances. Added to this, of course, are Mr. Powell's performance as a singer, the antics of the stepping Enright Rockets and the music of the stage band. Organist Milton Slosser wins a big hand with his organlogue, "For No Good Reason At All."

Satanic

Charles Morton is one of "Four Devils," acrobatic team prominent in the film of that title showing in the Penn.

PARKER CONTINUES AS M. C. IN HARRIS

A novelty stage revue, with Lou Parker continuing as master of ceremonies, and the all-talking picture, "Oh Yeah," feature the current bill in the Harris. This Parker is a likeable fellow, who displays some talent and originality. And he does well in the M. C. shoes. The stage band, of course, is prominent, doing a "rube" number as an opener. Acts include Dauntless, a movie dog, who shows intelligence and depicts how he acts before the cameras. Then there are two sister comediennes who contort their faces and bodys into laugh-creating positions. Another feminine team comprises a fat girl and a slim one, who make fun of each other's appearance and who keep the audience highly amused. Miss Grace and her three Boy Friends appear in a dance presentation. Another feminine dancer, who wears black and steps well, is on the bill.

The picture, "Oh Yeah," is a comedy drama of railroad life. It offers train cars running wild, a lot of fist fights and romance. It has plenty of laughs also. James Gleason and Robert Armstrong are prominent as two brakemen pals.

TRY THESE CARROTS FOR JADED APPETITES

Hard to Resist the Flavor When Cooked This Appetizing Way

A well-known woman cooking authority, realizing the importance of vegetables in the diet, has worked out this new recipe for Flemish Carrots:

Scrape 18 young carrots and slice lengthwise into thin strips like matches. Melt 6 tablespoons butter. Add carrots, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 teaspoon of chopped parsley, and salt. Cover the pan and let simmer until tender, about 20 minutes, turning frequently with a spoon. Add cream, stir well, heat and serve.

Remember the importance of vegetable foods in the daily diet, and profit by the old secret rediscovered by four famous women cooking experts. Add a dash of sugar to each vegetable while it is cooking. The little sugar works wonders for freshness, color and taste.

Sugar is the supreme condiment for developing the delicate, natural flavors of fruits and vegetables so that children and adults will be tempted to eat variety. The balanced diet is so important in promoting health that it is well to serve stewed and fresh fruits daily. If your family does not drink enough milk, serve milk shakes, eggnogs and milk desserts, such as junkets and custards. Add a dash of sugar to cooking cereal to develop its flavor. Serve cakes and cookies containing chocolate or cocoanut, ices and ice creams, canned berries and fruits, or candy for dessert. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.

RADIO CONTEST CLOSES EARLY

So rapidly have the votes been coming in the Warner Brothers-Keps Electrical Supply Company's contest to determine Pittsburgh's movie favorite that it is necessary to conclude this week's contest Wednesday. No votes received after midnight tomorrow will count in this week's contest. They will, however, be added to the totals for next week.

The passes that go to the 30th to 100th winners are being mailed out today.

Many people have made the mistake of voting for Dick Powell and Brooke Johns, masters of ceremonies at the Enright and Stanley. Neither of these two popular figures is entered in the contest. They are acting solely in the capacity of judges.

Dolores Costello and Al Jolson, who were voted the two most popular stars in last week's contest, once again seem on the road to first and second places. As far as could be determined, they are in the lead, closely pursued by Jack Mulhall, John Barrymore, Myrna Loy and Dorothy Mackaill. The rest of the field follows in a close bunch.

Winners for this week's contest will be announced in the Sunday Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Amaranth Court to Hold Card Party

NURSES GUESTS AT DINNER

Alumnae nurses of the Pittsburgh Hospital, East End, at a dinner in the Rittenhouse Hotel, will complete plans for their participation in the move to replace the present outworn nurses' home with a modern structure.

Miss Irlbacher.

The dinner will begin at 8 o'clock to permit the members of the alumnae association, most of whom are on active duty, to attend. It is tendered the group by the board of directors of the hospital, which is sponsoring the $300,000 campaign for a new nurses' home and training school to be built on the existing site, Frankstown avenue and Washington boulevard.

James F. Keenan, president of the board, will preside.

Among speakers will be Miss Margaret Irlbacher, president of the nurses' group, numbering approximately 125.

Careless Hunters Blamed in Lack Of Pawpaws

YORKVILLE, O., Oct. 8.—Lack of care on the part of pawpaw hunters in recent years is blamed by J. A. Hagan for the decreased crop in this part of the valley. Hagan, a lover of the wild fruit that is found in various parts of the Ohio valley, says fewer pawpaws are noticeable this fall than at any time in the history of the district.

Fagan attended the trial of the three coal and iron policemen and he will give his views of the case. The speaker is a candidate for Council on the Democratic ticket.

WOMAN FACES DEATH CHARGE

Arrested by County Detectives Michael McDermott and James Reddington after it was alleged she performed an illegal operation on a woman who later died, Mrs. Margaret Cullen, 2113 Orchard street, Munhall, was in the county jail today in default of $5,000 bail.

Mrs. Cullen, who was freed on a similar charge in Criminal Court last May, is alleged to have operated on Mathilda Sichina, 26, of West Newton, who died late Saturday in the McKeesport Hospital.

Detectives say Miss Sichina told Dr. L. S. Strawn, of West Newton, that Mrs. Cullen had operated on her. Mrs. Cullen will be arraigned before Alderman G. A. Anderson.

2 STREET CARS BOMBED

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Two street cars in different neighborhoods were bombed last night almost simultaneously. The passengers and crews escaped injury.

The first blast occurred when a car rolled over a quantity of explosive on Alvar street, near Bartholomew. Several feet of railways were torn up, the car windows shattered and several floorboards displaced. The two members of the crew and six passengers escaped injury.

As the motorman and conductor were investigating the amount of the damage, someone hiding in weeds in a vacant lot threw an improvised grenade against the side of the car that did further damage.

A few minutes later a bomb went off under a Gentilly car on Franklin avenue, near Pricur street. A rail was split, a deep hole torn in the ground and the car's glass broken. Two passengers were unscathed.

CAROLINAS HIT BY FLOODS

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Families were driven from their homes, growing crops inundated and rail and highway traffic disrupted as flooded rivers which last week harassed the mountain and hill country of North and South Carolina poured their heavy burden into the flat coastal section of the two states.

Residents of Harpersville, a village of 300 inhabitants across the Neuse River from Kinston, N. C., moved out of their homes last night as flood waters from the rising river lapped building foundations. The river had risen nearly four feet since Sunday and was still rising.

More than 300 families were reported marooned in the lower sections of Bladen and Pender counties, North Carolina, after the breaking of two dykes on the Cape Fear River. Red Cross officials at Wilmington, N. C., rushed food to those cut off by the waters and made an aerial survey of the section.

High Blood Pressure Shortens Your Life

How to Stop It—Read This

It may surprise you to know that blood pressure is so serious that insurance companies refuse to issue policies to those who have it. All because it shortens life.

High blood pressure gives little warning and until certain symptoms take hold, you do not know it. They are head pains, flushed face, hot flashes, dizzy spells, shortness of breath, sleeplessness, and nervousness.

Often one bottle of Norma will bring reduction in blood pressure and stop the symptoms which distress and worry you.

Norma is a physician's prescription. It worked so wonderfully in his personal practice that it has now been placed in Dow Drug Co. and all good drug stores so that people everywhere can obtain it. Check the uncertainty of high blood pressure by reducing it with Norma.

ON YOUR MEMORY, MR. MAN

When a man selects his apparel, he takes a different method than when he's picking the winner of a horse race, or a world's series, for all that matter. He selects only when he's definitely positive he'll be satisfied with the clothing being chosen. And we consider it pertinent to let you know here that MORE Pittsburgh men choose at Kaufmann's than elsewhere, because MORE Pittsburgh men are being satisfied with their selections here. And that's a fact!

East Liberty Bandits Bind and Gag Two

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

ONE of the most mysterious audiences that attend shows in Pittsburgh is the one that congregates a few minutes after 12 o'clock Sunday night to see burlesque in a Penn avenue theater. There are midnight performances from time to time, benefit affairs, that attract an audience from the general theatrical field, but the regular midnight audiences at the burlesque house seem to be unlike any other assemblage.

Havey J. Boyle

It is, of course, mainly a stag proposition. But where do these fellows work? Where do they live? Some of them have the tourist or the week-end atmosphere about them, probably winding up a week-end stay with a visit to the midnight burlesque show. Some are recruited, doubtless, from those vocations that call for Sunday night work. But there must be quite a few who, difficult as it is to believe, leave their hearths around 11 o'clock Sunday night and wend their way to a theater.

THE proprietor says business at these performances is always good. Usually, a sell-out. It is remarkable, too, that the midnight audiences are orderly. Once in awhile the house cop must wave his mace, first at a noisy offender, and then at the exits, but not often.

With most of the burlesque shows the same week after week, the customers, nevertheless, are repeaters. Men and boys who work night-turn in the local mills—which gives them Sunday night and all day Monday off—are steady patrons.

SEX appeal and comedy of the slapstick and obviously suggestive brand comprise the program. Burlesque has broadened as the result of the liberties taken on the higher-priced stages.

While the comedians I watched were not very sound in their art, and lacked originality, it is not intelligent to be "uppish" about such lowly work for some of the stars who pack them in at the $5 and $6 shows, and who are courted by society and imitated, once upon a time swung the paddle at the red-wigged Irishman in burlesque.

NO AUDIENCE could be more appreciative. Encore after encore is demanded and won by noisy hand-clapping and not a few whistles.

There was a time when the Pittsburgh burlesque house boasted such names as the Four Cohens, the Rodger Brothers, Clark and McCullough (to be less ancient) and Don Barclay, but their prototypes were not in the cast the other night.

One thing that is thrown into the wings is subtlety. Figuratively, the boys take a mallet and pound the gags into the heads of their customers. And make them like it.

* * *

BUT more interesting than the show, which was routine burlesque, was the audience, which certainly affords a world of speculation, I mean, the Sunday midnight audience.

Bride Hurt

MRS. HAROLD J. PECK

BRIDE INJURED IN CRASH

A bride of less than three hours, when an automobile wreck ended her honeymoon, Mrs. Harold J. Peck was in the West Penn Hospital today.

The bride was Miss Catherine Brown, 24, of 519 South Lang avenue, Swissvale public school teacher who resigned last week. The bridegroom was of 421 East Wheeling street, Washington, Pa. He escaped injuries.

The accident occurred yesterday afternoon when the newlyweds sought to evade pursuing friends and their car was side-swiped with a taxicab in Bigelow boulevard at Lytton avenue, Schenley Farms. The taxi driver suffered slight cuts and bruises.

It was a happy couple that left the Bellefield Presbyterian Church after a noonday wedding. Thirty-two friends and members of the couple's families gathered at Webster Hall for a wedding breakfast. But none was aware where the honeymoon trip was to take Mr. and Mrs. Peck.

ELUDE PURSUERS

As they started away in their automobile, several friends followed. The bridegroom, at the wheel, proceeded through Schenley Farms hoping to lose his pursuers. According to Mr. Peck, only one car was following, and he had distanced it when the crash halted the honeymoon trip that was to have taken the couple East.

Mrs. Peck was hurled to the street as the car door opened in the crash. According to her family, she suffered a severe cut on the lip and shock. A passing motorist took the couple to the hospital. A torn "Just Married" sign and the symbolic tin cans adorned the partly wrecked car as it was pushed aside for boulevard traffic to proceed.

10-CENT BUSES PAY IN CHICAGO AND GOTHAM

Big Profits Realized, Longer Rides Given Passengers Than for Quarter Here

Both Chicago and New York have no trouble in making their 10-cent bus lines pay, in spite of the statements by officials of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company that service cannot be supplied for less than 25 cents.

Every 10-cent rider in those cities is guaranteed a seat while the "luxury" lines of this city fail to meet any such standard.

MAKE BIG PROFITS

The Fifth Avenue Coach Company piled up profits of $1,058,574 last year. This was equivalent to 10 per cent on the invested capital.

In Chicago the bus lines earned $517,350 with a tariff of only a dime. The average lengths of routes in both of these cities is greater than in Pittsburgh and transfers from one route to another are given.

Both the New York and Chicago lines are operated by the Omnibus Corporation, which has the greatest background of bus operation of any company in the United States.

14 MILES FOR DIME

In Chicago a passenger can go 14 miles for his dime on this company's buses, while in New York he can ride for 10 miles.

Incidentally, some of the New York lines meet with more severe operating conditions than are encountered in Pittsburgh. In the climb to Washington Heights buses encounter a 10 per cent grade at one point. The average on the long pull is a 7 per cent grade, which means that the buses must climb upward seven feet for every 100 feet traveled. Pittsburgh's lines are not compelled to work under any such costly difficulties."

SMOKER BURNS SELF TO DEATH

One man was burned fatally and a woman, two girls, a boy and a baby were carried to safety by firemen in a blaze in a two-story residence at 364 Main street early today.

The victim was Thomas Quinn, 30. At St. Francis Hospital it was found he was burned over the upper part of the body. He died in a few hours.

Police said he fell asleep while lying on a couch on the first floor, and that the couch caught fire from a cigaret he was smoking.

Those carried out through the smoke-filled hallways, were Mrs. Joseph O'Conner, Pauline McKarry, 19, and her sisters, Patricia, 15, and Audrey, 3, and her brother, John, 13.

Firemen placed the loss to the building at $500.

AUTO AND STILL TAKEN IN RAID

A 250-gallon still, and a liquor-laden automobile were seized in raids by prohibition agents on two dwellings in Squirrel Hill yesterday.

After arresting Harry Fellman, 29, of 3160 Beechwood boulevard, for transporting 22 pints of whisky and 18 quarts of champagne in an automobile at Beacon street and Darlington road, the agents visited his home and found five quarts of whisky, they reported. The automobile and liquor were seized and Fellman released on bond.

A dwelling at 3156 Beechwood boulevard was visited and a 250-gallon alcohol still, 39 pints of bonded whisky were confiscated, according to the agents. No arrests were made. The still was not in operation.

John Long, 35, was arrested, agents said, in a raid on a saloon at 113 Forty-fourth street, in which a small quantity of whisky and 51 gallons of home brew were reported seized.

SEEK DELAY IN MINE TRIAL

Counsel for three coal and iron policemen, acquitted of murder charges in the death of John Borkowski, Tyre miner, announced today they will petition court tomorrow for postponement of the second trial, involving charges of involuntary manslaughter.

"Because of the jury in the murder case being discharged by the court and disgraced, it would be impossible to get a fair trial until public sentiment is quieted," declared Attorney Charles B. Pritchard, who with Attorney E. G. Cole, defended the former Pittsburgh Coal Company police.

The two attorneys made an informal request of District Attorney S. H. Gardner today, to postpone the second trial listed for Monday, but he refused.

One of the defendants, Walter J. Lyster, is free on $5,000 bail. The other two, Harold P. Watts and Frank Slapikis, are in jail.

M. A. Musmanno, retained by Mrs. Borkowski as special counsel, said Patsy Caruso, prosecution witness against the three coal and iron policemen when they were tried for the murder of Borkowski, will furnish new evidence when the manslaughter trial is held.

Caruso, during the investigation of Borkowski's death, told Musmanno Watts fell into a woodpile near the home of John Higgins. The commonwealth will contend that Watts was not stabbed, as he testified in the previous trial, but that he was injured when he fell.

Under the direction of the American Red Cross, girls of the Wilkinsburg Junior High School have begun the packing of Christmas boxes. These will be sent to areas devastated by the World War and other destitute European countries. Pencils, erasers, inexpensive jewelry, handkerchiefs, ties, belts and used toys are being placed in the boxes.

Earlham Street Called Dangerous

Council has received a letter from Mrs. G. E. Sheets, of 203 Earlham street, calling attention to the dangerous condition of that thoroughfare.

Mother Hurt, Baby Escapes in Crash

Mrs. Marie Beck, 26, of 815 Flemington avenue, suffered lacerations of the head and severe bruises, and her month-old infant escaped uninjured when an automobile driven by her husband, Frank K. Beck, 25, collided with another car at Hamilton and Frankstown avenues, last night. Mrs. Beck was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital.

DRUG STORE HELD UP BY TRIO

Scores Nearby as Youthful Robbers Escape With $150 In Auto at Penn and Shady

While scores of persons waited at Penn and Shady avenues, three youths today entered the Penn-Shady Pharmacy, 228 Shady avenue, and escaped with $150 after trussing a clerk and a patron.

Harry Magarrell, of 914 North Negley avenue, the clerk and a customer, Roy Fritz, of 229 Shady avenue, were standing at the door of the drug store when the youths entered.

One of the bandits drew a revolver and forced the two men into the prescription department, where, after telling them to lie face downward on the floor, he tied and gagged them.

While the second bandit stood guard at the door, the third took $40 from the cash register and $110 from the clerk's pocket. Magarrell tried to hide the money by lying on it, but was ordered to "roll over or I'll plug you."

Police said that three persons stood outside the store. They saw the men run from the place and jump into a machine, but were unable to obtain the license number.

BURGLARS ROB FOUR HOMES

Jimmying cellar windows, robbers yesterday looted two apartments and two dwellings.

After obtaining a watch valued at $35 and two banks containing $10 in the first floor apartment of Mrs. Albert Smith, at 67 Amanda street, the thieves went to the apartment of John Miller, on the second and stole two banks which also contained $10, police were informed.

A watch valued at $50 and a bracelet worth $6 were reported stolen from the home of E. R. Abbott, at 5508 Kamin street, Squirrel Hill.

The home of Mrs. Theodore Schmidt, at 5505 Kamin street, across the street from the Abbott residence, also was ransacked, apparently by the same robbers, police said. The amount of plunder obtained in the Schmidt home was not learned by police.

Two bandits held up John Pribanic, of 1105 Orchard street, at Cedar avenue and Avery street, and robbed him of $14 and his automobile driver's and license cards.

Tech Night School Enrollment 51,891

Since 1905, Carnegie Institute of Technology has conducted evening classes with a total registration of 51,891. This figure exceeds by 10,040 the total daily registration during the same period. According to Alan Bright, registrar, those attending evening classes are the more practical students of the two groups.

West View Burgess Reported Improved

Dr. D. A. Atkinson, burgess of West View, is reported slowly recovering from a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism that has kept him confined to his home for seven weeks.

Hal Roach Says

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Oct. 8.—Everybody is talking about the fine prospects of a world peace from this trip of Mr. MacDonald, and already it has had tremendous good effects.

But after it's all forgotten and a couple of different men in both countries are in these high positions with many different ideas, why the lasting impression of Premier MacDonald's trip will be the effect that daughter of his has had on these girl cigaret ads, lip shellac, and nose kalsomining of ours over here.

Miss MacDonald has been so busy all her life learning how to be agreeablet and wholesome, that she hasn't had time to worry about how she looked, and as a consequence she looks lovely.

WILL.

METHODIST MINISTERS DENOUNCE COAL AND IRON POLICE

CONNELLSVILLE CONFERENCE CLOSES

Hoover Lauded for Peace Efforts in Resolutions Adopted at Last Session

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 8.—The Pittsburgh conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church before adjourning yesterday sent a message of appreciation to President Herbert Hoover for the "American statesmanship, which, imbued with a genuine love of peace, has given such magnificent leadership in the adoption of this new and epoch-making international covenant."

"We especially commend President Hoover," reads a resolution, "for his determination that the cause of international good will shall not be wrecked by paid lobbyists of interests that make profit from war, and we urge him to push the recently inaugurated investigation until truth stands revealed and to take whatever steps may be necesary to remove all such pernicious influences from the councils of the nations.

"We hail with hope and anticipation the conference between the President of these United States and Premier Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain as a significant step in the direction of mutual understanding and co-operation. We urge that other conferences be arranged, looking toward the complete military and naval disarmament of the nations, and the organization of an international police force for such patrol of borders and the seas as may be deemed necessary."

COAL POLICE CONDEMNED

The conference also called upon Gov. John S. Fisher to "use his power to the very limit to secure for the miners and their families whatever shreds of the rights of citizenship can be preserved under such a system" in condemning the coal and iron police, and commended the judge and district attorney of Allegheny County "for the action which resulted in the dismisal and rebuke of the jury which sat in the case of the alleged official murderers of John Barcowski, and we urge the prosecuting attorney to do everything in his power to secure at once the further trial of these men.

PRAISE MARTIN

A third resolution felicitated Judge Richard W. Martin, of Pittsburgh, for his recent campaign to rid that city of "civic rottenness."

"The splendid campaign of Judge Martin, though handicapped with insufficient organization and limited in time, clearly exposed the civic rottenhouse of the Metropolitan City of this area and encourages us to believe that if the efforts are continued they will result in the complete overthrow of the pernicious influences now in control of the city's administration."

1 HELD IN RUM CASE THREAT

Abraham Amper, 30, of 312 Bingham street, McKeesport, was arrested today on a federal warrant charging that he attempted to intimidate and impede by threats Charles Friedman, of McKeesport, from testifying as a witness in United States Court. Friedman is one of 32 members of the alleged McKeesport rum ring awaiting trial.

Hearing of the warrant, Amper appeared today before a United States commissioner and was released under $1,000 bond for a hearing October 18.

Friedman, who was serving a sentence in the Alderson, W. Va., federal prison, was brought back last spring to testify in the McKeesport case, which involves 12 police officers and 20 others. He turned state's witness, was paroled, and is expected to testify for the state. Amper is not involved in the alleged rum ring.

Strike and Embargo Tie Up N. Y. Produce

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP.)—The metropolis was cut off from its supply of fresh vegetables and fruits today by a rail embargo while market truckmen and their employers strove to settle the strike which has clogged terminals with $3,000,000 worth of perishable produce.

Rochester Youths Injured in Crash

ROCHESTER, Pa., Oct. 8.—Clair Ruby and Paul Brewer, both 19, Rochester, were injured, and Charles Craig, 18, Rochester, escaped, when their automobile collided with a car driven by D. N. Aiken, Youngstown, O., at Monaca, near here. Aiken also escaped injury.

Dormont Mothers To Hold Bazar

WOMEN TO AID AIR-MARK DRIVE

By MAX HENRICI

The Women's Civic Club of Wilkinsburg contemplates putting up a sign for the guidance of aviators. The plan is to paint the name of the borough in large letters on a conspicuous roof, with an arrow pointing to the nearest airport and giving the distance.

Mrs. Frank L. Thompson, 1000 Rebecca avenue, Wilkinsburg, has requested the Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation, Oliver Building, to furnish a copy of the Department of Commerce specifications for such signs. The corporation, co-operating with the Sun-Telegraph in a campaign to get every town in Western Pennsylvania air-marked, will be glad to furnish the specifications to all interested.

Air-marking your town is not only a commendable civic enterprise that will give it desirable advertising and a place on the airway maps, but a safety measure to reduce the hazards of flying.

Dr. H. S. Lake, of Coverdale, also has asked for air-mark specifications. Coverdale, he states, is on a direct line between Bettis Field and the county airport and Columbus, O., and as it is a high place a sign would benefit aviators. There are several buildings in Coverdale with suitable roofs, he adds.

Suspect in Attack Sought by Police

Police today were asked to seek a Negro, aged about 30 and five feet six inches tall, who early Sunday attacked a girl in her home in Durando way. The man made his escape after taking $4, according to police reports.

2 Go to Workhouse For P. A. A. Holdup

After their trial had begun, two defendants in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association holdup, July 22, changed their pleas to guilty in Criminal Court today.

The accused men, Tony Insinna and Joe Verzi, were sentenced by Judge James H. Gray to serve one to five years in the workhouse.

HELP PLEDGED VOTE REFORM

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong has pledged his assistance to bring about a more modern and efficient method of handling elections in the future. In a statement issued yesterday he indorsed the action of the grand jury investigating alleged fraud at the primary election and offered his aid to bring about changes for the better.

"I read the report of the grand jury investigation of complaints pertaining to the last election in the public press with a great deal of pleasure. I heartily agree with the suggestions made by the jury. The old laws have been in existence for so many years that they are not in keeping with present times. Changes the grand jury has recommended, I feel, should be prepared by the attorneys and presented at the next session of the Legislature. I want at this time to say that I am more than willing to join hands with any bill that will better conditions. I want to be in Harrisburg and do what might be in my power to help the passage and approval of such legislation."

Woman Held in U. S. Pension Forgeries

Mrs. Bessie Hays, Negro, rear 2935 Bedford avenue, was held for court by the United States commissioner on a charge of forging and collecting on pensions issued by the government to her aunt, Mrs. Mary Smith, who died two years ago. Since the death of the latter, Mrs. Hays, according to United States secret service operatives, cashed 23 checks, each for $30. Mrs. Smith was the wife of a veteran of the Civil War.

Engelsberg Denied New Rum Case Trial

Joseph Engelsberg, Hill district politician, convicted of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws, was refused a new trial by Judge Nelson McVicar in Federal Court today. Engelsberg was found guilty of conspiring with Charles Berger, who escaped trial, to sell and possess liquor illegally. Date for imposing sentence was fixed at 10 a. m. Friday. Assistant United States Attorney Raymond D. Evans prosecuted the case.

City Given Claim For Auto Damage

C. C. Clair, of 81 Biddeford road, Ben Avon Heights, has submitted to Council a claim for $15.25 for damage done to his automobile that was hit last September 25 by a truck from the Bureau of Highways and Sewers.

PERMITS SHOW BIG GAIN

Building permits issued in Mt. Lebanon from January 1 to October 5, at an estimated cost of $4,973,864 was reported to the township commissioners at their regular meeting held in the Washington Public School last night.

In his report, George J. Irwin, building inspector, stated that he had issued 403 permits. This year exceeds 1928 by $478,782. The following permits were issued: Dwellings, 298; double houses, 26; apartments, 20; business houses, 10; duplexes, 3; garages, 36; remodeling houses, 3; temporary buildings, 5, and public buildings, 2.

The commissioners ordered that Washington road, the main thoroughfare of the South Hills, be decorated with golden globes during the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the invention of the electric light.

The application of the Berkshire Development Company of Pittsburgh for building of a 22-family three-story apartment house on Central square, to cost $70,000, was approved.

Permission was granted the school boys of that community to use part of the municipal park for their soccer football games. The park's shelter house will be at the disposal of the Boy Scouts of Mt. Lebanon for the use of their meetings.

Township Solicitor Samuel A. Schreiner was instructed to prepare plans for the redistricting of the Second and Third wards for voting purposes. A petition will be presented in court shortly.

JAIL EASES CONSCIENCE

PATROLMAN ARTHUR JENNINGS EDWARD MILLER

Miller, North Side tap dancer, being escorted to a cell in Central Police Station after he gave himself up as one of the two men who held up a gas station. His conscience troubled him, Miller confessed. He told of talking with police who were searching for him.

DANCER GIVES UP AS BANDIT

"I took part in the robbery of the A. D. Miller & Son service station at Penn avenue and Barbeau street last night, and couldn't sleep afterward. What will I do about it?"

This was the information given Sergt. David Cloughly, of North Side Police Station, today when he answered a telephone.

"Who are you?" Cloughly asked.

"Oh, that doesn't make any difference. What will I do?" the voice came back.

"Tell us where you are and we'll take care of the rest," Cloughly replied.

"Never mind. I'll be down to see you."

Fifteen minutes later, Edward Miller, 28, tap dancer, who said he has been rooming with Max Schmidt, 17, of 123 Jucunda street, arrested after the robbery, walked into the station house and gave himself up and police say told the following story:

"Schmidt hadn't any money last night, and he asked me to go with him to the gas station. He just wanted me to stay outside, he told me.

"After the robbery, we ran over the Manchester bridge and when the officers came in sight, I slowed down. They grabbed Schmidt and passed me up. While they were talking with him, the police told me to shut off their motorcycle and I went home."

At a hearing, Schmidt was held for court for robbery after he was identified by Frank Schrader, gas station attendant, who was in charge when the holdup took place. A loaded revolver and $90 was found in Schmidt's possession when he was arrested, police said.

Why not? It is a proven antidote for pain. It works!

And Bayer Aspirin tablets are utterly harmless. You have the medical profession's word for that; they do not depress the heart.

So, don't let a cold "run its course." Don't wait for a headache to "wear off." Or regard neuralgia, neuritis, or even rheumatism as something you must endure. Only a physician can cope with the cause of such pain, but you can always turn to Bayer Aspirin for relief.

Bayer Aspirin is always available, and it always helps. Familiarize yourself with its many uses, and avoid a lot of needless suffering.

FIVE CABINET MEMBERS TO ATTEND RIVER CELEBRATION

ADAMS, OF NAVY, TO JOIN HIS COLLEAGUES

Six Railroad Presidents Accept City's Inivtation; Luncheon Being Arranged

For the first time in the history of Pittsburgh, five members of the Cabinet of the President of the United States, will come here to join governors, senators and distinguished railroad, business and corporation executives in the banquet in the William Penn Hotel, October 17, which will open the Ohio River celebration.

Announcement by James Francis Burke, toastmaster of the banquet, at a meeting of the Pittsburgh celebration committee at a luncheon meeting in the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday, was that Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams had promised to be present with four other cabinet members for the celebration, which marks the completion of the nine-foot stage in the Ohio River between Pittsburgh and Cairo, Ill. Besides Adams, there will be Secretary of War James W. Good, Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of Labor James J. Davis and Secretary of Commerce Robert Patterson Lamont. The party will arrive the morning of the seventeenth in a special car.

RAILROAD HEADS COME

Although the Ohio River celebration marks an engineering achievement that links Pittsburgh's rivers to the sea, the significance of the event from a transportation staadpoint will be enhanced by the presidents of six of America's greatest railroads. Those to be present are: Daniel Willard, of the Baltimore and Ohio; Gen. W. W. Atterbury, of the Pennsylvania; P. E. Crowley, of the New York Central; Charles H. Markham, of the Illinois Central; J. J. Burnet, of the Chesapeake and Ohio, and Frank C. Taplin, of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia.

Gov. John S. Fisher, of Pennsylvania, and Gov. William G. Conley, of West Virginia, have accepted the invitation to the banquet at which Secretary Good will be the principal speaker, and like the cabinet members and others, will arrive in the city the morning of the seventeenth.

WILL HOLD LUNCHEON

At the committee meeting yesterday, Alexander W. Dann, presiding, it was decided to hold an informal luncheon for the visiting guests on the seventeenth. Credit to James Francis Burke for his efforts in bringing together the greatest gathering of governmental and business officials for many years was given by the committee.

The committee will ask Marcus Aaron, president of the Board of Education, and William S. Davidson, superintendent of schools, to give the high school students a half holiday so they may be present at the river parade, in which between 24 and 30 steamboats will participate.

KINDNESS WINS SQUIRRELS

Thurston has his rabbits on the stage but John Casper, of 605 Ridge avenue, North Side, has his squirrels on the street cars, in stores or wherever he goes.

Tucked in his coat sleeves, a trio of three-month-old squirrels trust Mr. Casper by instinct, undoubtedly bred from their mother who was fed for many months by him. A baker by trade, Mr. Casper's hobby is to feed the 30 or more squirrels that scamper about East and West Parks, North Side. He has done this for two years. The city provides hickory nuts and he buys walnuts to add to their rations.

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

Tells How to Darken Gray Hair With a Home-Made Mixture.

Joicey Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about gray hair, and how to darken it, with a home-made mixture:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken gray, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

Coal Company Sued For Mining Crop

C. B. Burns, Ida V. Byers and Margaret M. Kirk, through Ella Kirk Phillis, executrix, filed suit against the Clinton Block Coal Company in Common Pleas Court, seeking to recover $46,000 damages. Plaintiffs alleged that the coal company mined coal valued at about $10,000 from their property, comprising 100 acres, in Findley Township, damaged the surface and ruined three springs. The coal company mined coal under the property from 1922 to 1927 under a title to all coal with a 25-foot covering, but exceeded its area by mining 20,000 tons under three acres outside the 25-foot cropline, the statement alleged.

DUNN ELECTION DRIVE OPENS ON RADIO

Vote Frauds Cannot Exist Honest Regime, Democrat Says, Pledging Reforms

Election frauds cannot exist under an honest and fearless municipal administration, Thomas A. Dunn, mayoralty candidate on the Democratic and Good Government tickets, told a radio audience in a speech delivered over KQV last night.

"The history of election frauds in the past few years and in the recent primary prove conclusively that neither the criminal prosecution of individuals, the judicial processes of the courts nor the enactment of new laws can stamp out election frauds," he said. "The grand jury return that was made last Saturday is merely an admission of this."

PLEDGES REFORM

Dunn pledged himself to stamp out election frauds in Pittsburgh. His address marked the opening of his radio campaign. Speaking from the same station was his campaign manager, E. Lowry Humes.

Humes urged the election of the entire fusion ticket—Democratic and Good Government.

"We accept the result of the primary as proof conclusive that a vast majority of the people of Pittsburgh believe the charges that have been made against the present administration and desire a change," he said.

WITNESS TELLS OF MYSTERIOUS TAX RECEIPT

First Ward Man Received His By Mail, He Testifies Before Registration Board

Tax receipts appeared mysteriously in the mail boxes of residents of the Third District, First Ward, according to the testimony of witnesses before the board of Registration Commissioners today.

Of 103 summoned from the district, only 16 appeared to testify today. Eight others have moved since the election.

SOURCE MYSTERY

It was in a plain, unstamped envelope, he said. He denied having any idea who might have placed it there.

A stranger met him on the street and handed him his tax receipt, Thomas J. Madden, 213 First avenue, testified.

DIDN' KNOW HIM

"Did you know the man?" asked Thomas Kilgallen, counsel for the commissioners.

"No. He must have known me for he stopped me and gave me the receipt."

The hearings, held in connection with the effort of the elections committee of the Bar Association to strike several thousand names from the list, are being continued this afternoon.

POLICE TO QUIZ FOUR HELD AS BANDITS

Quartet Suspected in Bridge Game, Gambling Holdups; Loot Reported Recovered

With the further questioning of four bandit suspects, city detectives today expected to solve three holdups and the robbery of an apartment, in which loot totaling $6,000 was obtained.

The suspects, docketed as Steve Capilango, 21, of 1652 Colwell street; Wesley Crouthers, of 1512 Forbes street; Thomas Lamanta, 21, of 141 Washington street, and John Marino, 22, of 1611 Bluff street, were arrested in an automobile at Liberty avenue and Twenty-sixth street early yesterday. Their plans to enter the offices of the Welderaft Equipment Company, at 2623 Liberty, were foiled, detectives said, when police from the Penn avenue station arrested them.

Detective Lieut. Edward O'Rourke and Detectives George Franz, Joseph Leith and James Swearingen reported recovering a small portion of loot obtained by four bandits when they raided a bridge party September 22 in the apartment of Mrs. Eleanor Brown, in the Federal dwelling, 11 Federal street, in Marino's room.

Marino, according to Lieut. O'Rourke, confessed his part in the Brown holdup. At a hearing before Magistrate T. A. Jones, O'Rourke asked that they be held over until tomorrow.

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

Wise legislation has halted the ancient prejudice that dictated the exploitation of child labor for selfish gain. Guided by AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE it has routed greed. No longer are little children forced into slavery.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

Ann Marie's Attempt to Borrow Money From Bank Fails

CHAPTER XLVI.

LEOTA INGRAM started down the steps, her short skirts swinging, her beadbag dangling from her fingers, the end of her fox scarf swinging back and forth like a pendulum as she went.

At the foot of the steps she turned, her lovely impudent painted face gleaming like an ivory carving in the summer dusk.

"Think it over, old boy," she said. "Think it over—and don't kid yourself I don't mean business, 'cause I do. I've had a lot of luck lately, most of it bad, and I sure do need money. So dig down deep unless you want trouble and plenty of it, old papa!"

Halfway down the street she stopped beside a car that was parked at the curb. Through the dusk Ann Marie could see that it was a dark green roadster with cream-colored mud-guards.

She knew whose car it was . . . In a small town everybody knows everybody else's automobiles, just as everybody there knows everybody else's business.

"Well, she told the truth about having a lawyer, anyway, Dad," she said, watching the car turn and disappear around the corner. "She just got into Mr. George Beeseley's roadster."

Mr. Mack made a sound that was half a groan and half a cuss word . . . For Mr. George Beeseley was the town's "shyster" lawyer!

The twilight deepened on the sagging old porch. All around the house were the familiar noises that mean peace and happy living . . . the faint clatter of china and silver from the kitchen where Mrs. Leezy was putting away the dishes . . . Stella's voice from the backyard where she and Howdy were weeding the little vegetable garden . . . the sound of water from the lawn-spray pattering on the grass.

But there was no peace and no happiness in Ann Marie's soul as she sat there on the top step of the porch with her head against her father's knee.

"You couldn't raise a dollar for her, could you, Dad?" she asked, presently, when the street lamp just beyond the maple trees had blossomed into light and the stars were coming out.

"You know I couldn't," her father answered just as she had known he would have to answer.

"I've borrowed on this house until I can't borrow another nickel. You know that," he explained. "And I haven't even paid for the stock I've got down in the store—the books and the pictures and all the rest of it."

He put his old head down into his hands. "I couldn't even give Jeanie her wedding," he said. "And when Mrs. Leezy and I were married—I couldn't even pay for the little trip we took. She bought the car with her own money."

The car . . . The car that Ann Marie had bought from her just in time for Neal and Alice to use for their honeymoon! . . .

Suddenly Ann Marie turned around and hid her eyes against her father's knee. She was too miserable to cry. She just crouched there in the darkness, wondering why life had to be so full of misery for some people and so bright with happiness for others . . . There were Jeanie and Alice, both of them on their wedding trips, both of them spending this warm whispering starlit night with the men that they loved.

". . . . And here am I—broken-hearted," wailed a phonograph in the Greens' house just across the street.

The next morning Mr. Macy came home from the store at 10 o'clock.

His wife and Stella had gone to market and Ann Marie was alone in her room upstairs, packing her overnight bag to go back to New York and her job.

"Well, Ann Marie, that girl does mean business," he said, coming in and standing just inside the door, mopping his wrinkled forehead with his handkerchief. "Beeseley just telephoned me and said that if she doesn't get the money she wants out of court she's going to start suit."

"Well, let her sue!" Ann Marie answered. "Neal hasn't a nickel to his name. I can't imagine where he got the money to marry Alice—"

"Ah, but she's not going to sue him!" her father interrupted. "She and Beeseley must have got together last night and changed their plans . . . They must have found out that Howdy's my partner in the store, they're going to sue him."

He mopped his forehead again. "She'll get a judgment against Howdy just as sure as shooting," he said. "And it'll hang over his head all his life until he gets it paid. Beeseley says that girl has a lot of love letters that Howdy wrote her just before he married Stella—the young fool!"

But that wasn't the worst of it.

An hour later Mrs. Leezy and Stella came home from downtown. Stella came straight up the stairs to Ann Marie and stood in the doorway of her room.

"I want to show you something I just bought," she said happily, and opened a small package of white paper.

In it was a piece of the finest white batiste, some narrow lace edging and a spool of white thread.

"It's for a baby dress," sighed Stella, holding the batiste against her flushed cheek. "Howdy and I are going to have a baby next November! — Now, isn't that the loveliest thing that ever could happen in all this wide big world!"

After she had gone Ann Marie still stood, gazing at the empty doorway . . . There were no two ways about it now! Somehow or other that two thousand dollars must be raised and turned over to Leota right away before she started suit against Howdy for breach of promise!

"We can't let Stella find out about Leota—now!" she thought.

But she didn't know which way to turn for the money!

At one minute before 3 o'clock that afternoon Ann Marie walked into the white marble coolness of Mr. Lawler's bank.

The first person she saw was Johnny.

He was standing in the middle of the floor, talking to old Mrs. Henderson, who had the reputation of being the richest woman in town.

He did not see Ann Marie until she brushed against him. "I came to see you," she said in a half-whisper as she passed him.

She had barely reached his big mahogany desk in the corner before he was beside her.

"You came to see me?—Well, I'll be jiggered!" he said, a broad bright smile lighting up his face. He pulled up a chair for her and they both sat down . . . This was the old Johnny of the pre-Alice days who sat before her, grinning at her in his friendly boyish way.

"Well, this is certainly fine! To have you come dropping in the way you used to!" he told her. "We were pretty good friends once upon a time, weren't we, Ann Marie? Well, what did you think of Alice and Neal eloping? That was one on us, wasn't it?"

He laughed as if it were a great joke.

Ann Marie smiled halfheartedly.

"Yes, that was one on us, Johnny," she said. "It was one on me, at any rate . . . I haven't had much time to think it over, though, or even to cry about it. I've been so worried about something else. Johnny, did you ever hear about 'a friend in need'?"

"Sure—sure," said Johnny. "'A friend in need is a friend indeed,' isn't that it?"

"That's it," she answered. "And, Johnny, that's what I want you to be today to me, if you can."

The bank was almost empty now, and the doorman was locking the front door. Sam, the colored man who had worked there for years, was pulling down the green blinds across the big front windows.

"I want you to do me a favor," said Ann Marie. "I want to know if I can borrow a couple of thousand dollars from this bank . . . Do you think you could arrange it with your father?"

Johnny seemed to be thinking this over a for a long moment. Then he shook his head.

"Well, no, I honestly don't think I could get the Old Man to lend you anything," he said at last. "You see, your dad is up to his neck in debts here—and my Old Man is sore as a pup at your family. He has been ever since Howdy gave Florence the run-around—and then when Alice started fooling around with Neal and we split up!—Well, that was the finish—No, I don't believe anybody named Macy could get a loan at this bank, Ann Marie!"

He took out his watch and began to play with it . . . Ann Marie looked at it thoughtfully. It was a thin platinum watch, fastened to a slender platinum chain.

And on one of Johnny fingers was a massive ring of smooth platinum set with a big diamond.

"He has more than two thousand dollars in his hands right this minute," thought Ann Marie, "enough to keep Stella from knowing all about Howdy and Leota Ingram—enough to keep us all from being disgraced—and robbed.

For that was what Leota's threatened suit really was. Robbery and blackmail . . . And Ann Marie knew it.

"I'll tell you what!" Johnny said suddenly, struck by a thought that made him smile contentedly to himself. "Maybe I could fix you up with a loan—with some of my own money. What do you say about getting into my car and taking a drive somewhere to talk it over?"

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Avoids Imperious Wrath of Princess Olina.

IF A GLANCE possessed explosive power, I would have been in atoms at the feet of Princess Olina when I had finished my purposely patronizing little speech assuring her that no one would have the opportunity to talk to Prince Georges before herself, but emphasizing the impossibility of her seeing him before the morrow. Her great pansy eyes were suddenly so black that I thought involuntarily of the baleful glances supposed to be sent out by offended goddesses, her figure was drawn up to its full stately height, and as I saw her hand dart out and then draw itself back again, I thought whimsically that I might expect to hear her imperious voice shout, "Off with her head!"

"Mrs. Graham!" she began chokingly. "How—"

"Please!" I put up my hand decisively. "You are my guest, and overwrought, I must not trouble you any longer just now. I know that all this is most distasteful to you, but your coming here is the only way to protect you—in Mr. Underwood's judgment. So try to believe that we all are most glad to welcome you and are trying to do the very best we can for you and for Prince Georges. If you wish anything, just touch that bell."

I was outside the room, with the door closed—I had been standing almost in the entrante—before she could answer. I had observed her sufficiently to know that beneath her imperiousness was a warm heart and a keen sense of justice. Purposely I had kept her from uttering the insolent words which I knew were upon her lips—words which neither of us could have ignored. Now I knew that they never would be said, and I went to the little balcony off the hall, leaving the door open for the summons which I was very sure would soon come to me. I did not wish to be in Mary's room or, indeed engaged anywhere when the imperious young princess should conquer her arrogance.

I had not long to wait. Faintly from the kitchen below I heard the tingle of Katie's bell, which is connected with different bedrooms for emergency ringing or for the use of members of household or guests. The little maid came tearing up the back stairs—impelled, I knew, as much by her curiosity as her invariable desire to give good service—and went to the door of the room which Olina occupied. The words of the princess were inaudible to me, but Katie's were distinct in her usual high-pitched tones.

"Sure ting, she somevere oop here, she not downstairs. I find her for you, vot I say—tell her she coom by you, hein?" My little maid's voice was hesitant—almost disapproving.

"No, no," Olina's words could be heard now. "Ask her if I can come to her, wherever she is."

"Yah, dot better," Katie told her nonchalantly, and departed while I choked back a little laugh at Olina's quick descent from her pedestal and Katie's loyal protection of my dignity.

I waited until I heard Olina's door close, and then I came swiftly from the balcony, meeting Katie in the hall.

"I told dot Mees Lincoln I find you somevere oop here," she told me triumphantly. "She vant me to tell her vere she can coom see you. Vere you vant her?"

"I will go to her at once, Katie," I said. "Thank you for telling me," and moved away before she could voice the protest which I knew was close to her lips.

When I tapped upon Olina's door she opened it quickly, started back a step when she saw me.

"Oh!" she cried, impulsively, "I did not mean you to come to me. I meant to come to you. I want to tell you how——"

I lightly put my hand over her lips, smiling at her.

"Suppose we consider it all said," I told her softly but with decision. "Far better that way. I hate explanations, and I know you must. Let me show you the closet and your bureau capacity. There is a cedar chest under these pillows"—I indicated Marion's window seat—"which will hold a number of gowns."

"I shall be most comfortable, I assure you," she said, "and I want you to know how grateful I am to you for all your kindness. I—really—am terribly upset over all this."

She was very near to tears, and I put up my hands and took off the hat which she had not yet removed. I guessed that she had stood motionless in the center of the room where I had left her until she had conquered the gust of rage which had swept over her at what she at first deemed my insolence to a person of her rank.

"What you need," I said briskly, "is some hot tea. Get yourself into something comfortable, and I'll have Katie bring you up a pot and some sandwiches at once."

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A DISTINCTIVE FROCK FOR THE GROWING GIRL.

Printed and plain linen are combined in this model. Below the shaped yoke portion of a panel the right front is laid in a group of plaits. The left front and back are also joined to yoke portions, the back, too, showing fullness. The sleeve is of the bishop type, with fullness above a narrow band cuff. This pleasing frock may also be developed in jersey or wool crepe and in gingham and other wash fabrics. Checked gingham with chambray or linen for facings is suggested, as practical for this model, as a school dress.

The pattern is cut in four sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. To make the dress for a 12-year size will require 3¼ yards of 35-inch material. To make the yoke portions, band cuffs and belt of contrasting material will require ⅝ yard 32 inches wide and cut crosswise.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Eggs and Sausages

Any cooked sausage may be combined with eggs to make a very tasty breakfast dish.

Four eggs, ½ pound sausage, 1 tablespoon butter, melted, 3 tablespoons cream or top milk.

Heat the slices of sausage in a frying pan, and if there is any excess fat, pour it off. Beat together the eggs, cream and butter. If the sausage is particularly spicy, it is not necessary to add other seasoning. If it is mild, add a little salt and pepper to the egg mixture. Pour over the hot sausage, stir and cook until thick. Serve on hot plates with toast.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN.

Wedding Invitations

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. As I am about to be married, will you please let me know if it would be proper to send my employers an invitation to the wedding? There are six at the head of our firm. They have always been very kind and considerate of me.

2. Should I send one to each separately?

3. When should I have the invitations printed, and how soon before the wedding should they be sent?

4. I would like to have my brother and sister stand up for us, and this is the question: His brother and sister live in another town, and the only way for me to come in contact with them is to write to them, and I would like to write soon and ask them to stand up for us. Or do you think I should make a trip there and ask them personally? E. H.

IT would be better, if you were to send announcements to your employers, rather than to send invitations.

2. If you send them, send one to each separately.

3. Send the invitations about three weeks before the date set for the wedding.

4. It would be quite correct to write a note inviting them to be attendants at your wedding.

Eating Large Sandwich

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please explain how a "Jumbo-Double Decker" sandwich is eaten? I say it should be eaten with a fork. B says it should be eaten like a regular sandwich.

DOT AND DASH.

THIS impressive structure should be eaten with both a knife and fork. And we need 'em both! Plus a great deal of savoir faire.

The June Bride

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am to be a June bride, having an evening church wedding, and shall thank you to help me as you have so many other girls by answering the following questions:

1. If one's father declines to "give the bride away" will it be proper for a brother (younger) to officiate in this capacity.

2. Is it a new custom for the bride to go to the altar alone, unescorted by either father or brother?

3. For a church wedding where simplicity is to be the keynote, what decoration would you suggest?

4. At a club reception would refreshments served buffet style be in order?

5. Is the best time to have the photographs taken immediately after the ceremony and before the reception, or should one take care of this before the ceremony?

6. What entertainment for guests who do not dance? What is the usual program at a bridal reception? Give details.

BRIDE-TO-BE.

YES.

2. It is possible but not desirable. I should advise you to go up to the altar on the arm of your brother or some male relative.

3. Any white flowers on the altar. Calla lilies or peonies or very large roses or any large flower in June. Large forms are the most effective in decorating, and should have a background of green.

4. Yes.

5. There is more time after the ceremony. It is possible to have photographs taken before, but after is easier. Do not hurry through your wedding reception. Enjoy it leisurely and gracefully.

6. For those who do not dance at a reception no other form of entertainment is necessary. The pleasure of meeting friends is sufficient.

HELEN ROWLAND

"I saw something that looked like the aurora borealis flash by," admitted Mrs. Divot. "A b o'u t onniere and a pair of spotless spats! A symphony in color, with socks, cravat and silk hanky all to match. A walking stick and a ribbon in the eyeglass. Was that John?"

* * *

"Yes," said Mrs. Green. "My own glorified mate! He's only keeping up with the procession. Going Jimmie Walker, Grover Whalen and Beau Brummel, like all the other snappy business men. Going high-hat with the rest of them! Haven't you noticed? Wrinkled tweeds, carefree socks and rumpled haberdashery no longer distinguish the Big, Busy American Financier. The Boss of the firm now dresses as well as the chief salesman, and sports quite as high a polish on his manners and his finger-nails.

"Dear old-fashioned 'democracy'—which usually meant just bad-dressing, money-grubbing, eating with the wrong fork and using two negatives—is OUT! Hose and manners must be all-silk; and a gardenia in the buttonhole is as much a part of the office equipment as mahogany furniture."

"But," protested Mrs. Divot, "it's been only two months since the men paraded around in pajamas and protested against wearing collar-buttons!"

"You don't expect men to be LOGICAL, do you?" said Mrs. Green. "Be thankful that they are trying to be ornamental! It's a healthy sign.

"My heart was entirely with their dress-reform revolt last Summer; but I didn't expect it to last. Men are too standardized ever to dare anything more original in the dress problem than an extra button on the coat or a change of cuff-links. They are too sensitive! They just couldn't STAND being stared at or laughed at—or, above all, DIFFERENT!

"But thank heaven, this new fad for putting on dog has gotten enough headway to make a well-groomed, well-tailored man inconspicuous among his fellows. Soon, all the pack will be following their leaders, and the American business man will be the best-dressed man in the world. All America is going high-hat! We never do things by halves, over here!

"And the most cheering and wonderful part of it is its glorifying effect upon our MANNERS! Somehow, good dressing inspires a man to live up to his top-hat and silk hose and the flower in his button-hole. A man simply can't be rowdy or boorish in a smart afternoon coat and flossy neckwear and a boutonniere. The 'rough diamond' was usually just a roughneck—and I'm delighted that he's out of the picture. Give ME a little polish!

"So, if John wants to go Beau Brummel, I, for one, am going to stand by and wave a flag and shout hurrah. Because, a man just can't go Beau Brummel without going Lord Chesterfield!"

* * *

"Thank fate!" exclaimed Mrs. Divot fervently. "What's the use of having a Hispano Suiza to ride in, a landscaped country place, a duplex town apartment, and a million dollars in the bank, if you've got a husband that just spoils the scenery and looks like thirty cents?"

Enlist Sun's Rays in Combatting Rickets

CIVILIZATION demands much. She makes us pay high prices for what she gives.

Chiefly these penalties are the diseases caused by our modern mode of life and the kinds of food we eat. Rickets is such a disease. It is caused by improper diet.

DR. COPELAND

As a rule rickets is found among children who are bottle fed. But occasionally a breast fed baby develops the disease.

Formerly, it was generally believed that bad air, lack of exercise and infection were the principal causes. It is true that children taken from such surroundings when suffering from rickets and exposed to sunshine and fresh air begin to show immediate improvement.

An interesting fact about this disease is its geographic occurrence. It is most prevalent in America and middle Europe. Children of Italy, Spain, Greece, Norway, Denmark and of the Eskimo regions rarely are affected.

In the southern countries it is because the intense heat keeps the children out-of-doors. In the northern regions the mothers nurse their babies for very long periods. These mothers, too, have a diet rich in animal fats. This keeps the child well nourished. Negro and Italian children in America are particularly prone to the disease. One reason given for it is that the pigment of the skin in these races prevents the ultra-violet rays from penetrating. Without these rays there is great danger of rickets.

The children with rickets have difficulty in walking. They are pigeon breasted, knock-kneed, have enlarged joints, bony protuberance of the skull and other deformaties. The abdominal muscles are weak, giving a "pot bellied" appearance. The child eats and sleeps poorly, is nervous and irritable.

Exposure to the direct rays of the sun is desirable. Artificial lights have much the same effect. The hospitals and clinics now give these light treatments.

Orange, tomato and prune juice, spinach, cabbage, milk and eggs are rich in those elements supplying the bone-building tissues. Cod-liver oil is of great value and should be given regularly.

By proper feeding and exposure to sunlight the mother may be confident her baby is safe. We need not worry over an ailment so well understood.

FACTS about the prices of new cars which every car buyer should know

In the interest of the public and of our dealers, all advertisements of General Motors cars carry this statement:

"Consider the delivered price as well as the list [f.o.b.] price when comparing automobile values. Our dealers' delivered prices include only authorized charges for freight and delivery, and the charge for any additional accessories or financing desired."

WHEN you buy a new automobile, it is the delivered price that you actually pay.

The delivered price consists of the list price of the car—the f.o.b. price advertised by the manufacturer—plus certain other charges which the dealer makes.

You are entitled to know what those charges are and what they are for. This information is necessary to properly compare motor car values.

In keeping with General Motors' policy of frankness, General Motors dealers have adopted a standard price tag which explains exactly what their charges are. The tag is attached to the steering wheels of new cars on display in their showrooms. It shows the list price of the car and the following other items:

1. Freight and Delivery. An authorized amount to cover the freight charges paid by the dealer and the cost of unloading, inspecting, supplying fuel and oil—preparing the car for delivery to you.
2. Accessories. A charge for any additional accessories that may be purchased.

The price tag tells all. No other items are added. Nothing is hidden. There is no extra charge to permit a seemingly better trade-in offer. No extra charge to cover advertising, etc. Each charge is fair and reasonable.

General Motors dealers invite you to make their tag your guide in comparing automobile values. The real measure of value is the delivered price—for that is the price you pay.

If you wish to purchase on time payments, find out and compare the finance charges. General Motors dealers offer convenient terms at reasonable cost.

ENTHUSIASM WILL HELP BRUINS

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. — One of the most striking, and, incidentally, one of the most pleasing, contrasts between baseball and football never stands out so impressively as at the beginning of a world series, for the championship of the diamond. It has to do with the outward or public indication of the mental attitude of the generals leading their forces into a battle of exceptional importance.

Connie Mack

In football, just before a big game, many a coach appears to be in the depths of gloom. He tries to give the impression that he is taking his forces into a losing battle: that his team hasn't got a chance in the world to win. "Jones can hardly walk," he will tell you. "Smith is barely able to raise his right arm from his side; Brown has a temperature of 103 and I have no one to take his place, and several of the others ought to be in a hospital. We haven't been showing anything of a promising nature in practice. The team is pretty well shot and about all that we can hope to do is to hold down the score."

But in baseball its altogether different. There is never any sign of pessimism there when a team is going into a big conflict. If the manager doesn't actually feel that his club is a sure winner, he talks that way anyhow for the purpose of encouraging his players and the home fans.

EACH pilot will tell you that there is nothing to it but a victory for his team. "I don't see how we can lose," is the general expression. "There isn't a weak spot on my club. Every man is in tip-top shape and on his toes for the start, and if we are defeated it will be only because we have run up against a better ball club, and I don't believe there is any better club in existence. If those other fellows are going to beat us they'll have to do it out there between those white lines and not on paper."

There was no departure from the usual order of things when the Cubs and Athletics made ready here today for the opening round in the title struggle. Both Joe McCarthy and Connie Mack, the rival chieftains, were brimming over with confidence.

EACH pilot said he had a world of respect for the opposing manager and his players, but neither would admit that he harbored the slightest fear of defeat. It was the same among the athletes. The Cubs, to a man felt sure of victory in the series, and so did the Athletics.

Joe McCarthy

ONE thing certain was that the Bruins would not lack encouragement from their home following. For several days the city has been baseball wild and in a frenzy of enthusiasm. Every member of the Chicago team is a public idol and in the closing game of the regular season against the Pirates last Sunday the crowd cheered even when a Bruin batter hoisted an ordinary fly. It is doubtful if any team ever was more popular in its own district or had the fans so wrought up to root for it.

"And don't overlook that as an item in the Cubs' favor," said a veteran National League player. "The right encouragement from the crowd helps a ball player more than I can tell you, and I never saw fans so ready to fight for their club as the Chicago rooters are for the Cubs."

EVEN Mack's attempt to keep the enemy in suspense and uncertainty by declining to announce until the last minute the name of the pitcher whom he would send against Charley Root in the opened this afternoon, failed to shake the confidence of the Cubs and their supporters.

"It won't make any difference whom he sends against us," was the attitude of the Heydler loop champions. "We hit all the pitchers in the National League and you can't name any good reason why we should not do the same to the American League hurlers. Big reputations made in the regular season do not win world series games."

WHILE owners, managers and players connected with the National or the American League continued their old policy of letting sentiment sway them and were still picking the champions of their respective circuits to win the series as the hour drew near for the opening of actual hostilities, the most conservative unattached baseball men leaned slightly toward the Cubs.

THEY figured that the Bruins would get the jump, and the jump means a lot in a short series. They based their conclusions largely on the fact that McCarthy's men are hard to beat on their own grounds, and that Mack's warriors would be handicapped through never having had a real workout at Wrigley Field. Every ball park has its own peculiarities in the matter of lights and shadows, and these features frequently confuse players when they go into action at a strange park.

MANAGER McCARTHY'S decision to start Root in the first game, instead of Pat Malone, as had been generally surmised, was based on the fact that Root is considered a steadier man on the mound and a better money pitcher in general. An error behind him, a questionable decision by an umpire or any ordinary unfavorable break has been known to cause Malone to lose his temper, and when he loses that he loses his pitching value. Root, on the other hand, has ice water in his veins, and continues to pitch in calm and unruffled fashion no matter how many boots are committed by his supporting company. It is only when three or four hits are made off him in succession that Root's effectiveness wobbles.

The demand for world series tickets has been the greatest in the history of Chicago, and a park with twice the capacity of Wrigley Field, increased to 51,000 by the building of temporary bleachers extending over the streets behind right and left fields, apparently could have filled easily.

THE usual complaints were heard from regular patrons who failed to obtain pasteboards. One man has missed only two games at the Cub grounds in five consecutive years. Early in August he sent the Braves under a three-year contract, and, as neither Bill nor President Fuchs denied that a tentative three-year agreement had been reached, it was thought that the signing of a contract would be only a formality.

HITCH IN AGREEMENT

However, after the two had breakfasted together and later had a prolonged conference without a contract being signed, it was evident that some sort of hitch had arisen. McKechnie left the hotel and was absent the greater part of the day. Fuchs said merely that nothing had come of their conference, but that he would meet McKechnie again later. When the draft meeting was held at the Drake Hotel at 8 o'clock last night, McKechnie put in an appearance with Fuchs to look after the interests of the Boston club, and it was announced that he had signed to manage the Braves for the next four seasons.

Just what had caused the delay in the closing of the matter after the morning conference, and what had led to the extension of the pact from three years to four, was the subject of much speculation. One surmise is that McKechnie had demanded a contract with the 10-day release clause eliminated, an iron-clad agreement in other words; that a conference with League President John A. Heydler has disclosed that the league rules do not permit such an agreement, and that Bill was then given a four-year contract instead as a sort of compromise. The American League permits managerial contracts with the 10-day clause cut out, but the National League does not.

BOTH PLEASED

Both McKechnie and Fuchs expressed themselves as greatly pleased with the arrangement.

The official announcement of the signing of McKechnie was made by President Fuchs, in the following statement:

"I am glad to announce that the Boston National League Club has been able to obtain the services of Mr. William B. McKechnie as manager of the Braves for a period of four years.

"Mr. McKechnie had an offer to continue with the St. Louis Cardinals, but through the courtesy of our mutual friend, Mr. Samuel Breadon, president of the Cardinals, we were able to obtain Mr. McKechnie.

"My judgment is that we have obtained the best constructive leader available for the purpose of building up a young, aggressive ball club.

"Personally, I feel elated, and know that the baseball public of Boston will be pleased as time goes on. I desire to express my appreciation of the patience extended me during the short period of my experiment on the bench.

"I saw the club go from a leading position in the league to the bottom and am satisfied that every major league president would benefit by such a contract with the players and conditions.

"I desire to acknowledge with gratitude the courtesy of the baseball writers, umpires, officials and players I came into contact with during the short period."

McKechnie had been offered a one-year contract by the St. Louis National League Club, but when it developed that Boston was willing to sign him for a longer term, President Samuel Breadon said he would not stand in the way if Bill had a chance to better himself and gave him permission to negotiate with Fuchs.

The Wilkinsburg citizen, and former Pirate player, coach and manager, has done more shifting around during the last year than any other pilot in baseball.

FOURTH JOB IN YEAR

Bill was manager of the Cardinals at the close of the 1928 season, but after the world series, in which his club lost four straight to the Yankees, he was transferred to the role of pilot of the Rochester International League Club, which is owned by the Redbird bosses. Billy Southworth was put in his place at St. Louis, but failed to get results, and McKechnie was recalled after midseason this year and again given the Cardinal reins. Counting the double St. Louis engagement, the Boston position is the fourth managerial post that Bill has held within 12 months.

McKechnie previously managed the Pirates, winning the National League pennant and the world championship in 1925, and in 1915 he was manager of the Newark Federal League club for a time.

KILLEFER WITH BROWNS

The signing of McKechnie by Boston upset the fall dope in baseball, as it had been understood that Dan Howley, whose engagement with the St. Louis Browns ended yesterday, would be placed in charge of the Braves. It is now said that Howley may take the place of Bill Carrigan, who, it is reported, will give up the managership of the Boston Red Sox. Howley's St. Louis berth goes to Bill Killefer.

President Breadon has given no intimation as to whom he plans to appoint in McKechnie's place as leader of the Cardinals.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—All the blackboard drills are over and the battles will now be switched to the ball field. May the best club win, but we of the National League think the Cubs are the best club—at least this opinion holds good at the eleventh hour.

Pie Traynor.

The press section buzzed with excitement last night following the arrival of the A's. Perhaps Connie Mack was trying to pull a fast one on the boys when he told all interviewers that the identity of his opening game pitcher would not be known until he steps into the warmup rubber at Wrigley Field this afternoon.

It is altogether possible that this move is a piece of strategy, but prominent American Leaguers felt that Connie was in earnest about waiting up to game time.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—The move of the Boston Braves in securing Bill McKechnie as manager for a four-year period was a big topic of conversation today as the Cubs and Athletics went into battle in the first game of the world series. That Skipper Bill maneuvered his case beautifully was conceded by many close observers, although there are others who think Bill erred in giving up a possible championship outfit to go to work on a club that finished in the cellar. McKechnie, apparently, was successful in negotiating a contract which protects him against the whims of overseers.

Although the Pirates were able to get only one player in the annual draft draw, there is a lot of interest for Pittsburgh fans in some of the boys who made the jump via this method. THREE KAYOS MARK BOUTS AT GARDEN

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

Fight fans who like the thrill of untimely finishes in their battles got them in the reopening show at Motor Square Garden last night when three of the four contests ended in technical knockouts, only the first preliminary, the hardest and closest fought bout of the night, by the way, going the limit with Young Corsey, of Canton, O., winning the referee's decision over U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, after the judges had split, one voting for Carpentier and the other for a draw. Corsey's cleaner hitting won him the edge, although Carpentier made a strong bid for the honors with a hot sixth-round finish, in which he brought the blood in a stream from his opponent's nose and painted the latter's face with the crimson.

Joey Goodman, of Cleveland, and formerly of Baltimore, won by a technical knockout over the highly-touted Henry Perlick, of Kalamazoo, Mich., in the seventh round of the scheduled 10-round main bout. Referee Al Grayber stopping the bout after Perlick had gone down along the ropes without being hit after having got up at the count of two from a previous knockdown on which he should have taken nine to give his head a chance to clear, and then had been floored again for no count.

FLAGSTEAD, BRAME SIGN

By Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Instead of having a flock of holdouts on his hands next spring, Barney Dreyfuss may upset the dope by getting most of his stars and understudies in line before the year is out.

Dreyfuss already has acted in this connection, it is said, he signing one of the star pitchers of the club as well as an outfielder.

Pitcher Ervin Brame, who won 16 games this year, is reported to have signed for a generous increase in salary. Outfielder Ira Flagstead, the veteran who proved a very valuable utility player, also is said to have signed up for next season.

Flagstead played brilliant ball in the outfield on several occasions and his bat came through in big clinches. The former American Leaguer was one of the best outfielders in the game for a number of years and he has held to most of his skill. His spirit also is an asset to any club.

Brame might have won 20 battles this season with a few breaks. He turned in some beautiful exhibitions. Moreover, he is a .300 hitter, who is used effectively in pinches.

persons and every available inch of space was occupied at game time.

The gates of the holders of standing room tickets were opened at 10:30 and before 11 o'clock, or two and a half hours before game time, fully 15,000 persons were in the ball yard cheering the comedy stunts of Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, the baseball clowns, who had been engaged to entertain the early comers. A brass band also helped to liven up things with popular airs.

SCALPERS REAP HARVEST

Reserved seat tickets simply "didn't exist" today. Even the scalpers reported a complete sell-out at prices ranging as high as $150 for a set of three seats costing normally $16.50.

Little or no betting on a large scale was reported. It is one series in which even the gamblers appear unwilling to try to pick a winner.

While finding amusement in the antics of Altrock and Schacht, it was baseball that the fans had come to see. They were glancing up at the entrance to the Cub dugout every few seconds and a wild cheer went up when the Chicago players trotted out at 11:40 o'clock and began to toss balls to each other in front of their bench. Photographers were on the field in large numbers and a battery of cameras was trained on McCarthy's athletes.

BRUINS FIRST ON FIELD

The Bruins started their batting practice at 11:43. Whether Mack would open with a right-hand or left-hand pitcher was still in doubt, but on the chance that Grove might pitch McCarthy sent a southpaw, ex-Pirate Mike Cvengros, to the rubber to serve the ball to his batters in practice.

The Athletics came on the field at 12:03 p. m. and were given a rousing reception.

Preparing for the possibility that the Athletics might use Ehmke or Earnshaw instead of Grove, McCarthy took out Cvengros midway in the batting practice and sent in Welsh, a right-hander recently obtained from the International League.

EHMKE IN SWAT DRILL

The Cubs withdrew and the A's took the field for batting practice. Eddie Rommel pitched to the hitters. The fact that Ehmke took a turn in the batting drill led the fans to believe that he probably would be the pitching choice over Earnshaw and Grove.

The stands were filling rapidly and the fans were thronged in the surrounding streets to such an extent that it was clear that the game would have attracted possibly 100,000 if there were room in the park.

The Cubs went on the field at 12:59 for fielding practice and gave a snappy exhibition. Every fast play was wildly applauded by the fans.

Manager McCarthy walked across the field to the A's dugout and greeted Manager Mack in cordial fashion.

All doubt as to who would pitch for the Athletics in the opener was dispelled at 1:14, when Howard Ehmke, the big 35-year-old right-hander, stepped out to warm up. At the same time Root appeared to warm up for the Cubs.

When the field was cleared at 1:22 the park was filled.

After the band had rendered the National Anthem, a wild cheer went up as the fans settled back in their seats and the teams came on the field for the opening of the big series.

Mountaineers Have Powerful Line

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 8.—When word filtered into the West Virginia University football quarters that it was the woefully weak play of the Duke University line that was chiefly responsible for the 52-7 drubbing that the University of Pittsburgh griddegs handed the Blue Devils, there was a more confident feeling among Mountaineer fens and the state gridders themselves that West Virginia's chances of a victory over the Golden Panther lie chiefly in the play of the line Coach Ira Rodgers has built with the aid of Walter (Red) Mahan and Louis (Oogie) Meisel.

The invading Blues hold a commanding lead in the present standing, having scored three victories in the four games played in the Missouri city.

Manager Billy Southworth announced intentions of pitching Tex Carleton, a lean righthander. Carleton defeated the American Association team in Kansas City in the second game. Kansas City was due to start Lynn Nelson.

PIRATES OBTAIN SHORTSTOP IN DRAFT

MINORS SEND 26 BACK TO MAJORS

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Twenty-six players, 20 of whom have been up previously, were drawn back into the major leagues from minor circuits at the annual draft meeting last night. The Philadelphia Nationals claimed four, the largest number by one club.

The world championship contenders, Philadelphia Athletics and the Chicago Cubs, drafted one man each. The A's claimed Outfielder Oliver from Little Rock, of the Southern Association, and the Cubs called in Pitcher Al Sheeley, from St. Paul, of the American Association. Sheley's previous trial in the major leagues was with the Yankees.

ENGLE TO BUCS

The St. Louis and Cleveland clubs, of the American League, were the only ones not calling in players.

The Pittsburgh Pirates drafted Charles Engle, shortstop, from Memphis, of the Southern Association.

The Philly list included three pitchers, Byron Speece, from Indianapolis, of the American Association; Nichols, from Montreal, International League; Collard, Shreveport, Texas League, and a first baseman, Jack Sherlock, from the Mission team, of the Pacific Coast League. Speece formerly was with Cleveland, Sherlock with Detroit, Nichols with the Yankees and Collard with Cleveland.

Hollis Thurston, who once pitched for the White Sox and Washington, was drawn from San Francisco, of the Coast League, by Brooklyn, which also got Pitcher Faulkner, once with the Giants, from Buffalo, of the International League.

TIGERS GET HARRIS

Detroit drafted only one player, Spencer Harris, hard-hitting outfielder from Minneapolis, of the American Association. Harris previously was up with the White Sox and Washington.

Other clubs and the players they obtained were:

Boston American—Bill Sweeney, first baseman, from Toronto International League; Otto Miller, infielder, from Milwaukee, American Association, and Pitcher George Smith, from Seattle, of the Coast League. Sweeney and Smith formerly were with Detroit, while Miller had a trial with the St. Louis Browns.

Boston National—Johnny Nuen, first baseman, from Baltimore, International League; Red Rollins, the third baseman, from Hollywood, Pacific Coast League, and Outfielder Bratcher, from Denver, of the Western League. Nuen played with Detroit and Rollings was tried by the Boston Americans.

Chicago American—E. Smith, shortstop, from Birmingham, Southern Association, and Outfielder D. S. (Sheriff) Harris, from Portland, Pacific Coast League. Smith had a previous trial with Washington and Harris was up with the Boston Braves.

REDS GET RICONDA

Cincinnati National—Earl Webb, outfielder, from Los Angeles, of the Coast League, and Harry Ricondo, from Kansas City, champions of the American Association. Webb was with the Cubs at one time and Riconda has been up with several major league teams.

St. Louis Nationals—Pete Fowler, pitcher, from Reading, International League; Harry McCurdy, Toledo American Association catcher, and Andy Messenger, pitcher, from Wichita Falls, Texas League. Fowler was tried once before by the Cards, and he also was with the Cubs. McCurdy also received a trial with the Cardinals and was with the White Sox. Messenger was with Cleveland.

New York National—Shortstop Allen, from Wilkes-Barre, New York-Pennsylvania League.

New York American — William William Karlon, catcher, from Springfield, Eastern League.

Washington American — H. E. Fyle, pitcher, from Chattanooga, Southern Association.

PIRATES HOPE CUBS WIN

crack righthander who proved such a big factor in winning the pennant for the Athletics. The wise boys had George all nominated for the role, but close friends of Mack point out that Connie is very sweet on Grove.

Jewel Ens made a wise observation at the conclusion of Sunday's game between the Pirates and Cubs. Larry French, you know, held the Bruins to six hits, and the Bears are supposed to be tough boys for the southpaws.

"A lot of the fellows who are supposed to be smart on the placing of odds and that sort of thing are likely to go down heavily on Grove when he works on the Cubs," remarked Jewel. "Grove is supposed to be and is a better pitcher than French, but the fact the Larry threw back the Cubs is sure to influence a lot of fellows."

ROOT GOOD PITCHER

There is no denying that French's victory did boost Grove's stock to some extent. Those who were at Wrigley Field realize that the Cubs played hard all the way, but they could not solve the young southpaw with any degree of consistency.

Root is sure to work for the Cubs and this decision on McCarthy's part is a wise one. Most of the Pirates have confidence in Charley although it is a fact that our team has been quite successful against this crack pitcher. If you took a pool of players on that matter, Root probably would win out. His experience is greater than that of Pat Malone, and Charley, too, has a lot of stuff.

World to Hear World Series Over Radio

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Baseball fans all over Europe, Central America, parts of South America and Africa will have a chance to listen in on the world series games, starting today.

In addition to the huge hookups for American consumption, General Electric short wave stations, W2XAAF and W2XAD, operating on 95.30 and 15,340 kilocycle lengths, respectively, will broadcast the series from Schnectady after relays from Chicago and Philadelphia.

Meredith Victor Over Nig Blair

NEWARK, O., Oct. 8.—Lee Meredith, of Toledo, middleweight, defeated Nig Blair, Portsmouth, after 10 rounds, before a large crowd, here last night, winning eight, with the other two even. In the semi-final Jim Gerry, of Columbus, knocked out Ray Vagis, an Indian from Grandhaven, Mich., in the first minute of the first round. Red Kirk knocked out John Barton in the first round of the curtain raiser.

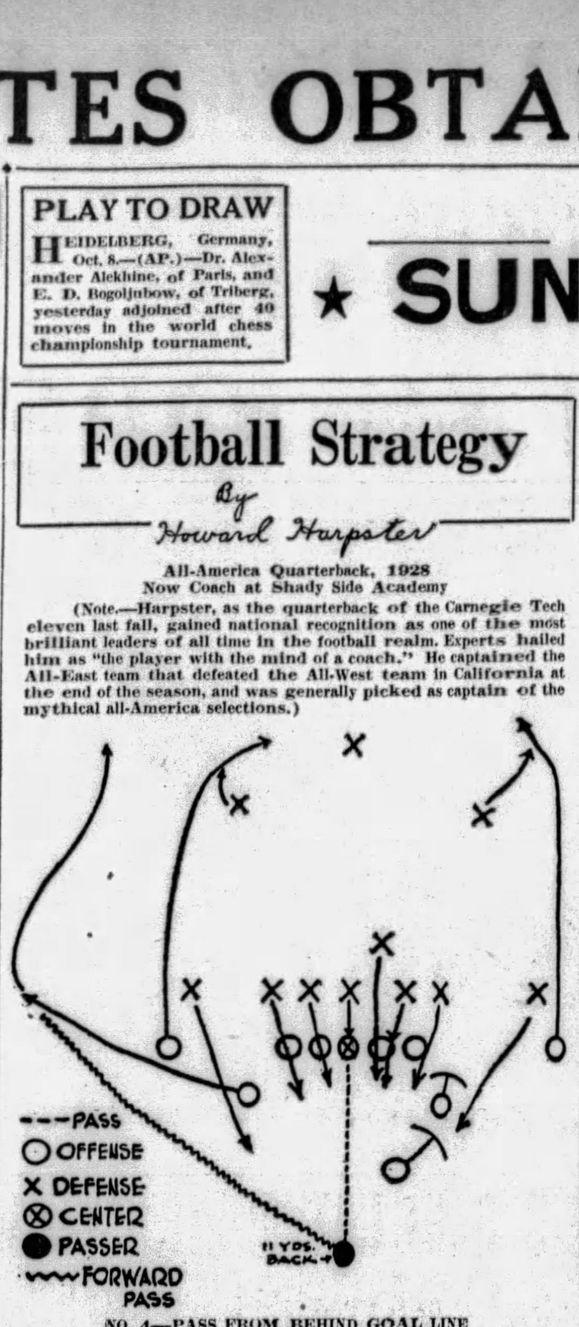
Football Strategy

By Howard Harpster

All-America Quarterback, 1928
Now Coach at Shady Side Academy

(Note.—Harpster, as the quarterback of the Carnegie Tech eleven last fall, gained national recognition as one of the most brilliant leaders of all time in the football realm. Experts hailed him as "the player with the mind of a coach." He captained the All-East team that defeated the All-West team in California at the end of the season, and was generally picked as captain of the mythical all-America selections.)



NO. 4—PASS FROM BEHIND GOAL LINE

THIS pass fooled W. & J. in Carnegie Tech's game with the Red and Black last fall. Tech had the ball on its own five-yard line and the pass was thrown on first down from six yards behind the goal line. The passer faked a kick and then threw a flat pass to the left halfback, who caught the pass in the open and ran for a 35-yard gain.

The W. & J. line and the fullback rushed in to block the kick, while its halfbacks dropped back to block our ends so the safety man could run back the kick. This permitted our halfback to make the catch unmolested.

Final score: W. & J. 0; Tech, 19.

PITT, CARNEGIE, DUKES DRILL

Coach Jock Sutherland evidently does not want his Pitt Panthers to take their overwhelming victory over Duke at Durham, N. C., too seriously, for he ordered scrimmage yesterday when the Pitt squad turned out for the first practice session of the week.

The varsity lined up against the freshmen for a short workout, using plays which will be sprung against West Virginia in the first big home game of the season Saturday.

The Mountaineers should give the high-scoring Pitt squad a real test, the test which Jimmy DeHart's Blue Devils failed by a wide margin to provide last week.

All of the Panther players are in good shape, and will be drilled hard today and tomorrow before Coach Sutherland lets up on the training pace.

DUKE LINEMEN HURT

Duquesne University's coaches have something to worry about in the injuries of Sammy Pratt, end, and Louis Skender, tackle, with the first Forbes Field game against Albion (Mich.) College fast approaching. Pratt has a wrenched left knee that forces him to hobble about with a cane and which does not show signs of improving fast. Skender suffered a broken rib in one of the scrimmages as the Dukes tied the Mountaineers last Saturday and will probably be missing from the Albion lineup. In addition, both Capt. Buff Donnelli and Maseh Silverstein, at the pivot post, were considerably shaken up during the West Virginia fray, having been out for some minutes while the clash was at its highest.

TECH GRIDDERS WORK

While local football fans were disappointed at the showing of Carnegie's fighting Tartans in their game with Thiel College, Coach Bob Waddell believed that it was the best thing that could have happened. According to Waddell it made the team realize that there is plenty hard work ahead for the next several days before they can say it is ready for the Western Reserve battle at Cleveland Saturday.

One of the biggest receptions ever meted out a Carnegie Tech football squad in another city is in store for the Skibos when they invade Cleveland, according to Graduate Manager Karl E. Davis, former Pitt athletic head. Davis has informed Graduate Manager Clarence Overend, of Tech, that the newly-organized Western Reserve Band, garbed in natty uniforms, will be at the station when the Kiltie band and the football squad will arrive in the Forest City Friday evening at 9:15 o'clock.

KDKA to Radio World Series Ninth Year

Radio Station KDKA will broadcast the world series games beginning today through the National Broadcasting Company's station hookup. In addition to the regular broadcast, the short-wave facilities of the station will be in operation to transmit the program to foreign countries. This is the ninth year that KDKA has transmitted the world series.

Members of the Keystone A. C. will get the world series play-by-play results in the main lounge and billiard room throughout the series, according to announcement by Manager Fred Crawford.

dianapolis, and Jack Sherlock, of the San Francisco Missions.

The last named player seems to have been one of the best in the minor leagues during the season just closed. A few years ago Sherlock went West with the Pirates as an outfield candidate. Jack was just a raw rookie and was left to his own resources. But the youngster had the stuff in him. Broke and among strangers, he caught on with the Seattle club, of the Pacific Coast League, and the first thing we know the young man was a shortstop playing regularly.

RICONDA TO REDS

In due course of events, Sherlock became a first baseman and it was in this position he shone through the past summer for the Missions. The Missions, bossed by Red Killefer, won the first-half flag in the Coast circuit. Sherlock's all-around play was a feature.

Chester Nichols, little righthanded pitcher, was with the Buccos for a spell. But he did not see much action. Byron Speece, a prototype of Carl Mays, made one spring training trip and that was all.

Pirates' fans also will be interested to know that Harry Riconda, who played part of this year with the Pirates before starring for Kansas City, has been drafted by the Reds. Playing third base for the Blues, Riconda's work was a big feature in winning the American Association pennant.

SMOKE TALKS by the DUTCH MASTERS

Of course, we don't know your particular preference in cigars. But so tremendously popular a cigar as Dutch Masters must appeal to most smokers. Why should you be an exception?

There are young men's styles in clothes—so why not a "young man's cigar"? From the number of men under 30 we see purchasing Dutch Masters, it seems to be the choice of the younger men. Probably they first take to Dutch Masters on account of its mildness. Undoubtedly they stick to Dutch Masters because of its taste and bouquet.

* * *

It doesn't take much of a judge of tobacco to realize that Dutch Masters is a good cigar. But only the smoker who knows the finer points of cigars will realize just how good Dutch Masters really is.

* * *

When it comes to cigars, some gentlemen prefer "blondes"—thinking they are milder than "brunettes." As a matter of fact the light color of a wrapper is no indication of mildness. If you want a mild cigar, the one safe rule is to select a cigar noted for its mildness. Dutch Masters, for example.

BETHANY HOPES TO BOOST FOOTBALL STOCK

BISON ELEVEN BETTER THAN 1928 TEAM

By JESS CARVER
Staff Correspondent.

BETHANY, W. Va., Oct. 8.—Furman Nuss and George Shoemake, the football coaches here at old Bethany College, are seeking to restore the Bisons to a high place in tri-state collegiate gridiron ranking this fall, working with a squad composed of 14 lettermen and some 35 aspiring and perspiring freshmen and sophomore non-letter winners.

A representative schedule, with only one game with a major eleven, has been devised, including two contests with Tri-State Conference elevens, four with West Virginia state rivals and one with an Ohio college.

The schedule is not strong enough to boost the Bisons to championship heights, provided it is successfully carried through, but a majority of victories will serve to raise the morale of the school and skyrocket the regard with which Bethany has been held in district circles during the past three or four years.

THREE STARS LOST

Bethany's losses from the 1928 eleven were not great in numbers, but were fairly heavy in importance. Dale Fiers, a hard-hitting and versatile fullback; George Price, center, and Charley Rodgers, a fine tackle prospect, were lost. Fiers and Price graduated and Rodgers failed to return to Bethany, electing to enroll in a midwestern institution.

The Nuss-Shoemake lettermen holdovers include three ends, three tackles, as many guards and five backs. Two of these, Lund, halfback, and Rush, end, are both on the hospital list and seem doomed to remain there all fall. Rush was seriously injured in the Tech game and Lund has been in such poor shape that the coaches have disregarded him as varsity material. The tough part of it is that both men are fine players.

THE ENDS

With Rush out of the picture, Bethany is left with only five end candidates, only two of whom have seen varsity service. Damschroder and Bramhal likely will get the starting jobs now that Rush is out. Johnson, who played well against Tech, a freshman, Grynaveski and Herron are the understudys.

Damschroder started against Tech, paired with Rush, and Bramhal was injected into the lineup when the latter was injured.

THE TACKLES

Van Marietta, a hefty lad and boasting some experience, has won a place at one of the tackles. Buttermore, a reformed guard (if you can reform a guard) has been placed at the other. A freshman, Dopko, broke into the action in the opening game and demonstrated fine ability, so much, in fact, that both the starting tackles will have to hustle to hold their jobs.

Liber and Behm, the latter a letterman, are other tackle prospects.

THE GUARDS

John Latto, Hamill, Thompson, Fisher and Dopko are making a merry battle of it for the guard jobs. Against Tech, Nuss started Hamill and Thompson, but used all three of the others before the game ended. Latto is suffering from a shoulder injury, which may handicap him for some of the early games, but with his weight and class, is certain to be a valuable asset once he rounds into condition.

Latto, Hamill and Fisher are all lettermen.

THE CENTERS

As is the case at a number of the tri-state schools, the center situation is giving Bethany no little worry. Burwell, who has yet to make a letter, appears to be the first choice for the job, but Enos and Welsh are pressing him hard and in turn are finding the challenge of Corley hard to shake off.

THE BACKFIELD

Led by the hard-hitting Roe, and the versatile and clever Baker, at half, Bethany is going to be able to point with pride to a crack backfield for the remainder of the schedule. Baker suffered a cracked rib against Tech, but expects to be in shape to play against Broaddus Saturday. Roe, a hard hitting fullback, almost the equal of the departed Fiers, is one of the best in the district.

O'Keefe, lacking a bit in speed, but smart enough and a good defensive back, and Imei, the team's kicker, round out the present backfield combination. With Baker out, Kasarda, who shown with particular brilliancy against Carnegie, will be in at halfback.

Ronalds, a reserve quarterback; Rogers, Behm and Lund, halves, and Verassi, a fullback, are other backfield candidates.

Lund played regularly last year, did a lot of the booting and starred on the defense. A rundown physical condition has about put the kibosh on him as a prospect for this year, but if he is able to regain his form, will be certain of a regular place in the backfield.

THE SCHEDULE

The Bisons were beaten in the opening game by Tech, 21-0. Fairmont Teachers afforded the opposition last week, and Broaddus comes here for a game Saturday. Next week, the Green and White will tackle Marshall at home and then entertain Waynesburg in one of the two Conference games on the book.

Following the Waynesburg clash, Westminster is to be played at New Wilmington and on November 9, Nuss will lead his charges against Muskingum at New Concord, O.

The season will close November 16 with the annual game with West Virginia Wesleyan.

The Bisons are wearing green jerseys with white rosin stripes and white block numerals on the back. The socks are plain green and the helmets black with white bands crossing front and back.

$200 to the Cub offices with the explanation that while he knew seats were not yet on sale, he wanted to be sure to have his name on the list. He repeated his request when the sale was opened after the clinching of the pennant. He did not get a ticket. Even Manager McCarthy was limited to 200, though it is customary to sell the pilot of a world series club as many as he needs to care for his particular friends.

Charley Root

ONE feature of Cub activities prior to the opening of the series did not go over very well with experienced baseball men. Some of them saw in it a possibility of Chicago's chances being harmed. Kiki Cuyler, Lefty Grimm and Clifton Heathcote have been engaged for a singing act at the Chicago Theater the week of October 28, and Hack Wilson and another Cub or two have been signed up for a week's stand at the State Lake Vaaudeville Theater, just across the street from the movie house where the other Bruins are to appear. For some time the stage-going Cubs have been giving the majority of their spare hours to rehearsing their acts. In addition, they have been appearing at radio stations at the rate of $50 each per night.

ONE of these Chicago players confessed Sunday that he was "all tired out" as a result of the rehearsal work, and many fear that the work of the Cubs who have been devoting so much time to the side money-getters may be affected in the series. The general opinion is that the players should have been nursing themselves for the big baseball contract at hand. Instead of relaxation, it is overwork. Two big league managers, questioned on the subject, said they never would have stood for it, and were surprised that McCarthy had permitted it. What the players pick up in this fashion will hardly amount to as much as the difference between a winner's and a loser's share in the series, which is the penalty they have been risking.

American League men today continued to express the opinion that George Earnshaw, the big righthander, would prove the best bet on Mack's staff. One of them was Billy Evans, former American League umpire, and now an official of the Cleveland club.

"TO MY mind, Earnshaw is the best pitcher who has come into the American League since Walter Johnson," declared Evans. "He has everything when normal, and when his control is right, he is close to being invincible. Mack has other star pitchers, but I rate Earnshaw the greatest in the league."

NO ONE can razz Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinals, to Bill McKechnie. Fans in general were wondering how Bill, in view of the fact that his St. Louis contract carried a reserve clause, ever managed to get into a position that enabled him to deal with the Boston Nationals for a three-year contract as manager.

Bill McKechnie

"IT WAS all due to the kindness of President Breadon," McKechnie explained. "He said that I could retain the management of the Cardinals in 1930 if I cared to do so, offered to give me a contract and said he would be glad to have me stay. But at the same time, he said he knew the Boston club was willing to give me a three-year contract and did not wish to stand in my way of getting such a long-term agreement when it is the policy of the St. Louis club to give only one year managerial contracts. It was mighty kind and nice of him, and I certainly appreciate the way he treated me."

The tip is going around again that Babe Ruth will be made manager of the Yankees to succeed Miller Huggins. Ruth's name was mentioned among the first possibilities, but that report was denied. Now it is being whispered again in knowing circles that the Yankee owners are considering the Babe above all other available pilots, and that fandom need not be surprised if the Bambino is given the job eventually as the best prospect and most popular figure available. The place was offered to Donie Bush four days after the former Pirate leader had accepted the White Sox post.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Three alleged ticket scalpers were arrested near Shibe Park yesterday for making persistent efforts to induce men and women purchasers of world series tickets to dispose of them. The men gave their names as J. Finkleman, Morris Feinberg and Edward Crane. They were charged with disorderly conduct.

It was the final day for world series ticket purchasers to obtain their seats. Shibe Park now is sold out, with the exception of about 2,500 bleacher tickets that will be sold on the days of the Athletics-Cub three games here, beginning Friday.

Arizona-Mexico Grid Game Planned

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 8.—(AP.)—A. L. Slonaker, graduate manager of the University of Arizona, announced today that negotiations for a series of football games between the Wildcats and the National University of Mexico had reached the stage of fixing tentative dates. Slonaker recently offered President Portes Gil, of Mexico, a plan for two games, one to be played in Mexico City and one here, and in answering the letter the Mexican president suggested that the games be arranged between December 15 and 31.

BROWNS SIGN KILLEFER

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Bill Killefer, former manager of the Chicago Cubs, former coach of the St. Louis Cardinals and for the last three years chief coach of the St. Louis Browns, yesterday signed a three-year contract as manager of the Browns, succeeding Dan Howley.

The choice of Killefer was announced by Phil Ball, president of the Browns, in a brief statement, in which he said the club had signed a man who would be loyal and would enforce the necessary discipline. The contract contained a clause that Killefer would be expected to co-operate with the "front office" in all things pertaining to the team.

Howley announced Saturday that he was not a candidate for renewal of his three-year contract as he and Ball had disagreed as to management policies. Killefer said he had signed only after Howley had persuaded him it was the right thing to do.

Killefer began his major league career with the Phillies in 1912 and became famous as the battery mate of Grover Cleveland Alexander when "Aleck" was in his prime as a pitcher. Killefer was transferred to the Cubs with Alexander and became manager of the club, but resigned in 1925 and joined the Cardinals next year.

It was Killefer who persuaded Alexander to sign a Cardinal contract after Manager Joe McCarthy, of the Cubs, had asked for waivers on the veteran pitcher for alleged misconduct. Killefer left last night for his home in West Chester, Pa. He plans to move to St. Louis and make his permanent home here.

Ball's statement was a caustic one. It read:

"We hope we have signed for the next ensuing three years a playing manager who will be loyal and not crucify his employer, whose head will have control of his tongue, who can say 'yes' or 'no' on a trade and not leave himself an 'out' and who will enforce the necessary discipline. He is William Killefer, Jr."

BIG SANDLOT GRID SLATE

By TOM BIRKS.

Followers of the independent gridiron will see some wonderful battles again this week-end. Headed by the East Pittsburgh Firemen-McChesneytown game, at the Quarry grounds, a long list of well-balanced tilts is carded, including Port Vue at Burns, New Kensington Olympics at Oakland Community, Tarentum Firemen at Linwood, Pleasant Valley at East Liverpool, and Blawnox at McKeesport Olympics.

Another strong contender is coming into the Western Pennsylvania elimination series, East Liverpool, which is playig all clubs from this district. It is going to make things tough for the other clubs, Purl Daley is backing the club and intends to get a winner.

BIG GAME

However, all fans will be bound for the Quarry Stadium to get a glimpse of the Big Red machine from Latrobe. This will be Hector Kennedy's first trip into the Pittsburgh district, and the finalist of last season is touted to have a better ball club.

McChesneytown has been classed as the only club in the independent circuit that resembles a college team, with its moves planned with neat dispatch. When the game is called, a record crowd is anticipated.

The Burns Club will receive its severest test when the Goldberg-coached outfit clashes with the Port Vue Quakers. It is not often the Quakers leave the Port Vue field, but the Burns' offer was too good to resist, and this should be counted in the real ball games for next Sunday.

NEW KENSINGTON HERE

Pittsburgh fans will have the Oakland Community aggregation meeting the New Kensington Olympics. The Olympics come into this district for a second time, having played a scoreless tie with the Homewood Tylers. The Community gridders are playing to large crowds and it is a sure bet the undefeated Olympics will pack in the fans. Last season the Olympics claimed the championship honors. Manager Seaman's team played eight winning games and then was sidestepped. Oakland naturally wants to be the first club to stop the Allegheny river boys. It is going to be a real game.

McKeesport Olympics intended to play the Glassport Odds, but something happened and Manager Iverson booked the Blawnox gridders for Rainbow Gardens Sunday. Blawnox has piled up a good record and, being a weighty team, should give the Olympics a good game.

The Olympics are badly crippled, following the East Pittsburgh affair. Sapp and Wood will be out of the game for three weeks at least. Both had small bones broken.

Army-Navy Grid Battle Is Unlikely

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Hopes that Secretaries Good and Adams held of bringing West Point and Annapolis together in a post-season football game this year have failed of fruition. Good said he and Adams had discussed bringing the superintendents of the military institutions together in a further effort to end the controversy over the eligibility of football players.

Even should an agreement be reached soon, he said, it would be impossible for the Army to play the Navy, because of a post-season game with Stanford University on the West Coast and a full schedule.

WORLD RECORD LOWERED

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Main McElwyn's winning of the $10,000 Lexington stake in which he lowered the world record to 2:02¾ in the opening heat, was the feature of yesterday's Grand Circuit card. This was the third time the record for 2-year-old trotters has been lowered since the meeting opened.

Rival Series Pilots Make Statements

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—These pre-battle statements were issued by the rival managers:

Joe McCarthy, Cubs:

It looks like a tight series and a good one to me. You never can tell what will happen. I am making no predictions, but I would be foolish if I wasn't altogether confident of my club. It will hit, and hits will win the series."

Connie Mack, Athletics:

We are fit. Close series? Certainly. Two good clubs will meet. Starting pitcher? Not yet. I will not name him until this afternoon. The A's have played good ball all season, and they will play good ball here.

THREE KAYOS MARK BOUTS AT GARDEN

and came back claiming he had injured his right shoulder so badly he could not continue. Referee Red Robinson thought he was spoofing and began to count him out, whereupon Silvers got up and backed about the ring, with his arm at his side and wincing as if in pain. He appeared to be unable to defend himself and Robinson called a halt and awarded the bout to Perlick. The round lasted only 43 seconds.

This bout started off sensationally, with Perlick rushing from his corner and throwing a right that caught Silvers napping and floored him for a count of one. Marty came back later in the round with a series of lusty left hooks, one of which dazed Perlick and dropped him for no count in a neutral corner. It was Perlick's round. Silvers evened up the second round with a rally that wiped out Perlick's early lead and then came the sudden finish in the third. Silvers outweighed Perlick by nine pounds, scaling 146 against 137.

PANKA STOPS SETUP

The much-awaited heavyweight battle between George Panka, of Homestead, and K. O. Blackburn, of Cleveland, ran true to form in that it was over in 19 seconds, with Panka scoring his third consecutive one-round knockout victory and his sixth knockout in as many professional starts. Blackburn was a setup who slapped away at close quarters with Panka until the latter got an opening for a right to the chin and then he went down flat on his back. At six he began to raise his head and look about and at seven it appeared as if he might get up, whereupon his manager, Jimmy Dunn, of Cleveland, frustrated such a move by tossing in the towel. It looked like a buildup for Panka, who ought to be in with somebody who can and will give him a fight his next time out.

Panka now has had three setups in his three bouts at the Meyers Bowl and the Garden and no one around here knows whether or not he can take it or travel a route. The best way to find out if he is a champion in the making or a flash in the pan is to put him to the test. Let's have for his next opponent a ringman who has won his spurs and not another unknown whose manager may throw in the towel to prevent the possibility of his getting up before the count is completed and thus spoil a pretty little act.

Manager Dunn's action last night was entirely uncalled for and is worthy of an investigation by the boxing commission. Blackburn, whoever he is, had taken only one solid punch and the idea of having the towel tossed in for him the moment he began to show signs of life was utterly ridiculous.

TWINS LACK PUNCH

Neither of the Perlick twins was impressive last night. They are green for main-bouters who have fought the men whose names appear in their records and neither can punch hard enough to break an egg, while their boxing is only fair and they back-pedal too much. The best part of their fighting apparently is the manner in which they have publicized into attractions.

Goodman's showing merited a return bout here for him. He is a good boxer who carries the fight to his opponent and punches hard. He is inclined to be right-hand crazy, leading constantly with a driving punch with that fist, and this would get him into a lot of trouble against a good counter puncher, but he evidently took into consideration last night the fact that he had nothing to fear from his opponent in this respect. The first round was even and Goodman carried all of the others with his forcing tactics and sharper hitting. He finished the battle in the seventh round by forcing Perlick about the ring under a barrage of rights to the head, many of which connected solidly. Finally one of them staggered Perlick and another dropped him. He jumped up at two, but was groggy and Goodman chased him across the ring and let drive with another right that spilled him. As Henry got up again, he collapsed and went down without being struck and Referee Grayber promptly called a halt and helped to drag Perlick to his corner.

Grayber and Robinson divided the refereeing and Joe Slumbo, of Homestead, made his debut as an announcer in evening dress. Chappy Couch was the timer and Bull Brown was back as a judge, working with Frank Ferris. A good-sized crowd turned out for the season's inaugural show at the Garden.

It was announced that Johnny Indrisano, of Boston, who holds a decision over Joe Dundee, scored when the latter was welterweight champion, will meet Tommy Freeman, of Cleveland, in the main bout next Monday night.

MAJESKE TRAINING HERE

Walter Majeske, of Saginaw, Mich., who meets Young Rudy, of Charleroi, in the main bout of 10 rounds at the Moose Temple Friday night, already is on hand to train for the event. He is under the wing of Bernard Keily, Jr., of McKeesport and formerly of Detroit. He has boxed Tony Ross, Billy Staub and other well-known boxers in the Middle West and is making his first appearance in these parts against Rudy.

Two Angelos will be on the card at McKeesport Thursday night. Young Angelo, of Swissvale, meets Ken Hargreaves, of New Kensington, in the six-round semi-final and Joey Angelo, of Braddock, opposes Steve Zancka, of Wellsburg, W. Va., in the six-round opener. Joe Trippe, of Rochester, N. Y., and Tug Phillips, of Charleroi, will box the windup and Tom Maico, of Soho, s paired with Marty Simmons, of Wilkinsburg, in the second event.

Battling Gizzy, of Donora, will not go out of his class in the future to meet lightweight opponents, according to his manager, George Tucker. He will not box anyone scaling more than 130 pounds.

Johnny Dundee boxes Al (Rube) Goldberg in a 10-round bout in New York tonight. Earl Mastro meets Bud Taylor in Chicago, with Salvotore Ruggirello boxing Les Kennedy and My Sullivan taking on Jackie Brady in other 10-rounders.

Shannopin bowed, 10-to-6, to the Chartiers Heights Country Club yesterday as that team walked off with the Section 2 championship of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania team league in the final matches of the season, played at the Alcoma Country Club. Shannopin ranked second.

Alcoma won third place, although it lost to Longue Vue, 9 to 6. St. Clair defeated Westmoreland, 9 to 7, but finished in the cellar. Yesterday's results:

LESSONS IN FOOTBALL

What is the proper way to execute a drop kick?

Answered by

ERNEST E. BEARG,

Football Coach, University of Nebraska.

The kicker should hold the ball lightly in his finger tips and as close to the ground as convenience permits to insure a minimum drop to the ground. A short drop lessens the chances for deflection caused by an uneven release or by the wind.

The ball should be dropped in front of the right foot of the kicker and should strike the ground in a perpendicular position.

To get correct timing and maximum distance, the toe meets the ball just below the center as the ball strikes the ground. During its flight the ball revolves backward end over end.

Since it is important that the kick be made in the shortest possible time, the kicker should take not more than two steps before kicking. He will find a short right step and a normal left enough to secure an easy rhythmical swing.

The leg swings free from the hip—it is a mistake to use a quick snap from the knee—the toe should follow the ball until the leg is parallel with the ground.

The great toe should be held firmly against roof of the shoe, for the foot should be perpendicular to the leg at the moment of impact. Stiff-soled shoes give more distance.

Last, but not least, the kicker must watch the ball, erasing the exciting game, goal posts and charging opponents from his consciousness for the moment.

EVENING "Money Good Sale" SUN-TELEGRAPH Latest Financial News MARKETS

INTEREST RATE PEAK REACHED, EXPERT SAYS

Present Held Good Time to Buy Bonds; Nickel Plate President Lists Objectives

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—"Money is at present a good sale." In that pithy way, a discerning financier expressed his belief that the peak of interest rates had been reached.

Early in 1927, before the rate of interest had begun to turn sharply upward, a forward-looking railroad financier observed that at that time money was a good buy. Acting on his assumption, he quickly sold bonds for his system—and on much easier terms than he could have effected at any time since.

If it is true that money is a good sale at present, it follows that this is a good time to buy bonds. Especially long term non-callable obligations, which will perpetuate for the investors for many years the benefits of current abnormally high interest rates.

VAN SWERINGEN GENIUS

The genius of the Van Sweringens has been in taking over relatively weak railroads and by dint of improved management turning them into strong roads. That is the primary reason why over a period of years their railroad stocks have had exceptional advances. Their first railroad venture was with the Nickel Plate, which they took over in 1916. Up to that time, the Nickel Plate had been little more than a spare freight track for the New York Central. Both from an earnings and a service standpoint, the Nickel Plate today must be classed as a first-rate carrier.

I asked W. L. Ross, who succeeded J. J. Bernet as president of the Nickel Plate to indicate the future objectives of the railroad.

"The program of the Nickel Plate," he explained, "continues to be one of progressively improving and expanding facilities. It is through operating improvements, such as result from betterment of equipment, grade reduction, expansion of terminals and the like, that the railroads will be able to handle efficiently and expeditiously the constantly growing demands of service. In the eastern territory, at least, consolidation looms as an inevitable measure of preparedness for industry's future growth as well as the available means for building up strong systems to serve the territory. The benefits through the fuller utilization of facilities, flexibility of operation, economies and so forth, are self evident when naturally related and complementary systems are welded together."

OPERATING RES /TS GOOD

As for the near term business outlook, Mr. Ross remarked:

"I hope the observation that a 'new era' has been entered by the railroads is correct. Certainly the operating results of late have been good, and I am optimistic enough to count upon continuance of good business through the balance of the year, at any rate, if I read the signs right."

Queried concerning the probability of new railroad building, Mr. Ross added:

"Except where trackage may be unavailable or where congestion of existing railway may create a need, there will be, in my opinion, little new construction, certainly not major construction. The need is not for new-line construction, but rather for the expansion of terminals—that, and the creation in the East, or four strong systems, approximately co-equal in size and importance and able to compete on a parity with one another in their territory.

"The Nickel Plate is making a vigorous effort for the further development of its passenger service, and toward that end additional all-steel passenger equipment, costing approximately $3,000,000 will be put in operation about the time Cleveland's new passenger station opens."

BONDS BANKERS' TOPICS

One of the unscheduled subjects for discussion at the eighteenth annual convention of the Investment Bankers' Association, which will take place in Quebec next week, is whether the bond market will ever regain its former importance in the investment scheme. That topic will probably constitute the principal theme for discussion in the hotel lobby and on the special trains en route. The liquidation in the stock market, where paper profits melted away with amazing rapidity, has doubtless made some new converts for the bond market. Even Edgar Lawrence Smith, chief advocate of common stocks as a long term investment, concedes a place for bonds in the investment portfolio.

"Sound investment management," he points out, "takes economic factors into consideration in determining at any given time what proportion of a fund should be in equities represented by common stocks and what proportion should be in maturing obligations represented by bonds, and is vigilant to note changes in fundamental conditions which dictate a change in these proportions."

The bond market in the last two years has been hurt not only by the tendency of former bond buyers to switch to common stocks, but also by the counter attractions of the brokers' loan market, which offered a better return than bonds. Furthermore, another prop was taken from the bond market last year when the New York law was modified to allow insurance companies, traditional bond purchasers, to invest in preferred stocks.

Cotton Breaks Sharply After Government's Crop Estimatee.

COTTON broke sharply on the resumption of trading following the usual recess for consideration of the monthly crop figures compiled by the government. The bureau compilation as of October 1, proved bearish when placed against the average of private forecasts, showing an increase in indicated yield of about 200,000 bales over the September 1 estimate, and placing the condition at a slightly better figure. Having been primed for a more bullish forecast the market experienced a rush of selling when trading was resumed, with active options slipping off $1.50 to $2.25 a bale.

Another decrease in the backlog of business on its books is looked for when the Steel Corporation makes public its unfilled tonnage statement at noon on Thursday. Wall Street had been counting on a drop approximating that recorded in August when the corporation reported a falling off of 429,966 tons, but, due to the belief that placing of new business by the railroads may have been of larger proportions than realized in the last few days of the month, there is a disposition at the moment to revise earlier estimates downward. A decrease in September would mark the fifth consecutive month in which business on the books of the corporation has fallen off, but through the summer this was explained by the unprecedentedly high rate of operations. Steel was strong today in spite of the proximity of time for publication of the monthly figures.

AT LEAST one rumor, which has tended to unsettle speculative confidence from time to time since the beginning of the year, has finally been set down definitely as without foundation. Not infrequently in the last few months Wall street has found itself disturbed by recurrent reports that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon was intent upon retiring from public life. The same old rumor got loose in the financial community again late yesterday, and this time was the occasion for denial in no uncertain terms from President Hoover's office when one of his secretaries stated definitely that Secretary Mellon has promised to maintain his place in the cabinet for the balance of this administration.

Renewed demand for the tire and rubber shares was one of the interesting developments of the day, being influenced by reports of a nearby increase in tire prices. The reported upward revision in tire prices, it is indicated, will be geenral in scope, affecting all outlets, including the mail order companies. Report has it that the principal manufacturers have been getting together lately with a view to overcoming unnecessary and oftentimes disturbing competition that has been a thorn in the side of the industry in recent years. In this instance, the understanding is that the increase will affect the motor companies in their purchasing of tires as original equipment for their product, as well as other lines of consumers.

RECURRENT weakness in International Combustion Engineering was one of the disturbing incidents of the day. That stock slumped sharply, dipping to within striking distance of last week's low, before encountering any appreciable resistance with heavy volume noted on the decline. Fresh selling in that issue naturally gave rise to rumors relative to the continuance of the present $2 dividend, and there was also a report current that the company might find it necessary to do some additional financing shortly.

Money, both on time and call, continued to rule relatively easy. Good volume of time money running up to 90 days was reported being placed today at 8¾ per cent, while call money was available in abundant supply at 6 per cent officially and at 5½ per cent in the outside market, following the fixing of renewals at 6½ per cent. There was virtually no demand for new accommodation, this explaining the ease subsequent to the fixing of renewals. The situation was interesting by reason of the fact that the rate on day loans at London closed at 6 per cent, bringing the rate there in line with that prevailing in the New Yark market. Close followers of this situation are satisfied thta continuation of this relation for any length of time must eventually result in a substantial flow of funds from New York to London.

Subway Equipment Orders Approved

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Contracts totaling $20,146,024 for cars and equipment on the Eighth Avenue Subway have been approved by the New York Board of Estimates. American Car and Foundry Company is to furnish 300 steel cars for $9,145,000. Westinghouse Electric will supply motors and control equipment for $2,659,100. Union Switch and Signal Company and General Railway Signal Company are to install block signaling and interlocking equipment for $5,598,750, and General Electric Company is to install power equipment for $2,743,174.

Reserve Members' Loans Increase

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The Federal Reserve Board's condition statement of weekly reporting member banks in 101 leading cities on October 2 shows increases for the week of $147,000,000 in loans and investments and $223,000,000 in net demand deposits and decreases of $1,000,000 in time deposits and $16,000,000 in borrowings from Federal Reserve banks.

Good Average Shown by Standard Sanitary

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

SALES volume of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company has been influenced by the declining tendency of building operations, but the business of the American Radiator Company has continued at a high rate. The two organizations are units of the American Radiator and Standard Sanitary Corporation, which was formed last March to hold the stocks of both companies.

The combined organizations are showing gross income and net profits about equal to a year ago. The divergence in the sales of the two units is accounted for by the fact that the slump in total building operations has been confined almost entirely to the construction of residences. High money rates have severely restricted speculative building developments and it is generally believed that the abnormal amount of residential building activity, resulting from the post war housing shortage, has come to an end.

Commercial Building Gains

ON THE other hand, there has been no curtailment in larger building projects. Office buildings and industrial plants have been going up more rapidly this year than last. While building contracts awarded east of the Rocky Mountains in the first eight months of this year dropped 9 per cent, structural steel fabricators are working at 84 per cent of capacity. A year ago they were operating at only 68 per cent.

The slump in the building of homes has cut into the sales of bathroom fittings. But in the buildings for business purposes the requirements for materials of this type are in smaller proportions. Big office and industrial buildings do need costly heating plants, however, and this type of business has maintained the sales volume of the American Radiator Company. The gain in sales of this kind has more than offset the loss of domestic heating business.

Consolidation Progressing.

THE American Radiator and Standard Sanitary Corporation is in a transition period. The work of bringing the two organizations into close co-operation is progressing rapidly. Operations are being co-ordinated wherever possible.

The principal benefits of the consolidation are being shown in sales and distribution. At many points it has been found possible to use joint warehouse and display facilities. It has not been possible to effect many economies in production directly by the consolidation due to the fact that the products of the two companies are entirely different.

Future Earnings.

PROFITS of 1930 and the following years will show the benefits of the co-ordination work being done at present. Few of the economies have been put into effect in time to make any great impression on profits of the present year.

The greatest benefits of the merger are expected to be in the sales end of the business since the Amrican Radiator and Standard Sanitary Corporation can now bid on both plumbing and heating systems on large building projects.

Several minor acquisitions made during the past year have added to the organization's line of products and strengthened its position in the building supply trade. The Campbell Metal Window Corporation has given American Radiator production of a new type radiator which can be set in the walls of buildings.

The acquisition of Thomas Maddock's Sons Company last July procured one of the most modern plants for the manufacture of vitreous china plumbing fixtures. The factory uses continuons kilns which can be operated at a lower cost than the older type of intermittent kilns.

German Operations

THE new pottery plant of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company in Germany has been practically completed and will be in operation within a few weeks. A factory for making brass and enameled ware is also being built. It is expected that operations in these units will be started by the end of the year.

The construction of plants in Germany, started over a year ago, represents the initial operation of Standard Sanitary in manufacturing in foreign fields. American Radiator has had factories in several European countries for a long period.

RELIANCE LIFE PLANS DRIVE

Newspaper advertising by insurance institutions is capable of producing not only good will, good public relations and prestige, but it can be made to show definite sales results, according to R. C. Braun, advertising manager of the Reliance Life Insurance Company of Pittsburgh, who outlined at a meeting of Pittsburgh representatives yesterday the plans for a concentrated sales campaign in November based upon newspaper advertising.

"The opinion among insurance officials and advertising executives has been that insurance advertising in newspapers could produce only good will, create prestige for the institution and otherwise establish good public relations," said Mr. Braun.

"We believe that the newspapers are more vital than this. The Reliance Life campaign, which will open in the Rotogravure Section of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph October 20, has been planned to create definite public realization of the needs for insurance and it is expected to produce traceable sales results. There is no reason why newspaper advertising cannot produce results for the institution of life insurance equally as well as it does for other lines of business."

Approximately 200 Reliance representatives in the Pittsburgh district will participate in the drive, which will open November 1. The newspaper advertising, which will begin October 20 and continue throughout November, has been planned as the basis of personal contact between the company's representatives and the general public interested in life insurance.

The campaign will be of national scope. The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has been selected as one of the leading newspapers of the country in which this advertising will appear.

HATTENBACH IN NEW BANK

At a meeting of the directors of the Bank of America Trust Company, Al Hattenbach was elected to the board. Mr. Hattenbach is prominent in Pittsburgh business and club circles, being the president of the Suburban Electric Development Company, distributors of Frigidaire and Delco-Light. He is a director of the Royston Cadillac Company and president of the Salesmanagers Club, of Pittsburgh. He is a member of the Pittsburgh Field Club, Stanton Heights Golf Club, Rotary Club, Keystone Athletic Club and Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

The bank, which is nearing completion, will open the latter part of this month in its quarters in the Chamber of Commerce Building.

Crude Oil Output Lower for Week

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 8.—Daily average production of crude oil in the United States for week ended October 5 totaled 2,883,041 barrels, a decrease of 18,621 barrels from the preceding week, according to the Oil and Gas Journal. Light oil production during the week decreased 16,820 barrels.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railway reported today that its net earnings for the eight months ending August 31 amounted to $3,282,778, equal to $2.75 on 1,191,530 shares of 5 per cent preferred stock, compared with $2,822,987, or $2.37 a share during the corresponding period last year.

VALLEY PLANTS KEPT BUSY

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 8.—Valley steel makers are hopeful that Ford Motor operations will pick up within the next 30 days and that its steel requirements will show improvement. This would materially improve demand for sheets and strips.

In sharp contrast to the declining tendencies in finished steel, are the sustained operations of secondary interest. The Truscon Steel Company is operating at a higher level than a year ago, according to President Julius Kahn. The General Fireproofing Company is maintaining production at a high rate, and is receiving substantial orders for export. The Commercial Shearing and Stamping Company is functioning at the best rate in its history, due to an aggressive sales policy.

The Youngstown Pressed Steel Company at Warren is busy in all departments, except that of building steel, such as metal lath and corner beading.

Jobbing interests dealing in seconds are busy for this season, and find conditions ripe for their particular kind of business, with buyers emphasizing price considerations.

Probably not, unless you are an inveterate traveler. It is so out-of-the-way and so wild that tourists almost never reach it. It is seldom visited by a World Cruise ship.

This year, Borneo will be on the itinerary of one of the World Cruises. So, also, will many other seldom-visited, out-of-the-way places such as Macassar, Surabaya, and Pasuruan, in the Dutch East Indies, Saigon in Cochin, China, Amoy in South China, and Malacca, Malaya "where the canes come from."

The Round-the-World traveler is offered his choice of five cruises this winter. Five large, luxuriously furnished ships will circle the globe, all but one of them sailing east from New York. The cruises vary in length from 106 to 140 days, at rates as low as $1,750 for transportation, berth, meals and many shore-excursions.

Complete information on all cruises can now be obtained from the Mellon Travel Bureau. If you are planning a winter trip, make your reservations now, while the choice accommodations are available.

STOCKS RALLY AS CREDIT EASES

Wave of Selling Sweeps Market but Prices Turn Up Under Heavy Buying

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Stock prices rallied for the third successive day today in response to a further easing of credit conditions and favorable trade reports.

A wave of selling swept over the market during the morning, carrying several of the leaders down 2 to 5 points, but buying support was quickly supplied, and the market was headed upward again by early afternoon.

Call money renewed at 6½ per cent, with the supply so plentiful that the rate was dropped to 6. Time money was reported to be available at 8¾ per cent for all maturities, which contrasts with a rate of 8¾ to 9 yesterday and a high of 9 to 9¼ last week.

IRREGULAR EARLY

Early irregularity in the market was attributed to predictions that the weekly Federal Reserve brokers' loan statement, to be issued after the close on Thursday, would not show the generally expected huge decrease in borrowings. These predictions were based on the fact that the loans of some of the leading houses were down only 1 or 2 per cent below the levels of a week ago. This was offset, however, by reports of a substantial decrease in member bank borrowings at the Federal Reserve.

Rubber shares rallied in response to reports of a 10 per cent increase in tire prices under the leadership of Goodyear, which ran up 6 points.

MAKES NEW HIGH

Chemicals gave one of the most impressive demonstrations of group strength. Commercial Solvents jumped 25 points, Air Reduction 14 and United States Industrial Alcohol, United Carbon and Columbian Carbon advanced 6 to 7½ points, the first named touching a new high. American Machine and Foundry ran up 20 points to a new peak at 219. Warren Bros., Eastman Kodak and National Biscuit also reached new high ground.

United States Steel common sank 3 points to 216 and then rebounded to 221½. Ludlum Steel ran up more than 10 points. Early losses of 4 to 5 points in General Electric, Westinghouse Electric and Simmons were recovered, but renewed weakness cropped out in International Combustion.

Food shares, utilities and specialties displayed marked buoyance in the last hour. Commercial Solvents extended its gain to 31 points. Eastman Kodak, Otis Elevator and American Banknote rose 12 to 12, while National Biscuit, Corn Products, Loose Wiles, American Telephone and Brooklyn Union Gas mounted 5 to 8 points. The closing tone was strong. Total sales approximated 3,900,000 shares.

U. S. Built Autogiro Test Flight Success

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—The first American built autogiro, manufactured by Pitcairn Aircraft, Inc., plant near here, has been put through its initial test flight and pronounced satisfactory, it was announced today.

In virtual secrecy, the "windmill" plane, in which are incorporated new features, was wheeled from the factory in the presence of construction engineers and mechanics, and Senor Juan de la Cierva, Spanish inventor of the plane, took the ship up on its first short flight.

Limestone Freight Rate Cut in Penna.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 8.—(AP.)—The Public Service Commission yesterday directed a reduction of freight rates for the transportation of ground, granulated and pulverized limestone in intra-state commerce.

The commission's order directed that the rates per 2,000-pound ton should not exceed a graduated scale beginning at 60 cents for single line haul to 80 cents for joint line for five miles and under and $2.40 for both kinds from 275 to 300 miles.

August Income of Class I Roads Up

Class 1 railroads in August reported net operating income of $141,436,100 against $128,435,630 in August, 1928. For eight months net operating income was $827,734,976, or an annual rate of return of 5.50 per cent on property investment against $686,081,631, or 4.62 per cent in 1928 period.

Oklahoma Oil Men Reach Agreement

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 8.—A plan to curtail production of oil in Oklahoma for the rest of this year was approved by Flush Pool operators of the state in a harmonious meeting here today. Not a vote was cast against the proposal.

Labor Events Carry Warning to Employers

By B. C. FORBES

MOMENTOUS current events in the labor world should cause American employers to ponder. Having become national in their operations, employers must become national in their thinking—or trouble will come.

Just what is happening?

The news from two quarters should be followed with especial interest: the labor disturbances in the South, and the proceedings at the convention of the American Federation of Labor.

IT HAS been the writer's privilege to see much of the South during recent years. When seeking to furnish material for this column, too many Chambers of Commerce and other bodies emphasized, as a magnet for new industries, that wage rates were very low.

Repeatedly the warning was given during speeches that the rise of industrialism in the South would inevitably bring a rise in wages. It required no great wisdom to foresee that in many places the supply of home-grown labor would prove inadequate and that workers would be attracted from the outside. Also, it was a foregone conclusion that Southern capitalists would have to readjust their ideas to the new conditions which loomed ahead.

WITHOUT presuming to pass dogmatic judgment on the grave coal strikes, rayon strikes and cotton mill strikes which have caused so much bitterness, so much dislocation, so much bloodshed in various parts of the South, it cannot be denied that the impression created throughout the country has not been wholly favorable to the Southern employers involved.

I have visited Southern textile plants which revealed convincingly that the owners were striving conscientiously to make living conditions healthful and congenial. Indeed, the South has a number of cotton manufacturers who have gone much further than most Northern manufacturers to make life for their workers happy and attractive.

At other points the feeling created was that the wages paid were too low, the living conditions unattractive, and that fertile soil was being prepared for the sowing of discontent by Northern labor leaders and unions.

Therefore, one cannot avoid the suspicion that troubles which have been reaped were the fruit of what was sown.

THE whole problem of southern industrial labor conditions calls for business statesmanship of a high order. Progress costs. The new South must needs become converted to new ideas. Old-time master-and-servant relationships are no longer tenable.

Briefly, southern employers must become keenly alive to the fact that they are face to face with a new species of competition, namely, competition for leadership of their work folks. Under whose banner will the workers decide to march forward? Will they see greater benefits by sticking loyally to their employers or by giving their allegiance to trade unions eager to battle for them?

Only southern employers can give the answer, an answer which will have to be in deeds, not words.

THE American Federation of Labor is laying particular stress upon:

Unemployment caused by machine production.

"Discrimination" against the employment of middle-aged and old workers.

Opportunities for unionizing southern industries.

Old age pensions.

THE United States cannot much longer shut its eyes to the pressing problem of making it possible for middle-aged and older workers to earn a living and to subsist after their earning capacity ends. The executive council of the Federation makes this significant recommendation:

"We believe that in the coming year, a model compulsory old age pension law should be drafted by the Federation and recommended to state federations of labor as a matter of first order of importance. We should then inaugurate an active campaign for the enactment of such laws in every state."

YES, American industry must, in its own longer interest, devote more pains to thinking nationally and to wrestling with national problems, including old age pensions.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Cotton opened steady, unchanged to 5 points lower and early in the day the active position showed losses of 4 to 10 points under pre-bureau liquidation through Wall street commission houses and selling for southern account. Continued favorable weather over the entire cotton belt more than offset rather steadier Liverpool cables and there was little disposition to make new commitments owing to the uncertainty as to what the government report would show. The trade was a good buyer on the decline, however, and this demand gave the market a steady undertone. Liverpool cables reported covering in that market and said Manchester was awaiting the bureau while cloth and yarn buyers were cautious with sales moderate.

The government crop figure of 14,915,000 bales proved larger than generally expected and, after its publication, prices declined about $1 to $1.25 a bale under very active liquidation and selling by Wall street and local operators.

The trade continued to buy on the decline and this demand was of sufficient volume to hold the market within comparatively narrow limits, although it was thought that the crop indication of nearly 15,000,000 bales might serve to discourage buying incentive from outside sources.

Trading became more active later in the morning with prices rather irregular, and generally represented evening up of accounts prior to the government crop report.

When trading was resumed, following the publication of the report, the market eased under heavy liquidation which carried prices down 28 to 29 points under the levels prevailing before its publication, and net $1 to 37 points lower, with December selling around 18.52c and March at 18.86c.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—The Curb market encountered considerable profit-taking today on its sharp rallies of the past two sessions. Bullish operations were pressed forward vigorously in spots, and the list generally maintained a fairly firm undertone. Traders were inclined to feel that the rally had been technically completed, however, and were inclined to move cautiously pending definite indications as to the course which the market will next follow.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

15 WISCONSIN BANKS MERGE

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 8.—(AP.)—Preliminary action for the organization of the Wisconsin Bankshares Corporation, a giant holding company to control a group of banks in Wisconsin and Upper Michigan, was taken at a meeting of representatives from the 15 institutions affiliated with the First National Bank, Milwaukee.

Resources of the chain now are more than $285,000,000, and it was indicated that addition of new banks would bring them to $350,000,000 or higher within the next two months.

The corporation, started with the announced purpose of combatting the effort of outside banking chains to acquire banks in the Milwaukee trade territory, will first be organized with nominal capital, which later will be increased to $125,000,000, it was announced.

All the 15 banks now in the group are to pool their stock and receive stock of the Wisconsin Bankshares Corporation in exchange.

Sargent Expects Continued Good Business

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Fred W. Sargent, president of Chicago and Northwestern Railway Company, says that he expects both gross and net earnings for rest of this year to be at least as large as for same quarter last year and for business to continue in good volume throughout next year.

Mr. Sargent declined to make an estimate of probable showing for common stock for this year, but it is unofficially estimated at about $8-50 a share. He also declined to comment upon probability of common stock dividends being increased at November meeting. Only routine business will be transacted at today's meeting.

Mr. Sargent said that average of crops in Chicago Northwestern territory is as good as a year ago. There is more wheat to be moved now than at that time because of carryover from last year and larger crop in some sections of territory this year. Most of damage to crops in Northwest occurred north of territory served by Chicago, Northwestern lines.

Expanding Uses for Metal Aid in Sustaining Broad Demand; Prices Stabilized

By W. S. COUSINS,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—New uses for copper metal and an enormously swollen demand for the metal in home and foreign industrial and utility projects, insures a continued broadening of the American copper industry and increasing prosperity for the leading producers.

In discussing conditions in the copper industry with the heads of a few giant corporations, the writer found no traces of uncertainty or apprehension over the future.

On the other hand, copper producers are laying their plans for a considerable broadening of production facilities in the immediate future, relying upon an increasing demand for the metal in home and foreign industry. So many uses have been developed for copper since the close of the war that the industry has been revolutionized in mining and fabrication processes, in distribution and marketing and in a dozen and one other processes connected with the production and consumption of copper.

RECENT GROWTH RAPID

World copper production in 1929 was estimated at 4,200,000,000 pounds by one prominent producer. This compares with 3,800,000,000 in 1928 and a little over 3,000,000,000 pounds in 1927. A better idea of the growth of the industry in the last three years will be given by the following comparisons:

Monthly production (1929), 360,000,000 pounds.

Monthly production (1926), 260,000,000 pounds.

Monthly increase in three years, 100,000,000 pounds.

There is no reason for a market recession in copper buying this fall, even if the demand from the automobile and industries falls off as much as the most unfavorable surveys and forecasts indicate. That is the attitude of the copper trade, which sees in the enormous expansion of the utility, lighting and power projects a bigger avenue of copper consumption than the world has ever previously known.

PRICE STABILITY

Informative charts in the offices of the copper producers give an accurate picture of what is happening in the world markets and afford opportunities aplenty for "sizing up" the future prospects of the industry. A period of overbuying in the early part of this year forced prices of the red metal from 18 to 24 cents a pound, the peak price of the whole post-war period, and this was followed by a sharp reaction, which practically wiped out all of the first-quarter advance, the result was not surprising to the copper leaders, who realized that over-buying had been taking place.

Not buying orders, but deliveries, constitute the most reliable market gauge, according to the head of one of the country's largest producers. His charts show an abrupt falling off in copper buying at the 24-cent level in the early part of the year, but deliveries were well maintained, showing that the big consumers of copper knew how to handle their market. Not much fluctuation from the 18-cent level is expected in the final three months of 1929, and not much change is desired by copper producers, who prefer above all things a stable market for their metal.

UTILITIES BIG USERS

One large producer estimated that 65 per cent of American production would be required for the public utility industry, including telephone, power, light and traction services. The day of isolated plants, he said, is gone. Instead of attempting to generate their own power, industrial plants in all sections of the country were hitching a wire to a central source of power and thereby operating at 33 per cent of costs, as compared with the old system.

As to production costs, the higher wage scales, higher fuel prices and mounting transportation charges are more than offset by increasing efficiency and better grade of ore. Many of the copper companies are producing the metal on a profitable basis, from ore which a few years ago was good only for the scrap heap.

Cotton Estimate Places Crop Higher

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The Department of Agriculture estimates the cotton crop at 14,915,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight, on a condition October 1 of 55.0 per cent of normal. This compares with 14,825,000 bales forecast as of September 1 on a condition of 55.4 per cent and with final production in 1928 of 14,478,000 bales.

The Bureau of Census reports 5,905,650 running bales, counting round bales as halves and excluding linters, ginned from the crop of 1929 prior to October 1 against ginnings to October 1 in 1928 of 4,961,260 and in 1927 of 5,944,739 bales.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The estimated yield of 14,915,000 bales was larger than generally anticipated in the cotton trade, and when trading was resumed after publication of the report prices declined about $1 to $1.25 a bale under heavy liquidation. The trade, however, continued to buy on the decline, and this gave the market a show of resistance.

Commission Grants Intervention Right

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The Business Protective Association of Baltimore was authorized today by the Interstate Commerce Commission to intervene in the application of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad for control of the Wheeling and Lake Erie and Lorain and West Virginia railroads.

Retail Price on Cigarets Advanced

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—United Cigar Stores has advanced the price on popular blend brands of cigarets to 15 cents a package straight instead of two for 25 cents previously.

Union Trust Co. Resources Increase

The Union Trust Company, of Pittsburgh, in its statement of October 4, 1929, shows surplus, profits and reserves of $64,831,993, compared with $63,366,045 on June 29, 1929, an increase of $1,465,948. Deposits were $131,670,881. Trust funds $356,821,153 compared with $345,967,273 an increase of $10,853,880. Corporate trusts $734,517,470 compared with $762,596,470, an increase of $21,921,000. The company is transfer agent and registrar for securities having a par value of $1,955,983,227 compared with $1,867,295,727, an increase of $88,687,500.

New Haven May Issue More Stock

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—General improvement in New Haven Railroad's financial status and outlook gives rise to the likelihood of the road meeting 1930 maturities through issuance of additional common to stockholders on a basis which would carry valuable rights to holders of common and convertible debentures.

It appears likely the common will be placed on a $6 annual dividend basis next spring. At present it pays $5 yearly.

September Building Activities Decline

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Building permits issued in 15 leading cities in September were $96,920,807 against $136,107,473 in September, 1928, a decline of 29 per cent, S. W. Straus & Co. reports. The heaviest decrease was in New York.

United Verde Output Up for September

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—United Verde Extension September output was 5,140,000 pounds of copper, against 4,592,000 pounds in August.

INGOT OUTPUT DECLINES

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The American Iron and Steel Institute estimates total steel ingot production in September at 4,510,879 tons, as reduced from 4,927,258 in August, in which there were two more working days. Production was substantially above September of 1928, when output totaled 4,147,893 tons. The decline which has been noted since the record month of May was continued, operations during September averaging 92.01 per cent of rated capacity, as compared to 93.05 in August, 94.88 in July, 99.56 in June, and 99.59 in May. In September of last year operations rose to 88.01 per cent, having increased from a low point for that year of 76.38 per cent in June.

Bituminous Coal Output Increases

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The highest production of bituminous coal in any week since February was recorded during the week ending September 28. According to statistics compiled by the federal Bureau of Mines, the production of that week was a 5.4 per cent increase over that of the preceding week. The daily average mining during the week aggregated 1,909,000 net tons.

Comparative figures were: Week ending September 28, 11,451,000 net tons; previous week, 10,867,000 net tons; same week last year, 11,056,000 net tons.

Schulte Holders Get Bond Rights

Directors of the Schulte-United 6 Cents to $1 Stores Inc., today voted to offer to preferred stockholders rights to purchase $100 par value bonds of a new issue of $10,000,000 15-year 7 per cent bonds, at $70 for each share held. The bonds are callable at 110 and carry common stock purchase warrants. Proceeds of the bond issue are to be used to carry out an expansion program under which it is planned to have 97 units in the chain in operation by the end of the current year.

On Broadway

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—

ALTHO Gertrude Lawrence and Bertram Taylor still arm-in-arm it, they won't be sealed . . . It's a lass over at the John Howard ("Processional") Lawsons' . . . A Russian Count is a table steward on the Ward Line's S. S. Orizaba . . . Parker Henderson, son of the former Miami mayor, is Capone's most frequent visitor at the Philly Who's Whosgow . . . Charles R. Doulens, the Wallstreeter, and Evelyn Harris, a Brooklyn nurse, will ankle up that middle aisle on November 2 . . . For the first time in its career the N. Y. Times comes out the day before it is dated—11:30 p. m. . . . The biggest electrically lighted letters in the world are in a sign south of Central Park, 35 feet high . . . The "dead man" in the "Subway Express" show, who gets a big hand for keeping his eyes open for two acts, has them closed, and eyeballs are painted on the outside of the lids.

SCHWAB AN ANGEL

THE "inside" on the Charles E. Schwab backing ($250,000) for the Bobby Connolly-Arthur Swanstrom "Carry On" show is that Schwab was Swanstrom Sr.'s pal when the latter was mayor of Brooklyn. . . . The beautiful indorser on the back cover of the theater programs last week was the late Myrna Darby . . . Jane Franklin, 18, who shelved the Columbia School of Journalism for the Mirror's city room, smokes a pipe. . . . Gloria Swanson is very sick . . . The Emily Vanderbilt-Horrors Liveright business affiliation has phfft already . . . William Fox, who got better after that crash, played golf, made a hole in one, and has been confined to the ailing room ever since . . . The reason Ethel Barrymore will never make a movie is because her screen tests were not so hot.

Willie K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and Lili Damita are cooing via the cables. . . . Ain't she the one, though? . . . They weren't going to open the new Les Ambassadeurs cabaret until Jimmy Durante could spell it, but they decided not to wait that long . . . An Abraham Erlanger, five years older than the renowned showman, died, which accounted for the report that the popular A. L. had plopped . . One of the better known leading ladies is anticipating a blessed event in Germany . . . St. Yawn Ervine has British-magazine-articled a retort to R. C. Benchley's "Wayward Press" piece in a recent Nieu Yaukur—more anon here . . . Marquis James' book "The Raven," just completed, is the reason he disappeared after the Tennessee monkey trial in '25 . . . Although she is supposed to have made a million, S. H. Harris ordered the receipts from his theaters turned over to the late Jeanne Eagels' sister.

ASSOCIATION OF IDEAS

THE house in which the movie critic, Irene Thirer, was born, is now a movie. . . . The Henry Berns await an heir. . . . The Edgar Allen-Peaches Browning romance has definitely wilted . . . Eddie Ahern, chief clerk of the City Court, who dropped the Tammany leadership by 1½ votes, has resigned from politics to enter the stock brokerage racket with Barney Baruch, Jr. . . . "Peter Arno's Parade" is the tag of his new tome of drawings, which will contain some that the Nieu Yaukur feared publishing . . . Police reporters says they know who did it.

Mrs. Ogden Reid, owner of the N. Y. Herald Trib, must be advised at once of the illness of any executive . . . she makes personal sick room calls . . . The e. e. cummings (ann barton, the ex-mrs. ralph) anticipate a blessed event . . . Miss Garbo pronounces her first name Gret-a, which most of us mispronounce Greet-a . . . The Chanins have $200,000,000 worth of construction to do within three yrs . . . Kathryn Clarke is again head man at the Beaux Arts . . . After the series, a big time act will be Arthur Brown, the torch chune singer and Cochrane of the Athletics . . . Charles Kenny insists that when two young blades get together it's "Strop me if you've heard this one" . . . B. Feurstmann, Newport's newest idol, returned to N. Y., for the Joosh holidays, queering his next yr's chances, there.

PLENTY THAT WAY

DOROTHY MARTIN and John (Mayfair) Rumsey Go For Each Plenty . . . All other reports notwithstanding Ursula Parrott's husband Lindsey isn't vexed over her tome "Ex-Wife," having been its chief proof-reader . . . The head of one of the largest filium concerns is definitely off his nut . . . Letters from Mrs. Maurice (Theater Guild) Wertheim carry the Reno, Nevada postmark . . . The Conde Nasts Greenwich manse will be the scene of a celebration Thursdee when the last telegraph poles along the Boston Post Rd are felled . . . Jane Grant is gravely ill at the Polyclinic . . . The Jeff (Judge) Machamers who recently re-welded each other (after she deserted him to marry another,) have phfffft again.

INHUMAN TO YOUMAN

Considering its numerous delays and handicaps, L. J. Houston suggests that V. Youmans' "Great Day" show be re-christened "Youman Bondage" . . . Harry Salpeter's: "Dr. Johnson and Mr. Boswell" will be Coward-McCanned this month . . . The Actor-Mgrs, who used to produce shows, will merely present "Angna Enters" this Fall . . . The James J. Forrestals have leased The John Held, Jr., shack at Palm Beach . . . Thomas Powers, wealthy widower of Park Ave., over 70, is the only man in society who employs a maid instead of a valet . . . That critic has been thrown out of 3 more theaters . . . There are so many adopted daughters of the late Isadora Duncan that the other night at one of those places, two of them had to be introduced.

D. Parker is in Paree doing a Nieu Yaukur profile on Ernest Hemingway . . . Sinclair Lewis is to be on the staff of a new monthly due after Jan. 1 . . . The Viking Press secured the Al Smith tome because Mrs. Moscowitz asked a friend who it was that published "Trader Horn," and got misinformed . . . The Americanmerk has the snappiest rejection slip of all the mags . . . Archie Barber, of Delmar, N. Y., is Barber, the Baker . . . Helen Westley has definitely gone Yogi . . . The very odd McIntyre got fifty cents a word for the Jimmy Walker thing . . . Broadway—where they shake your hands, one minute—and shake their heads, the next!

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES

DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

GO ABROAD OR DOOMED TO DIE

Plight of This Unhappy Italian Solved.

Change from sunny Italy to the fogs and cold snaps of Western Pennsylvania proved too much for Nick Reuffini, of Arnold, Pa., and the family physician told him he must go back to his homeland if he expected to live long. Just in time to save him he found relief. Here is what he says:

"Just one cold after another got me so full of catarrh that I was a very sick man. I coughed at night, and my stomach got so bad from the poisons of the catarrh that I could eat nothing solid for a week at a time. I had to take medicines to get my bowels to move. A friend told me it was the climate here—that changes were so sharp I could not get my system used to them. Food did not taste good or agree with me, and I lost both strength and weight. At night I would ache all over with rheumatism, and especially across my back. In the mornings I wanted nothing to eat, the sight or smell of food gagged me, and I was so weak I could not do a day's work, so I decided to go back to Italy.

"But at this time I visited an Italian friend in Pittsburgh to say goodbye to him, and he told me of a wonderful new medicine he was using—said it was like a medicine he used to get in Naples. I thought it might make me feel better, and began using it. Inside of a week I knew World's Tonic was just what I had needed. I got better immediately, and after using four bottles I feel as well as ever, my bowels move regularly, and I can now eat anything I want. Sure something is in that medicine we do not get in other medicines I have tried, for it acted like magic. The druggist said it was made up of herbs from different parts of the world, and specially intended to help people in this climate.

"Anyhow, it fixed me up right. I don't have to go back. I expect to live long, for I am perfectly well, and next to the blessed saints I owe my recovery to World's Tonic." This new medicine, which thousands say is a good medicine, can be had of Dow's (formerly McCulloch's), also May's, and Mayflower, or of any other first class drug store. (B-6.)

Hospital Nurse Tells How She Gained 7 Pounds in 2 Weeks

Build Weight Quick with New IRONIZED YEAST —or Trial Costs Nothing

"I am a nurse at the hospital and I am writing you to let you know I am glad to recommend your tonic, IRONIZED YEAST.

"It gave me a good appetite. I got strong and gained 7 pounds in 2 weeks. I could write all day about how much good IRONIZED YEAST did me. You would be surprised at the strength I gained in 3 or 4 days. I will send you some of my friends' names so you can write them about it." —Martha Burns, Sumrall, Miss.

People are amazed at the wonderful benefits of IRONIZED YEAST. Many were doubtful before they started. But after taking it regularly for a few short weeks they gained 5 to 15 pounds. Ugly hollows fill out. Skinny limbs become gracefully rounded. Blemished skin gets clear and beautiful.

IRONIZED YEAST is two tonics in one. Weight-building YEAST and 2 kinds of blood-enriching IRON. We concentrate it so that 12 SACKS of raw, live YEAST make only 1 SACK of the concentrate which goes into IRONIZED YEAST. You can easily see why each small tablet of this new IRONIZED YEAST gives you quick, EXTRA, weight-building results through this 12-to-1 concentration.

Only when Yeast is Ironized is it most effective; for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building, strengthening values of Yeast. Pleasant tablets. No "yeasty" taste. No gas or bloating.

Photos of two different girls show why nobody admires "skinny," scrawny girl with her total lack of alluring curves.

Try It on Money-Back Offer

Get IRONIZED YEAST today from any druggist. If not absolutely delighted with the weight and health benefits gained, the small amount you pay for the first bottle will be promptly refunded by your own druggist or the manufacturer.

Amazing Numbers of Pennsylvanians Write Letters Like These!

What IRONIZED YEAST has done for all these folks it should certainly do for you. Take advantage of our generous trial offer. If not delighted, get your money back.

Gains 8 Lbs. Clears Skin.

"Gained 8 lbs. in 3 weeks taking IRONIZED YEAST. Sleep better; much stronger; appetite is better. Pimples and blackheads gone."—Mary Borcha, Wall, Pa.

Mother Gains 12 Lbs. in 1 Month.

"Was in bad shape after had 4th baby, but IRONIZED YEAST made me feel better. Gained 12 lbs. In a month. Yellow color gone."—Mrs. Mary Kasunic, Allentown, Pa.

Gains 10 Lbs. After Other Methods Fail.

"Tried many methods without results but IRONIZED YEAST added 10 lbs. Got good appetite. Cleared skin of blotches." —Beatrice Gooch, Daisytown, Pa.

Gains 10 Lbs. in 1 Month; Clears Skin.

"Had big blotches all over. Even doctor's prescription didn't help me. But after taking 1 bottle of IRONIZED YEAST blotches began to disappear. In a month I gained 10 lbs.; felt full of pep and energy. Several week, rundown friends tried it and they all think it wonderful."—Mary Hader, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Gains 11 Lbs. More Pep.

"Gained 11 lbs. taking IRONIZED YEAST. Have more pep and vitality than I've had for years."—Mrs. J. L. Reed, Mt. Union, Pa.

Gains 10 Lbs. New Pep.

"Was rundown; lost strength, weight and appetite. Tried IRONIZED YEAST. Gained 10 lbs. Now full of pep."—Charles Vorel, Loyalhanna, Pa.

Positively No End of Fun

Above picture shows Congressman Frisby having fun at one of the exclusive affairs at Washington, D. C. He always carries an "Oh! You Kid Novelty Adhesive Garland" to liven up the party. The paper garland, when thrown, adheres to the lady's dress. It causes quite a commotion when Mr. Frisby exposes the victim's ankle. This novelty is Mr. Frisby's own invention, and he will be glad to send samples on receipt of fifteen cents.

When you get up, that is their cue

MEN OF THE HOUR

THIS is J. Asphaltum Doakes, traveling secretary for the Society for Prevention of Something or Other, who suggests that a phonograph record be made of President Hoover's voice, saying he deplores bloodshed. If this recording was broadcast over a national hookup every time a murder was reported, Mr. Doakes believes it would be a great source of comfort to the public at large.

Grand Jury Vote Probe Intimated 'Whitewash'

An echo of the grand jury presentment, that, while an individual expression, may be a reflection of the state of mind of a large portion of the public, is an open letter from E. Lowry Humes, former member of the elections committee of the Allegheny County Bar Association to the committee. Mr. Humes intimates the grand jury findings, in effect, border close on either a "whitewash" or admission that our courts are impotent in the handling of such cases as the public was led to expect might be the outcome of the probe.

Of the seven recommendations made by the September grand jury, following its investigation of charges of fraudulent assessment and registration, those suggesting reorganization of assessment and revision of taxes, the discharge of incompetent local registration boards and the initiation of legislation to permit time for purging of registration lists prior to the day of voting appear most significant.

In its comment on the board of assessment, the return names George J. Schad, chairman, Charles J. McBride, secretary, and Emil C. Starker as the only ones of the seven members "actively engaged in conducting the business of the office." Of the other four it, states "they appear to be chiefly interested in the matter of drawing their salaries."

An amused public likely will smile at the intimation in the grand jury report that four well-known politicians had little interest in the work of the assessment board aside from that of drawing their salaries as members. But will the public believe it?.

Nevertheless the grand jury did make one recommendation that should receive serious attention—that to permit at least 21 days to elapse between the last day of registration and primary election day, so the voting lists may be examined and purged of names of persons not legally qualified to vote.

Minority Group Delays Efforts to Help Farmers

If the American farmer has any real friends in the United States Senate, it is high time for them to prove their friendship by compelling the Committee on Agriculture to give to the Federal Farm Board a chance to help the farmer.

After wrestling with the agricultural problem for nearly eight years, Congress finally passed a farm relief law last June. It provided for a Federal Farm Board with wide authority and ample funds to enable agriculture to attain an equal opportunity in our economic system with other industries.

Within a month, while Congress was in recess, the Federal Farm Board was appointed and went to work. Its organization was compiled within two months and the nominations for the board were submitted to the Senate when it reconvened a month ago.

These nominations were made largely upon the recommendation of farm organizations throughout the country.

The members of the board were chosen as nearly as possible to represent all the major branches of agriculture and all parts of the country.

Without exception the selections seem to have given general satisfaction to the farm organizations.

This is especially true of the selection as chairman of the board of Alexander W. Legge, who resigned a most lucrative post to accept that appointment. He did not seek the job. He did not even volunteer his service. He was drafted. And he informed the committee that they cannot hurt his feelings by rejecting his nomination and sending him home.

But apparently a minority of the Committee on Agriculture are not satisfied with the present organization of the Farm Board. In their questions they have found fault with what the board has done and left undone. And by prolonging the hearings and delaying a report to the Senate, this minority is doing its best to hamstring the efforts of the board to relieve the American farmer.

Either the Committee on Agriculture ought to report the nominations of the Federal Farm Board to the Senate without any more delay, or the Senate ought to discharge the committee and dispose of these nominations.

The Senate is under no compulsion to confirm these nominations unless it finds the nominee to be qualified in the judgment of the Senate for membership on the Farm Board.

But the Senate owes it to the American farmer to co-operate with the other branches of the government in carrying out the law which Congress passed last June for the benefit of agriculture. That law cannot be administered in the best interest of the farmer until there is a Federal Farm Board devoting all of its time to discharging its duties under the law.

And that is an impossible task for Chairman Legge and his associates as long as they are compelled to spend a considerable part of each legislative day at the capitol answering silly questions asked by Senators who supported the equalization fee and the export debenture plan and other quack measures for farm relief that Congress has rejected.

First National Banquet

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

PREMIER M'DONALD'S visit to America brings up the now exhausted case of the Vice President's sister.

"Bugs" Baer

This will astonish Ramsay who didn't know the Vice President had a sister.

He didn't even know the sister had a Vice President.

The case has been smoothed out so that it will wrinkle again very easily. Sister has yielded her place at the dinner table to the wife of the British ambassador.

Lady Isabella Howard is placed second at the table. Mrs. Gann bats third.

If Mr. Stimson gets on base, then one of the butlers will run for him.

They're having a world series at every White House dinner. President Hoover is lead-off man.

We suggest De Wolf Hopper for interlocutor.

They might settle that lunch controversy by numbering the guests like Harvard football players.

Getting so now that you are never sure whether the White House gong will start a dinner or a fight.

Why not have Graham McCracker, the famous radio denouncer, describe all future diplomatic dinners to the ladies and gentlemen of the invisible audience?

"Mrs. Gann has just passed the olives to Lady Gummpo, who fumbled.

"Ambassador Cokle ordered a tomate surprise and was surprised when it hit him in back of the ear.

"The small talk suddenly got big.

"Secretary Stimson ordered a grape fruit and the coach lectured him between the halves.

"The Spanish attache was disqualified for attaching himself to the wrong chair.

"They are eating celery now.

"And outside of that everything is quiet.

"Sir Hobart Tweek has asked everybody to stop arguing about seats before the ticket speculators get wise to it.

"Somebody is making a speech. So is everybody else.

"This is the most exciting dinner I ever broadcast.

"At the next dinner we will have swivel chairs so that people can turn their backs to each other."

Bible Passages

Bridle the Tongue

(James 3: 1-14.)

MY Brethren, be not many masters, knowing that we shall receive the greater condemnation.

For in many things we offend all. If any man offend not in word, the same is a perfect man, and able also to bridle the whole body.

Behold, we put bits in the horses' mouths, that they may obey us; and we turn about their whole body.

Behold also the ships, which though they can be so great, and are driven of swift winds, yet are they turned about with a very small helm, whithersoever the governor listeth.

Even so the tongue is a little member, and boasteth great things. Behold, how great a matter a little fire kindleth.

And the tongue is a fire, a world of iniquity: so is the tongue among our members, that it defileth the whole body, and setteth on fire the course of nature; and it is set on fire of hell.

For every mind of beasts, and of birds, and of serpents, and of things in the sea, is tamed, and hath been tamed of mankind:

But the tongue can no man tame; it is an unruly evil, full of deadly poison.

Therewith bless we God, even the Father; and therewith curse we men, which are made after the similitude of God.

Out of the same mouth proceedeth blessing and cursing. My brethren, these things ought not so to be.

Doth a fountain send forth at the same place sweet water and bitter?

Can the fig tree, my brethren, bear olive berries? either a vine figs? so can no fountain both yield salt water and fresh.

Who is a wise man and endued with knowledge among you? let him shew out of a good conversation his works with meekness of wisdom.

But if ye have bitter envying and strife in your hears, glory not, and lie not against the truth.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

THE trouble with some of these oil people is that they get too rich. They get so much dough that everybody hears about it, and then they can't shop in the dime store any more because they can't get their chauffeur to stop outside of it.

Well, one of these rich oil guys from Texas went to New York, and while he was there at a hotel his little boy started to cry for a violin. He called the hotel clerk and told him to get some violin man to come and show some of his goods.

So that afternoon a Frenchman came up with a couple of colored helpers, carrying a dozen violins.

The kid began picking up the violins, after they were out of their cases, and playing on them the best he knew how. The oil man turned around and saw the kid scraping at one and he says to the dealer, "How about that one the kid has hold of now?"

"Why, that one is an old one—two hundred and forty years old."

"Well," says the oil man, "he'll have to get along with an old one at first, till he learns how to play. And it don't sound any worse than most of the new ones, as far as that's concerned. Better just leave that one and send me a bill."

A JIMMY—NOT A TARIFF

By Herbert Kaufman

THE Higher-Cost-of-Living Act, alias the Hawley Tariff Bill, won't be recognizable by the time it becomes a statute.

If truth were told, even Reed Smoot, Defender of the Faith, will be delighted if the greedy proposal emerges from debate, 75 per cent intact.

Drafting committees always present their recommendations with tongue in cheek. Experience warns 'em to suggest heavier duties than they expect in finally approved schedules.

Tailors must cut MORE cloth than the ACTUAL suit requires, and every special interest adds a political trading margin to its protection demands. Like Cairene bazaar hagglers, each industrial group asks TWICE what it hopes to secure, then statistically rends beard and gabardine, predicts breadlines, and cries "discrimination," when a comparison of padded claims and income statements reveals intended purse snatching.

CURRENT prosperity and corporation reports DENY the necessity for a general upward revision.

Production records deny it. Foreign competitive conditions deny it. And dividend rates deny it.

Company earnings and reserves, stock positions and market absorptions, bear witness that business is making peak sales and profits—and lies in its throat when lobbying spokesmen juggle figures to the contrary.

Depend upon it, neither House nor Senate dares pass the Hawley measure until the instrument is purged of rapacity and deprived of pocket-picking licenses.

Club women, housewives' leagues and farmer organizations are already mobilizing their voting strength and marching in counter-offensive.

THE consuming public, better informed than in PRE-RADIO days, is picking rods for Washington hired-men who consent to deliver larders, wardrobes and tool-sheds to price-boosters.

Commerce is entitled to safe and generous returns upon investment—entitled to legislative guarantees that his wage levels, overhead and liberalities of management shall not handicap the American manufacturer against cheaper processed European exports.

But wherever scale of operation, greater efficiency and control of basic products enable domestic concerns to make goods for less than world rivals—and whenever stockholder reports and federal tax payments PROVE that these concerns are flourishing, expanding and putting melons on ice—their presence in the Oliver Twist line can only be interpreted as a profiteering conspiracy.

We are no longer infant industrialists. Hundreds of our group enterprises have passed the competitive phase.

IN CERTAIN fields America enjoys patent monopolies or natural advantages with which even pauper wage-levels can't cope.

To subsidize further such powerfully entrenched blocs, or similarly to favor a host of lesser (BUT JUST AS DOMINANT) business divisions, would invite the suspicion that Congress is paying campaign debts, at public expense—or wagging tails for election marrow-bones to COME.

The Republican platform promised to keep wheels spinning and smoke-stacks belching, but it ALSO pledged a square deal to the man behind the plow, the girl across the counter, and the woman before the cook-stove.

Write to your Congressman, brandish a ballot in his face, and remind him he's YOUR watch-dog, too.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

SOMETIMES people write me mad letters about this department. They disagree with my opinions. They say, in very decided language, that they do not like me. And, evidently, they expect me to come right back with a lot of red hot objections.

This always amuses me. Naturally, like every normal human, I like to be liked. But as far as YOU are concerned, and the possible value of this department to YOU, it doesn't matter in the least whether you like me or not.

NOR DOES IT EVEN MATTER WHETHER YOU LIKE THE ARTICLES OR ENDORSE MY OPINIONS. THE ONLY THING THAT MATTERS IS THAT THEY MAKE YOU THINK.

That is the value of ANY experience—THE THOUGHT IT STARTS IN YOU. And if you can once grip that idea, EVERY experience will be of value to you and every person will be helpful—whether you like them or not.

We waste a tremendous amount of time and energy in disliking people and circumstances. We pass up priceless opportunities because we will not progress beyond our own antagonism. We commit ourselves to certain peeves and prejudices which we dignify by calling "principles." And all the time the world goes on, filled with innumerable new thoughts and adventures which we do not share because we have decided that we don't agree or approve of them.

How silly! Kicking at the prodigious programme of life just because it doesn't suit our little personal pattern. We might as well refuse to look at the radiant heavens because the stars aren't put in evenly!

DON'T PASS UP ANYTHING!

DON'T DUCK FROM ANY FACT OR ANY PERSON THAT COMES YOUR WAY!

DISAGREE WITH THE FACTS AND DISLIKE THE PERSON IF YOU WISH, BUT DON'T LET THAT KEEP YOU FROM GETTING THE MOST OUT OF THEM.

For, be assured, there is something in every experience and in every personality for you.

That radical theory, which shocks you so, may stimulate you, through the very shock, into vigorous new thought. That irritating person may help you see your own weaknesses or may add amazingly to your store of humor and shrewdness and understanding.

INDEED, THE EXPERIENCE THAT MAKES YOU MAD, OR EVEN SAD, MAY BE INFINITELY MORE HELPFUL TO YOU THAN THE EXPERIENCE WHICH MAKES YOU GLAD.

For the irritating and upsetting experience may crack the tight wall of your complacency and release you to greater power and broader life.

After all, partner, your LIKES are apt to be your worst handicap. For as long as you allow them to limit your progress you won't make any! You will stay tied to yourself. Of all forms of slavery, that's the worst.

So take a chance. Let yourself get interested in people and things even if you don't like them. Let YOURSELF EVEN GET INTERESTED IN ME!

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

Her Garden

In her garden where she passes
Joyous hours each day,
Cluster fragrant flowers and grasses,
Lovely lilies sway.

Here are hyacinths and roses,
Here are hollyhocks,
Gold chrysanthemum uncloses,
Lilacs shade the walks.

Leaves of stately poplars flutter
High against the sky,
Through the willows soft winds utter
Plaintive song and sigh.

Here are tulips, pinks and daisies;
Violet and rue
Border gorgeous garden mazes
She will wander through.

Yet, in spite of all these graces
Blooming hour to hour,
She who through her garden paces
Is its fairest flower!

The Moral of This Picture Is—

Don't Set Fire to Your Wife.

THE DOOR OPENS FOR PEACOX

Here stands Earle Peacox, young wife murderer, fastened by handcuffs to Sheriff Cherico, delivering him to the Sing Sing prison.

Crime doesn't pay.

This young murderer first strangled his wife, like a vile coward, then poured kerosene over her body and set fire to it. He said he burned his young wife because he was afraid it would hurt the feelings of his wife's mother to see her daughter's dead body—so he decided to burn her up.

She is gone, poor young woman. Whatever her mistakes in life, at least she didn't strangle or burn anybody.

The murderer stands quite pleased with himself, apparently, as the photograph is taken.

On his right, just beyond the Sheriff, to whom he is handcuffed, stands the open door to SING SING, and on the other side of that door there is no cheerfulness.

No "lively parties" are "thrown" there. Cocktail shakers and bootleg gin are not available.

It is a dreary life, with regular hours.

Having thrown away your freedom, and your right to control yourself, OTHERS control you.

You GO TO BED when told, get up when told, eat what is put before you, WORK when told.

CRIME DOES NOT PAY.

This young man having ignored that fact goes to jail to serve a term of "from 20 years to life."

Under the best conditions he will be long past 40 when he comes out.

That look of defiance will be gone from his eyes then. PRISON WILL BE STAMPED ALL OVER HIM. The most fortunate thing that could happen to him would be death before his term ends.

CRIME DOES NOT PAY.

Work may be tiresome and it may seem slow.

But work in freedom is a good deal better than work in Sing Sing.

Crime Does not pay.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Gloom thickens among musicians attached to movie theater orchestras. Their number is thinning and while the optimists are crying: "Everything is going to be all right, yes, sir!" the majority believe it is whistling in the dark.

Coupled with this dilemma there is a complete abandonment of orchestras at dramas and comedies. Until a year ago there was at least a four-piece orchestra to play while the audience was seated and at intermission. Today the orchestra pits, filled with seats, are in eloquent silence.

People, it seems, would rather talk before the curtain goes up. Most big talkie houses have no orchestras. The Winter Garden used to employ around 75 musicians the year around. Now it has none. On a lesser scale this condition is being multiplied by every city in the country.

New York has always been the orchestral capital. No musician could go long without a job, what with the movies, the theaters, the cabarets, the night clubs, road houses and symphony orchestras. Cabarets have cut down the size of orchestras, for dancing, too, is on the wane.

The big skillet-slapping organizations with their rythmic punctilo, have shrunk to a muted quartet, and in two of the smartest new hotel dining rooms the orchestras are composed of a piano, violin and cello. The number of musicians thrown out of work recently reaches thousands. And more are being let out daily.

Of course, the condition that exists in New York is more acute for those employed in lesser municipalities because opportunities are more limited. Radio work has offered an outlet for a few, but the radio, generally speaking, has aided in adding to the jobless army.

The big shots—Paul Whiteman, etc.—are not troubled, what with the talkies keeping top-notchers busy, but many excellent musicians are turning to other work. Hope is held out that synchronized sound is a fad and that the revolving cycle will again demand musicians in the flesh. But it is only a hope. Nobody is certain.

One of the interesting churches in New York is the Eglise de Notre Dame, perched on a high driveway near West 110th street. It is attended chiefly by French Catholics, and the altar was hewn out of an original stone in a Manhattan cliff.

A whipper-snapper of 18 confesses swiping one of the canes with a search light handle out of a haberdashery because he wanted to look like a man about town. In adolescent days when some of us ached to be looked upon as the town roue, a diamond ring looped about a four-in-hand tie seemed to symbolize the farthest north in worldliness.

It is reallaby reported a secret agreement exists among theater owners on the Rialto to refuse to rent theaters to anyone trying to produce at popular prices, no matter how worthy the effort. That is why the extraordinarily talented Eva La Gallienne had to rent an outmoded tumbledown theater on Fourteenth street to exploit her Utopian idea and popular priced experimentation. This may turn out to be an added boomerang for a wobbling institution. Miss Le Gallienne packs them in and her customers are largely Social Registerites.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

"YOU can tell by the way he is speaking that he is talking to his wife." Ever heard such an expression after a married man had been telephoning to his wife in a more or less public place?

Often the man who is courteous and gentlemanly when speaking to other women is gruff and curt when his wife is at the other end of the wire.

Wives don't like this at any time, but they feel the sting more deeply when they know that others in the same office with their husbands recognize their rudeness to them.

If for no other reason than the pleasure it gives his wife a husband should be as polite over the phone when speaking to her as to other women.

If his wife calls him unnecessarily there might be some excuse for a man to be short and uncommunicative.

If she calls him to discuss family matters and trivial things a man has a right to be displeased.

Wives should remember that working hours belong to the employer.

Only the most important matters should be telephoned to a man at his place of business.

There are not many such instances.

When they come the conversation should not be prolonged.
